Smiles Come Back.
Bad News for Karl Marx.
Why Not Keep Our Gold?
Fly, Only, When Birds Fly.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ON TUESDAY wage reductions were announced by big corporations. Yesterday stocks went up in Wall Street, railroads were especially buoyant. Important industrials cheerful and higher.

Smiles have blossomed in Wall Street ever since Monday, when it was discovered that Britain's suspension of the gold standard was really a good thing for the United States as well as Britain.

LABOR THAT objects to wage reductions, may find some comfort in the fact that a 10 per cent deduction may mean before long a 100 per cent increase in general prosperity, with restoration of wages.

Big industrialists know that it is to their own interest to restore wages, and raise them even higher. Everybody knows now that PROSPERITY DEPENDS ON THE SURPLUS EARNINGS OF WORKERS AND THEIR ABILITY TO BUY WHAT THEY CREATE.

THOSE TO WHOM the word "Russia" is anathema will learn with glee that Britain's gold action, believed to be an excellent thing for us, as well as for Britain, is expected to cost Russia about $25,000,000 a year through diminished exports.

It will amuse our "best minds" when they realize that Britain's move away from gold, called by the ignorant "a blow to capitalism" will hurt Communism, and help capitalism. You can imagine Karl Marx and Lenin rolling over in their graves.

Bad boys in Wall street are inclined to exult and say that Britain's degringolade from the gold standard, is a sort of "triumph" for the United States.

We have the gold STANDARD and we have the GOLD. One plain-spoken "big operator" in Wall street, changing suddenly from "bear" to "bull," said:

"The news from England will relieve the world as lancing a boil relieves the owner of the boil."

MIGHT IT BE WISE for the United States, taking the advice of a financial writer employed by Mr. Cyrus H. K. Curtis, to "loosen up," which means inflating the currency reasonably, putting out at least enough additional money to offset the five to eight hundred millions in currency supposed to be hidden away in mattresses, stockings and safe deposit vaults by the foolishly frightened?

AND WOULD IT be a good thing for the government to say:

"We have the gold, and we intend to keep it, since it seems to exercise so much influence on the world's imagination. We don't know just how much it really amounts to, but, even if it were only a financial rabbit's foot, we don't intend to let it go. No gold shall leave the United States from now on. If other nations don't like our currency they need not take it."

AN INTERESTING load of Americans sailed on the Bremen last Tuesday. Chief Engineer Kettering, of General Motors, discussing flying accidents, said:

"Men should fly only when the birds fly. They have been flying for many millions of years, and know. They do not fly at night, or in a fog, or in very heavy wind, any longer than it takes them to land and stop flying."

W. S. KNUDSEN, also of General Motors and president of the Chevrolet Company, on his way to inspect General Motors plants in Denmark, where he was born; in Sweden, Germany, etc., thinks the world is fairly cheerful.

He had just called on the able Swift brothers in Chicago, to thank them for ordering 1,000 Chevrolet trucks at one time, and look over their plant.

He learned that in depression times people eat as much meat as ever, for the reason that they can't get along without it. But they eat less of the most costly meat.

ONE GROUP of passengers interesting those that ask "What is Russia doing?" included "Roxy," moving picture impressario, who will have charge of motion picture houses in New York's new "Rockefeller city," to cost $250,000,000.

"Roxy," with five architects, interested in "Rockefeller city," will meet in Berlin a special train sent from Moscow to show them new things in theater lighting and motion picture production that the Russians have developed, superior to our own work.

Who would have thought that?

IT IS CHARMING to see Japan, politely drawing in her breath with Oriental politeness, saying to the League of Nations:

"You attend to your own business and I shall attend to mine."

Brig. Gen. Reilly, of the United States Reserve Corps, informs you that in time of war, the Japanese prime minister, foreign secretary, the war and navy secretaries, become dummies.

The chiefs of staffs in the army and navy deal directly with the Emperor and go straight to him.

In this little trouble, if they, metaphorically banging their heads on the floor at the Mikado's feet, say "We wish to win this war by the virtue of the Emperor," they can go ahead and win it, while the League looks on. Their "government" has nothing to say.

Believed on Journey To Discuss Charge Of Murder

HAMPTON, Va., Sept. 24.—(INS.)—Prof. Elisha Kent Kane, charged with deliberately drowning his wife, today was believed possibly keeping a secret appointment with Mrs. Elizabeth Harris Dahl, mentioned as "the other woman" in his life.

Accompanied by his lawyer-cousin, E. Kent Kane, the professor left mysteriously for an unknown destination in an automobile. It was believed they would meet Mrs. Dahl, either in Washington, Philadelphia or New York, and talk over the case.

It was the professor's first departure from the scene since his arrest in connection with the drowning and subsequent release under $15,000 bail.

It was the romantic correspondence between Mrs. Dahl and the University of Tennessee professor which produced frequent quarrels between him and his wife.

U. S. STUDIES LEGALIZING BEER; LEGION VOTES DRY REFERENDUM

'REPEATER' CONFESSES FRAUDS

Judge Orders Him Before Jury Probe; Tampering Bared by Return Board

BULLETIN.

Frank Johnson, 25, 1302 West street, Homestead, today pleaded guilty before Judge James H. Gray to a charge of illegal voting and admitted he had voted "four or five times."

He agreed to go before the grand jury now investigating alleged election thieveries and was taken there immediately with this advice from Judge Gray:

"Tell all you know and you will get credit for it. If you don't, you will be sorry."

At almost the same time, W. J. Gilmartin, a McGovern watcher sitting with the recount board, announced that that body had discovered evidences of "many repeaters" in the ballot box of the First District of Wilmerding, then being counted. The district went strongly for Armstrong and its box was impounded after McGovern had been told that 300 marked ballots had been placed in it before the polls opened.

Evidence of altered return sheets and ballot box tampering was discovered today as the returning board continued its official count of the primary election votes.

Attorney Edward O. Spotts, Jr., representing County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, showed Judge Elder W. Marshall and George V. Moore, in charge of the returning board, a tally sheet which had been submitted to the returning board for compilation of its figures and which contained visible erasures and alterations.

It was from the second district of the Ninth Ward.

TOTALS VARY

Spotts said the totals now visible on the sheet did not correspond to those on its duplicate which was posted at the polls election night.

Spotts said the figures posted at the polls had been copied by McGovern workers that night and gave that candidate 84 votes to Armstrong's 224. The new and "official" figures, he said, gave Armstrong 338 to McGovern's 111, a net gain of 87 for Armstrong.

He pointed out to the judges that the old figures, erased, were visible below the new.

BOX ORDERED OPENED

The judges then ordered the returning board to open the box and recount the County Commissioner vote.

The ballot box of the Fourth District of the Ninth Ward was ordered opened for a recheck of all votes when the returning board discovered that all so-called

COUNT GUIDES ARMSTRONG

By MARK SHIELDS

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong in a statement today intimated that he would not be a candidate for re-election in November unless the canvass by the official return board of the primary finds he received one of the two Republican nominations.

In the same statement Armstrong said:

"I sincerely believe that I have been legitimately nominated."

He requested that "one-sided criticism of me in this matter be deferred until the duly constituted legal authorities have given their impartial verdict."

JAIL DRIVER AS KILLER OF NURSE

Suspect on Visit to Girl Captured as Police With Guns Surround House

Police with drawn guns surrounded a house in Kirwan Heights, Collier Township, early today and arrested Charles Slack, 28, of Branch street, Robinson Township, as the driver of the hit-run automobile which killed Miss Blanche Hensley, 50, nurse in the county home at Woodville, September 10.

Slack admitted, Police Chief Chris H. Keisling and his brother, Lieut. Harry Keisling, of Carnegie, said, that he was driver of the automobile which struck the nurse as she was crossing the road near the county home following her return from a vacation trip to Cleveland. Slack fled, Chief Keisling said he told him, because he was in trouble. Slack is out on $1,000 bail bond on a morality charge, Chief Keisling declared.

The arrest resulted after Chief Keisling and his brother and Constable Harry Sizer, of Collier Township, had traced the ownership of more than 270 automobiles answering the description of the death car. Assuming that the car had been damaged when it struck down the nurse, the officers searched garages until they found one repaired recently. It was Slack's, the officers said.

Receiving a "tip" that Slack was visiting a girl in Kirwan Heights, the Carnegie police and Constable Sizer made a hurried trip there, surrounded the house and demanded that Slack surrender. Slack, the officers said, attempted to flee, but when he saw he was cornered surrendered.

Mercury to Drop To 50s Tonight

The mercury will drop to around 50 tonight, the Weather Bureau predicted today as the temperature ranged in the 60s, more than 20 degrees below the prevailing daylight peak of the last few weeks. Tomorrow, however, warmer weather is scheduled to arrive, followed by showers Friday night or Saturday.

Pittsburgh Coal Makes Salary Cut

A salary reduction averaging 10 per cent was announced today by the Pittsburgh Coal Company and its subsidiaries. The cut, which was effective September 1, applies only to officers and salaried employes, it was stated.

Wage Cuts by Stock-Inflated Corporations Only Aggravate Depression, Says W. R. Hearst

Several of the greatest corporations in the United States have cut the salaries of their employes 10 per cent, and by so doing have contributed their utmost toward the aggravation of the depression and the accentuation of the injustice already inflicted upon the wage earners of the country and the elements dependent on the welfare of these workers.

The immediate cause for this cut in wages to workers is the present difficulty that the corporations have in paying dividends on their stock, but the actual and elemental cause is the issuance by these corporations of more stock than they are capable of paying dividends on.

It may be taken as an axiomatic fact that if corporations issue stock to the limit of their capacity to pay dividends upon in good times, they will not be able to pay dividends upon it in bad times.

Periods of inflation and depression alternate and it is obvious that if you capitalize to the utmost on the crest of the wave of prosperity you will have to pass dividends on this watered stock in the trough of the wave of depression.

One of the fundamental causes of the present period of depression in the United States is over-speculation, plus over-capitalization. A number of inexcusable and unpardonable evil practices have been perpetrated upon the community.

First, advantage was taken of the speculative complex on the part of the public to unload upon the community an enormous amount of utterly worthless so-called securities.

This was pure and simple swindling of the Ponzi variety, and the perpetrators of these frauds have not gone to jail as Ponzi did simply because they operated upon a scale large enough and impressive enough to be considered respectable, and, second, because many of these great firms have been engaged in the business of swindling the public long enough to have the sanctity of custom and convention behind them.

These worthless stocks have depreciated to practically no value at all and the money of all the little speculators has been gathered into the pockets of the big promoters.

Another kind of inflation, while not criminal, is nevertheless entirely evil and wholly unjust, not only to the investing public but to the laboring masses. This evil practice consists of the over-capitalization of a legitimate business.

The extensive invention of labor-saving machinery has in the last few years greatly decreased the cost of production and increased the profits of enterprise.

It is quite clearly evident that some part of the advantage of labor-saving machinery should go to the consumer in reduced prices for products, and some part of the advantage should go to the wage earners in increased wages and shorter hours, and that under no standards of equity and national advantage should the capitalist class, meaning thereby the owners of enterprise and the employers of labor, absorb all the benefit of these increased profits.

But these owners and employers have not only absorbed practically all the benefits of increased profits created by labor-saving machinery and improvements in production, but they have devised a means of permanently depriving the working classes of their legitimate share in these benefits.

The method is to capitalize industry to the full extent of its increased profits. That is to say, if a business making 8 per cent has by labor-saving machinery and other improvements in production increased its profits to 25 per cent, this business instead of allowing labor participation in the increased profits, proceeds to triple its capitalization and thereby to reduce profits again to 8 per cent per share on account of the threefold stock issue.

Furthermore, if this high capitalization is made at a time of high prosperity, the dividends on that over-capitalization cannot be paid adequately, if at all, in periods of depression.

As a consequence, not only has the working man been deprived of his share of the benefits of modern methods and machinery, but if dividends are not maintained on the inflated securities, the

HYDE SURVEY SEEKS AID TO FARMS

Factions Speculate on Result Of Administration Move; Secretary Silent on Aim

The fight for prohibition modification was worked today by these developments:

1. Secretary of Agriculture Hyde admitted in Washington the government was conducting a survey to determine the effect on the farmer of legalized beer.

2. The American Legion national convention voted 3 to 1 in favor of submitting the dry question to a national referendum by the states.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—An official inquiry into the possibilities of legalized beer, directed toward the effect on the farmer, is being undertaken by the federal government.

Secretary Hyde disclosed today that the Agriculture Department was seeking data on how a resumption of legitimate brewing would be felt on the farm.

Among those who want to see President Hoover come out for beer—and many in his party have urged him to do so—the news was received with hope that it meant at least an open mind toward their proposals.

DRYS SPECULATE

Among those who want the administration and the Republican party to stay as dry as ever—and they are numerous, too—the result was just renewed speculation, to which there was no authoritative answer.

Those who questioned Hyde directly got little more information

Kline Calls Armstrong's Charge on Rug False

Mayor Charles H. Kline today denied with an affidavit to support his denial that the $3,000 rug in his office was first used in his home before being laid in the Mayor's office. Assuming that County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong was talking about him when Armstrong, several days ago, commented on a $3,000 rug, Mayor Kline declared:

"During my absence from the city, the public press quoted County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong as making certain statements which reflect upon my honor and integrity. Commissioner Armstrong was quoted as follows:

"No tax dodger and no man who bought a $3,000 rug for his home with the taxpayers' money and then moved it to the office when publicity started, is going to take the nomination away from me.

"You newspaper fellows didn't know that rug was in his home for a while did you?"

"Commissioner Armstrong's statement is false. I am amazed that a man of his standing and in whom I have always had confidence and trust, would make such a statement without proper investigation as to its truth or falsity, and the only conclusion I can come to is that it was made during one of his idle and peevish moments when his mind was in a turmoil over the recent primaries.

"So that the people may know the real truth, I am submitting attached affidavit of Mr. George Rieland, manager of the rug department of the Joseph Horne Company, one of the most reputable business institutions in this city."

OVER-SEA FLIGHTS INDICATED FOR AIR GIANT AKRON

DIRIGIBLE GAINS SUPREMACY FOR NATION

Maiden Trip Success Spurs Navy's Plans for Future Demonstrations Abroad

AKRON, O., Sept. 24—(AP.)—The name of the U. S. S. Akron was inscribed today at the top of the bright scroll of aviation achievements.

Staffed with the colors of the United States, the new pride of the Navy soared aloft in maiden flight for 3 hours and 47 minutes yesterday afternoon, and when it descended carried with it the supremacy of lighter-than-air ships.

A second test flight of the big airship was set for tonight by naval officials.

Yesterday's success was amply evidenced in the chorus of approval from high government officials and technical experts who went along on the 125-mile flight as observers.

PASSENGER RECORD

The silver-hulled leviathan of the skyways carried 113 men passengers and crew which sets a new record for America and is believed to be the greatest passenger list of any airship in the world.

Already the Navy is speculating on the manifold cruising possibilities revealed in the initial flight. The Akron has a cruising range of 11,000 miles at 50 knots.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett said:

"We expect to learn lessons far beyond those taught by the operations and experiences of the Los Angeles and the Graf Zeppelin because of the designed superiority of the Akron.

"Perhaps there will be trips over the Atlantic, perhaps to far-off lands now inaccessible, and perhaps over the Pacific—to Hawaii, Guam and maybe beyond.

"Trials with completion of the Akron the United States resumes world leadership in lighter-than-air craft."

NOTABLES ABOARD

Commanding the Akron was Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, former skipper of the Los Angeles and a survivor of the wreck of the Shenandoah which occurred six years ago, not far from the birthplace of the Akron.

Aboard were Charles F. Adams, secretary of the Navy; Rear Admiral Moffett; David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the Navy for aeronautics, and Paul W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, builders of the Akron.

Shortly after 3:30 p. m. to the booming salute of 21 guns the Akron weighed off. Two hundred thousand landlubbers burst into a roar of cheers.

The colors of the United States snapped in the breeze aft, while from the control car was unfurled the Secretary of the Navy's pennant.

As the ship rose lamely to about 200 feet, the sun burst through the clouds, turning the cigar-shaped giant into burnished silver.

At 8:15, in a blaze of lights, she was made snug in her dock, a successful flight recorded on the log.

Additional flights will be made at once, it was indicated by the Navy.

UPTOWN BANK FAILS TO OPEN

Recent heavy withdrawals reducing the funds of the Merchants Savings and Trust Company, 1410 Fifth avenue, below legal reserve, forced the closing of the institution today by J. D. Swigart, chief examiner of the State Banking Department.

Mr. Swigart said the bank had resources of approximately $1,200,000 and deposits amounting to $900,000. The bank had about 2,000 depositors.

E. R. Kopp, president and Edward Breitwieser, vice president and secretary, are the principal officers of the institution. They were quoted as having said the depositors would be protected in full.

A notice posted on the door of the bank announced the closing. A short time later, about two dozen persons, mostly depositors, collected at the doors.

William D. Gordon, secretary of banking, at Harrisburg, said the institution had no affiliation with any other bank or trust company. The bank's latest report, June 30, showed deposits $1,003,290. It was capitalized at $125,000 with a surplus of $75,000 and undivided profits of $13,505.

Execution Stayed In Murder Tangle

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—(INS.)—A 30-day respite for Samuel Gallo, scheduled to die in the electric chair after next Monday night, was recommended to the executive council today by Gov. Joseph B. Ely.

The Governor stated he wanted further time to study the strange case. Two men were convicted of the same slaying by different juries, with one defendant, Gangi Cero, having been freed from the death house when Gallo was found guilty of shooting Joseph Fantasia four years ago.

BRITISH EXPECT ELECTION SOON

LONDON, Sept. 24.—A general election late in October on the tariff issue became a definite possibility today.

Conservative leaders, drawing assurances from the favorable reaction of the stock exchange to the new monetary situation, expressed the belief there was nothing in the country's financial or economic situation to delay an election and began to lay plans to dissolve Parliament as soon as pending economy legislation has been enacted.

Protesting against reductions in the dole, thousands of unemployed men and women today staged demonstrations in London, Glasgow and other industrial centers.

Carrying banners declaring they would "fight or starve," 50,000 unemployed paraded on Glasgow Green, singing the "Red Flag" and the "Internationale." No violence was reported.

Miss Bondfield Will Attend Labor Parley

TUNBRIDGE WELLS, England, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Miss Margaret Bondfield, former Minister of Labor, who is suffering from a nervous breakdown, today received permission from her physician to visit her constituency at Wallsend tomorrow.

It was said she will not be well enough to stand the strain of a public meeting, but will be able to confer with the members of the Labor Party committee.

NAVY ARMS CUT PROTESTED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Contending that the United States cannot disarm while disturbed conditions prevail throughout the world, backers of an adequate Navy today prepared to launch a counter-offensive to preserve the nation's "first line of defense."

Not only will congressional friends of the Navy resist efforts to cripple the present moderate building program, but they will insist that steps be taken to build the Navy up to the London treaty, Representative Fred A. Britten (Rep.) of Illinois, chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, called for a "treaty Navy," He asserted:

"I believe this period of world depression is not the time to economize on Naval and Army appropriations. Not only Asia, with its trouble between Japan and China, but Europe is sitting on a volcano which may involve the world in another war. If Russia should take sides with China against Japan in Manchuria, a most serious world situation would be on us overnight."

FOUND GUILTY IN FAGAN PLOT

Frederick Schneider today was found guilty in Criminal Court of six charges in connection with the attempted assassination of Patrick T. Fagan, district president of the United Mine Workers of America, and the robbery of Charles Rutzel.

Judge Sylvester J. Snee sentenced him to not less than 10 years or more than 20 years in the Western Penitentiary.

Schneider was accused of being the companion of Pat Murphy when the latter was killed by Fagan as he attempted to assassinate the labor leader in his Brookline home last July. He also was charged with pulling a gun on the driver of a cab which he and Murphy were said to have hired as their get-away car. Rutzel, who lives in Shaw avenue, early today identified Schneider as the man who held him up in Northumberland street in July, robbing him of $53.

The prisoner was convicted of robbery, attempted robbery, two charges of carrying concealed weapons, conspiracy and pointing fire arms.

Abandoned Car Line Appraisers Named

Judge Nelson McVicar in Federal Court today appointed Edward S. Taub and John W. Guilday appraisers of all tangible property of the Pittsburgh, Mars and Butler Railway Company and the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle Railway Company, preparatory to sale of the property, set for October 7. The appointment was made on petition of Maurice R. Scharff, receiver for both companies which recently ceased operations.

TOKIO PROMISES U. S. TO QUIT MANCHURIA

Stimson Fears Japanese Trouble With Russia If Troops Occupy Harbin

By PIERCE MILLER
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Withdrawal of Japanese troops from the south Manchurian (China) cities to the railroad zones, which they are entitled to occupy under treaty, was promised the State Department today by Katsuji Debuchi, Japanese ambassador.

He told Secretary of State Stimson, however, he could not predict how soon the withdrawal could be effected.

He advised Stimson that Harbin in north Manchuria had not been occupied and that there were no Japanese troops north of Changchung on the border dividing south Manchuria from the northern part of the province. No Americans have been killed, he said.

Debuchi asserted he told Stimson that he felt convinced the situation is rapidly clearing and would be amicably settled to the satisfaction of the powers.

Stimson declined to discuss the situation with newspaper men other than to say it was developing along lines he had anticipated. There were indications at the State Department, however, that conflicting claims of the Chinese and Japanese governments added confusion to this government's understanding of the controversy.

Acting in concert with the Council of the League of Nations, though independently, Stimson sent notes to China and Japan in effect urging withdrawal of Japanese troops from Mukden and other Southern Manchurian towns.

The State Department is watching with some concern the reported imminent occupation of Harbin by Japanese troops. The fear is felt that Russia may become involved if Japan attempts to extend her influence in that section of Manchuria where Russia has treaty interests in connection with control of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Stimson declined to answer questions regarding the significance of the only known action he has taken.

In connection with reports that Ambassador Debuchi had expressed the view that the presence of Japanese soldiers in Manchuria was similar to presence of American Marines in Nicaragua, Stimson's reply was:

"My answer to that is a broad smile."

Japan Wrecks Plant Using U. S. Materials

PEIPING, Sept. 24.—(INS.)—Japanese soldiers wrecked a Chinese trench mortar and truck factory at Mukden because American materials were being used, according to charges made today by Gen. Li High, who arrived here to report to his chief, Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang. Gen. Li said two Americans, W. A. Mitchell and D. F. Meyers, of Indiana, helped him to escape from the Japanese. Meyers is manager of the truck factory.

BATAVIA, Java, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, who left Wyndham, Australia, for England today in an attempt to establish a new flight record, arrived at Cheribon, Dutch East Indies, this afternoon. He planed to fly to Victoria Point, Burma, tomorrow.

investor is deprived of his just return on his investment.

Now comes the "last scene of all, that ends this strange eventful history." The over-capitalized stock depreciates and earnings decrease and finally dividends are passed.

AND THEN the working people, who were not allowed to participate in the advantages of large earnings, are made to participate in the disadvantages due to over-capitalization and maladministration.

WAGES ARE CUT, thus placing the whole burden of over-speculation, over-capitalization, maladministration and the resultant depression on the already strained backs of an element which was in no way responsible for these evil conditions.

But not only does the working man suffer from this injustice, but so do the shops where he spends his money and so do the factories from which the shops buy their goods to sell to the masses, and so do the farms and the mines which produce the raw material to supply the factories.

And so do all the workers in shops and factories and mines and farms.

Mr. Swope, of the General Electric Company, has lately evolved a remedy for depression which remedies nothing. It is not a cure. It is at best a palliative. It does not assume to prevent a calamity. It merely endeavors to minimize the evils of the calamity.

It merely informs you how you may suffer the least of discomfort and inconvenience when the Empire State Building falls upon you. It does not provide any effective means to prevent the Empire State from falling on you.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of palliative, especially when the palliative shrewdly contains added latitude, laxity and license for the very corporations which are already responsible for many of the evils which created the depression to repeat the evils on a greater scale and precipitate another and greater depression.

Our fine American scientists who accomplished their historic triumph over yellow fever did not discover merely how to endure yellow fever, or even how eventually to recover from yellow fever after you once had it. They discovered how to prevent yellow fever.

What scientific finance must discover now is not merely how to endure depression and not merely how eventually to get over each depression by the loss of most of one's peace of mind and most of one's property, and by the payment of high taxes and the practice of severe economies.

The thing for scientific American finance to discover, and for scientific statesmanship to provide, is how to PREVENT depressions.

And that means how to prevent the plunder of the public through over-speculation and through over-capitalization.

And it means, too, a system to provide the working masses with proper participation in increased profits due to labor-saving machinery and modern methods.

And that means shorter hours as well as better wages for the workers.

And that means more joy of life for the masses of the people and greater consuming power in the community and greater prosperity for the shops and the factories and the mines and the farms.

It means a better and juster distribution of wealth, and a higher standard of living and more health and happiness for every human being in the nation.

AND THE WHOLE OBJECT OF SOCIETY AND CIVILIZATION IS TO ACCOMPLISH JUST THESE BENEFITS.

We do not want Communism in this country, and what is more, we do not intend to have it, but the way to prevent Communism is to make capitalism perform its full duty to the public and that is what scientific American finance and patriotic American statesmanship must proceed promptly to do.

'Bossy' Gillis Faces Councilmanic Probe

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Sept. 24.—(INS.)—When Mayor Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis returns home tomorrow from the American Legion convention in Detroit, he will find that his City Council has requested an investigation into his administration.

District Attorney Hugh Gregg was requested to probe "Bossy's" supervision of new street construction. Among the charges was one that Gillis "soaked" the city for gasoline supplied to city trucks at his station.

Children May Save Father from Chair

HARRISBURG, Sept. 24.—(INS.)—Pleas that the State Pardon Board not "disgrace" the two children of Charles Haney, of Yardley, by permitting electrocution of the father on first degree murder charges, today had won for Haney a recommendation from the board that his sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

Haney was sentenced to death for the murder of his wife at their home last October 11.

Iowa State Troops Force Cattle Tests

TIPTON, Ia., Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Residents of this small county seat watched activity at the Iowa National Guard encampment here expectantly today, awaiting the troopers' first move to test cattle on farms of Cedar County objectors to the state Bovine Tuberculin Test Law. Tests were discontinued Monday after 200 farmers withstood 65 sheriff's deputies and veterinarians.

ADMINISTRATION DISPLEASED AT WAGE CUTS

Labor Also Assails Action Of Steel Concerns; 'Faith Broken,' Green Charges

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Dissatisfaction in the administration over wage-cutting evidenced itself today despite the continued reticence of most officials.

One highly-placed executive called the move in major industries another example of bad-thinking in business. Another was not so sure of it.

President Hoover kept his views to himself. Like so many others, he was keeping advised on the major happenings following the lowered-wage turn.

One that attracted serious attention today was the denunciatory statement by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, charging the steel corporations with breaking faith and taking an unsound, unjust policy.

BOTTOM BROKEN

While most prominent officials declined to state their views even privately, others were not so backward. One, for example, showed impatience with the changed wage policy of some corporations. He likened their action to punching a hole through a solid bottom, thus forcing construction of a new foundation at a lower level. He doubted that small industries generally would follow the example set by the leaders.

Green said:

"No greater blow than this has yet been struck against the forces which have been and are now serving to bring about a return of prosperity."

The labor chieftain maintained that the wage reducing corporations were the beneficiaries of a high protective tariff. This protection, he said, was granted upon the theory that it was necessary to uphold the American wage standard. He asserted:

"The United States Steel Corporation and those other corporations which have announced reductions in wages have subjected themselves to the charge that through the imposition of a reduction in wages upon their employes they have broken a solemn pledge which they made the President of the United States to maintain wages, and by their action have contributed to the development of social unrest and industrial discontent."

In contrast, Green contended, labor has kept the pledge given at the same White House conference of industrial and labor leaders in 1929. The premise was that it would initiate no new moves for increases in wages.

Senator Davis Scores Steel Industry Pay Cut

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—In reply to questions about the wage reductions, Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania, said:

"It was a great disappointment to me because the outstanding leaders of industry assured President Hoover that no wage reduction would be made during the present economic depression.

"The 'dog eat dog' policy of reckless price slashing has been going on in the steel industry for some time and in some instances the smaller concerns have decreased wages more than 20 per cent lower than the larger concerns.

"When the steel industry works full time it employes 1,000,000 workers at an average wage of a little more than $5 per day. I hope that those who have heretofore reduced wages more than 20 per cent will make no further reduction. A reduction of 10 per cent of this amount means that much reduction in buying power.

"What will it profit the steel and automobile industries, the latter using 90 per cent steel and steel alloys in the production of its products, if they curtail wages to the point that the workers cannot buy these products?"

Professor Assails Steel Wage Slash

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Prof. W. F. Leiserson, of five-day week or some other plan of reducing hours as a means of providing more jobs during the depression, denouncing United States and Bethlehem Steel Corporations for reducing wages, in speaking before the International Association of Public Employment Services here last night.

The Yellow Springs professor contended that Department of Commerce figures show American corporations paid eight billion dollars in interest and dividends in 1930, or half a billion more than in the peak year 1929.

'Army Family' Scion Wins Fight Against Illness

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Overcoming ill-health, Charles Hartwell Bonesteel III, of Washington, today became the fourth in his family line to win a commission in the Army upon graduation from West Point.

Bonesteel was stricken with influenza, pneumonia, and scarlet fever in succession last February while in his final year at West Point. He stood sixth in his class, was on the swimming and tennis teams and had just won a Rhodes scholarship for study at Oxford after graduation.

In view of his high academic standing, the War Department gave him his diploma in June and granted him three months' leave in which to regain his health. Yesterday Bonesteel won his fight at Walter Reed Hospital and Army doctors pronounced him physically satisfactory. The same day he was commissioned and ordered to sail October 10 for his studies in England.

Lieut. Bonesteel's great-grandfather won a medal of honor at Bull Run. His grandfather was cited for bravery at San Juan and his father served overseas during the World War.

WIFE TO CONFRONT SUSPECTS HELD IN YACHT MURDER

TWO MEN DENY CRIME IN GRILLING

Offer of Alibis Fails to Free Prisoners Jailed For Pirate Slaying Quiz

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

MINEOLA, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Two men who are said to resemble closely the assailants who beat Benjamin P. Collings to death aboard his cruiser Penguin were being detained today in the county jail here.

District Attorney Alexander Blue of Suffolk County, who questioned the men last night, seemed hopeful today that the two prisoners might furnish a clue to the mystery which has baffled police of two states.

The two men denied today that they had had anything to do with the murder. Both offered alibis to account for their presence on the night of September 9, when the crime was committed.

Despite their denial, Blue announced that Mrs. Lillian Collings, wife of the murdered man, had been asked to come to Mineola to view the men. She was to arrive today by ferry from Stamford.

The men now held are Timothy J. Quinn, 45, of Astoria, N. Y., and Carl Newkirk, 28, of Manhattan. Both were subjected to lengthy questioning this morning by Blue and other officials investigating the murder and by Felix De Martini, the private detective engaged by Blue.

De Martini announced that both men are employes of a hospital, but declined to name the institution. He said he was checking up on their story with hospital officials.

It was learned today that Mrs. Collings had spent most of yesterday with De Martini visiting various points on the Sound in a boat, in an effort to clear up such parts of her story as still remain obscure.

U. S. TO DECIDE TAX POLICY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Whether the administration will recommend tax revision is expected to be decided within a month or six weeks.

This became evident in high Treasury quarters today. Progress is being made on the study being conducted by the department's economic experts, but the stage has not yet been reached when the final verdict has evidenced itself.

The administration has sought to avoid tax increases. Though some believe revision of the tax system is unavoidable, others take the view that the government could meet its deficit this year as it did last through an increase of the public debt and delay tax revision for another year.

Lindy Urges Chinese Cut Flood Dykes

NANKING, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—As a result of the aerial surveys he and Mrs. Lindbergh have made of the flooded areas in northern Kiangsu Province, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has proposed to the Huai river conservancy commission that dykes along the sea coast in that area be broken. His idea is to permit waters now filling that basin from the east side of the Grand canal to flow into the sea.

The proposal is expected to be adopted. The conservancy board is grappling with the engineering problems brought about by the unprecedented flood. All the lowlands of northern Kiangsu are inundated.

The dykes were built originally to prevent the sea, especially at high tide, from overflowing the region, but they have held in the present emergency and now are keeping the river waters from draining off the flood area.

PASTOR'S TRIAL CALLS ROPER

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Daniel C. Roper, former Commissioner of Internal Revenue, went before the clergymen jury trying the Rev. William A. Shelton on charges involving Miss Carrie Williams, his former secretary, but it was not learned whether Roper appeared for the defense or the prosecution.

Defense representatives said their only witnesses at the session were five friends of Dr. Shelton, suspended pastor of Mt. Vernon Place M. E. Church, South, of Washington. After hearing the defense character witnesses the trial committee resumed with the prosecution.

Roper is a member of the Mount Vernon church's board of stewards. He was before the committee for about an hour.

GANDHI INSISTS ON COMPLETE LIBERTY

Thousands Ready to Die For Independence, He Tells British Parties

LONDON, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Squatting in his homespun cotton robes before a big meeting of Conservative, Liberal and Labor members at the House of Commons last night, Mahatma Gandhi voiced the strongest demand he has yet made in London for Indian independence.

In a gentle voice that seemed to soften his bold statements, the Indian Nationalist leader declared he would be satisfied with nothing short of complete independence.

Safeguards such as British control over the army and finance were unacceptable, he said, but complete independence does not exclude partnership with Britain on a basis of full equality. He declared:

"I will not accept the husks of independence, carrying with them safeguards and reservations. Rather would I declare myself a rebel. Thousands of Nationalists have shed themselves of the fear of death."

Representatives of all shades of British politics gave him rapt attention, among them being Megan Lloyd George, Jimmy de Rothschild, J. R. Clynes and Thomas Shaw.

One blustering member of Commons declared he didn't know much about the Indian question, but what he wanted to know was what the word "Mahatma" meant. Instantly Mr. Gandhi answered:

"It means an insignificant person."

The chairman explained the term meant "the embodiment of a great soul."

EPISCOPALIANS TO KEEP RULE ON DIVORCE

Liberals Give Up Hope of Important Change But Modification Is Sought

DENVER, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Liberalization of divorce and marriage canons appeared to have slight chance for approval by the Episcopal general convention yesterday as both the house of bishops and house of deputies prepared to consider the problem.

A substitute for the recommendations of the joint commission on divorce and marriage was presented to the deputies by the committee on canons. Although the conservative element is in the majority, liberals had not given up hope of modifying existing rules.

Priests at present are allowed to remarry a divorced person only when the person is an innocent party to a divorce on statutory grounds. The joint commission's report would eliminate this exception.

Creation of a laymen's group in the church, similar to the women's auxiliary, was authorized by adoption today of a resolution by the house of deputies following approval by the house of bishops.

The house of bishops adopted the budget of the national council of the church of $4,225,000 for 1932, practically as it was approved by the deputies earlier in the week.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Sept. 24.—(AP.)—The State Department of Health has established a station at the New Castle Water Company laboratory to study Shenango River conditions with a view to determining in advance the probable influence the operation of the new Pymatuning Dam will have on the character of the water of the stream. The station is being manned by a corps of chemists and inspectors.

Prince Poses As Go-Getter; 'Manhunt' On

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—A traveling salesman has set capital society off on a manhunt.

Charles Dawson is his name. He is also known as Charles, Prince of Belgium, Count of Flanders and second son of King Albert.

Although the Belgian Embassy admits Charles is in Washington, they decline to reveal his whereabouts. So hostesses are conducting their own quest for the young man who has traveled about the United States incognito as a salesman.

Strange young men with Oxford accents are scrutinized closely in ballrooms and on the golf links, while a continental bow evokes an immediate query.

FLIERS IN PORT TOMORROW

ABOARD SS. STAVANGERFJORD, (Radio via Chatham, Mass.) Sept. 24.—(Universal.)—The German aviators Wilhelm Rody and Christian Johannsen, with their Portuguese companion, Fernando Costa Veiga, who were rescued after a week in their wrecked airplane off Newfoundland, will arrive in New York tomorrow on this steamer.

The three fliers were transferred to the Stavangerfjord from the Belmoira, Norwegian motorship, which picked them up from their perilous perch in the ocean. The two ships met about 300 miles off St. John's, Newfoundland, Wednesday.

The fliers were weak from hunger and thirst, and the Portuguese was suffering from an injured leg and is in the ship's hospital. The two Germans are in good health.

Omaha Airmen Plan Flight to Japan

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 24.—(AP.)—A flight from Omaha, Neb., to Tokio, via Winnipeg, Chesterfield Inlet and the North Pole is planned by Capt. J. H. Slaughter, of Omaha, and will start in May, 1932.

The proposed flight was announced here by A. J. Milne, of Winnipeg, engineer and relief pilot for Capt. Slaughter.

OWNERS OPEN LOWER TAX CAMPAIGN

Survey Shows Rates Here Higher Than Other Cities 15 Per Cent Cut Sought

The Pittsburgh Building Owners and Managers Association has opened its campaign for lower taxes with the announcement of figures showing that downtown office buildings pay in taxes 55.2 cents per year per square foot of rentable area compared with 32.4 cents per square foot average in 64 leading cities.

The figures are compiled by the National Association of Building Owners and Managers.

NO CHANCE FOR ERROR

According to J. W. Bamford, chairman of the taxation committee of the Pittsburgh Building Owners and Managers, there is no opportunity for confusion in the calculation, since it represents an actual sum of money paid and not a rate.

Bamford said:

"We should have at least a 15 per cent tax reduction in Pittsburgh."

The Building Owners and Managers have been studying both the city and county governments and expect to be present at the 1932 budget sessions of both City Council and the County Commissioners.

COMPARISON MADE

According to the figures of the national organization, tax payments per square foot of office space in Pittsburgh compare with other cities as follows:

	Year.
Pittsburgh	55.2c
Chicago	43.9c
San Francisco	38.0c
Detroit	35.1c
Philadelphia	33.5c
Baltimore	33.4c
St. Louis	31.6c

The total operating cost of Pittsburgh office buildings per year per square foot is $2.014, which in addition to the 55.2 cents for taxes, includes cleaning, depreciation, heating, lighting and electric power.

HELD IN SOCIETY GIRLS' SLAYING

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Willie Peterson, 35, Negro, was arrested after Miss Nell Williams saw him on a downtown street and identified him as the man who killed her sister, Miss Augusta Williams, and Miss Jennie Wood, and wounded her, near here August 4.

County officials said they feared violence and left with Peterson for Kilby Prison, at Montgomery. He denied the slayings.

Miss Williams, her sister and Miss Wood, all leaders in Birmingham society, while riding on a highway just outside the city, were held up by a Negro and held captive several hours. Miss Nell Williams said when they attempted to escape the Negro opened fire. She was shot in the arm, but made her way to a telephone and summoned officers. Miss Augusta Williams died a few hours afterward, and Miss Wood some days later.

Banker's Employe Sentenced Over Rum

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 24.—(AP.)—John Scerba, of Binghamton, said by authorities to have been bartender for Andrew J. Horvatt, missing Bank of Binghamton president and reputed "bootleg king," was sentenced to one year and six months in Atlanta Penitentiary. He was found guilty last week on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Movie Records Seized In 'Trust' Inquiry

TORONTO, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Squads of police visited the Toronto offices of various motion picture companies and seized quantities of books and other matters in connection with impending prosecutions of the companies on charges of forming an illegal combine. The Attorney General of Ontario announced that action would be taken in the fall court of assizes.

Director of Public Safety Samuel B. Schofield last week ordered the seizure of all wine bricks, which he said violated the state prohibition act.

Radio Man, Sea Fire Hero, Awarded Gold Medal

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—A wireless operator who stuck to his key aboard a burning ship at sea was awarded a gold medal of valor last night in a broadcast from the New York Radio-Electrical World's Fair.

The presentation was made by Gen. James G. Harbord, chairman of the board, RCA, as representative of President Hoover, honorary president of the Veteran Wireless Operators' Association.

The operator, Fritz E. Larson, of Trelleborg, Sweden, served aboard the Swedish tanker Castor when the vessel caught fire last April 300 miles west of the Azores, Harbord said:

"He sent the SOS distress call and received its acknowledgement, and with the tanker likley to blow up at any moment and abandoned, one might consider his task was completed.

"Nevertheless, Larson, who had left the ship with the crew, volunteered to return to the vessel. He was rowed back, made his way through fire to the radio cabin, and again got into communication with the ships speeding to the relief. When assured he had done all he could, he made his way over the burning decks and dived into the sea, where he was picked up by the crew. The crew later was rescued by the British steamer Ousbridge."

Wealthy Divorcee Weds, Sister-in-Law Gets Writ

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—While Mrs. Eunice Essig Brach was obtaining a divorce decree from her husband, Frank V. Brach, wealthy partner in the E. J. Brach & Sons' candy company, Mrs. Emily Upton Brach, former wife of Edwin J. Brach, brother of Frank and treasurer of the company, applied for a license to wed a second time.

Mrs. Emily Brach was married last evening in her Evanston home to Bernhard Kirstein, of Bangor, Me., retired capitalist and former vice president of S. W. Straus & Co. She was attended by her mother and her daughter.

Mrs. Emily Brach and her former husband were divorced by a Paris decree in 1927. She is reported to have received a property settlement of $2,000,000.

Mrs. Eunice Essig Brach received $50,000 cash settlement and the income from a $1,000,000 trust fund. She charged cruelty.

F. H. Rothrauff, 1500 Talbot avenue, Braddock, who yesterday told the returning board and the grand jury that he was a watcher in the voting place of the First District of the First Ward in that borough, has been prevented by police from before the board again today.

Judges Myers and Marshall told him his case was out of their jurisdiction. It was learned however, that District Attorney Park attaches considerable weight to the story Rothrauff presented to the jurors.

With the returning and recount boards slowly sifting through the return sheets and ballots of the primary election District Attorney Park today continued his grand jury investigation into charges that followers of County Commissioner Armstrong counted —or attempted to count—him in after Commissioner Charles C. McGovern apparently had won the nomination.

PARK ISSUES WRITS

Failure of approximately 250 minority inspectors to bring their triplicate return sheets to the grand jury room last night caused Park to issue subpenas for more than 100 to bring them in today.

Assistant District Attorney George P. F. Langfitt in charge of this part of the election probe said no more letters will be sent out, making requests for these returns, and if minority inspectors do not obey the summons they will be brought in.

Subpenas or letters were sent to all of the county's 932 minority inspectors last week. Some of the letters returned to the District Attorney's office, the addresses unfound.

Operatives in Park's office did not attach much significance to this as a last year's list was used in compiling the lists. At least one of the men summoned by letter, had died and his place filled by a new appointee at the last election.

While county detectives were making search for the inspectors who have failed to report the grand jury was hearing witnesses from Homestead summoned to tell the grand jury what they know regarding charges of fraud there.

FACES QUIZ BY CLUNK

One Homestead man who was arrested on election day charged with repeating and has been in the county jail ever since also will be taken before the grand jury. The man was arrested by county detectives and will be questioned by Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk. Clunk said he did not know how many witnesses will be heard today in checking up alleged election frauds.

Clunk also is of the opinion that no presentment will be made to the court by the grand jury involving election frauds until the investigation is completed. However, there is said to be a possibility that a presentment might be made in connection with frauds at Homestead or some other town. No move however, it was learned is being made in that direction at present.

CHECKUP AWAITED

It was also learned at the District Attorney's office that no inspectors are likely to be taken before the grand jury until a thorough checkup of their returns with the official returns has been completed.

Langfitt is of the opinion that many inspectors who failed to answer the first summons to bring in their triplicate sheets did not answer because of wrong addresses. All irregularities developed by the return of the triplicate sheets are being referred to Langfitt for investigation.

VOTE MACHINE WRITS SERVED

County detectives today were to begin serving summonses on judges of election in the first four wards of Pittsburgh, and in McKeesport, Clairton and Duquesne, to appear at the District Attorney's office to give evidence on charges of tampering with the efficiency of voting machines.

Judges in every district where the machines were used election day will be summoned in the investigation, Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk announced. Clunk in charge of the District Attorney's investigation of sabotage charges decided on this move after questioning 20 witnesses who declared the machines in city districts worked satisfactorily and that trouble with their operation was due to unfamiliarity of voters in their use.

The questioning will continue while officials press their fight to obtain extradition of Edward L. Funk, former employe of the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, Baltimore indicted here on charges of having tampered with the machines. Funk has announced that he will fight the move, a hearing on which will be held Monday.

FIRST RECOUNT MAY END THIS WEEK

Estimates Wide Apart on Speed Made by Board In McGovern Check

The first recount of votes in a district where returns have been questioned in the fight between C. C. McGovern and Joseph G. Armstrong to determine who has won the second Republican nomination on the Board of County Commissioners will be completed Saturday, it was said today.

The special recount board under Judge James R. MacFarlane today was [illegible] examining ballots from the Fifth District of the Twelfth Ward, Sixth of the Twenty-fifth, Third of the Fifth, second of the Twenty-first, Third of the Fifth all city wards and the Third District, Second Ward, Carnegie, Fourth District of Wilkinsburg, Fifth District, Second Ward, North Braddock.

ERASURES NOTED

With watchers for both factions and for the Allegheny County Bar Association observing the recount, irregularities were noted where erasures were made and where various kinds of pencils were used in marking ballots. Irregularities such as unsealed return envelopes and ballot boxes with broken seals but no official report of such findings had been prepared as yet.

Attorney Ward Boosall, present at the recount as a representative of McGovern, said that ten tea ballots have yet been examined to permit any general or specific statement.

Just before the board finished its work late yesterday A. F. Thornburg, a McGovern watcher caused a flurry of excitement when he charged that Unger Wilson, recounting votes in the Second District of the Twenty-first Ward, failed to record a vote for McGovern.

Thornburg insisted the vote had not been recorded even after Supervisor James C. Murdock investigated and said that the vote was recounted and not until Judge Macfarlane made a similar decision did the altercation cease.

SEAL BROKEN

Supervisors found the seal broken on box from the Ninth District of the Fifth Ward, a box in which it was also found that return envelopes had not been sealed.

The missing 145 votes from the Clairton district were accounted for when the election board explained that the 145 had been cast through the voting machine before paper ballots were substituted.

Workers estimated that the recount board in session since yesterday was proceeding at the rate of 150 votes a day for each table with one box being counted at each table at a time. Until noon yesterday five boxes were being counted. Eight boxes were being counted when the board finished its work for the day.

Observers said however, that when the day was completed yesterday the highest number of votes counted at one time was 160 for the entire day and a half, during which the recount has been under way. The observers contended that the recount is proceeding at the rate of 75 ballots a day.

Pittsburgher Guilty In Auto Accident

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 24.—Roger Patrizio, of Pittsburgh, has been convicted in Criminal Court here of charges of aggravated assault and battery and failing to stop and render assistance after an automobile accident.

Patrizio was alleged to have driven an automobile which struck a car containing Joseph Stanley and his wife, Margaretta, of Johnstown, injuring them.

comes at a time when the count before the return board shows him gaining over McGovern's unofficial margin, and with allegations by McGovern that fraud has been practiced on behalf of Armstrong.

Armstrong's statement in full follows:

"I have heretofore made no public statement respecting the election contest now being waged for the nomination for one of the positions as County Commissioner on the Republican ballot. It is, of course, impossible for me to privately discuss the situation with any but a few of my friends. In view of the fact that so many others have been so constantly in the public print concerning different phases of this matter, I feel obligated to myself and my friends to make this public statement in order that there may be no doubt whatever of my position.

"I sincerely believe that I have been legitimately nominated as one of the two Commissioners on the Republican ballot. There are others who profess to believe that this is not so. That is the usual result of close and bitterly contested elections.

'RECORD OPEN'

"I have grown old in the public service, and whether anyone is inclined to agree or disagree with my policies, my record is in the open. If I have been nominated, I expect to be accorded the rights of a nominee; if I have been defeated, I will be frank to admit it.

"The law has prescribed a method of determining election contests; that method is now being pursued openly and above board before learned and impartial jurists. As an American citizen believing in American methods, I will cheerfully abide by the results. Common fairness and good sportsmanship require that one-sided criticism of me in this matter be deferred until the duly constituted legal authorities have given their impartial verdict. That is all I ask."

To safeguard themselves against elimination from the November election the Independents are prepared within the next few days to file a ticket, in advance of a decision by the return board between McGovern and Armstrong.

BARR RELUCTANT

On this ticket McGovern will be named as one of the candidates for Commissioner. A second man will be selected as his running mate, but this man has not yet been chosen. Former Senator C. M. Barr, McGovern's campaign manager, is being urged to make the race, but is reluctant. Barr is understood to favor the suggestion of Senator William D. Mansfield, who won a Republican nomination, that Mansfield also run as an Independent with McGovern.

In this position Barr is not receiving much approval among the Independents, who assert that such a lineup would merely insure the election of Armstrong and Mansfield, while meaning nothing to McGovern. They say that McGovern can be elected without difficulty in view of the disclosures of fraud practiced against him in the primary, and they wish to knock Armstrong clear out of the political picture.

FOR TWO-MAN TICKET

Their preference would be for a two-man ticket, with Mansfield and Armstrong confined to the Republican column. They would be friendly to Mansfield, but would concentrate on the two independents, aiming at a county board consisting of Mansfield, McGovern and another independent. Democrats are understood to be willing to assist in the latter plan.

The name of County Treasurer John Francies, linked with McGovern's, prior to the primary, again is being mentioned as an independent entry, but leaders in the independent movement have not warmed up to the suggestion.

$1,000,000 Willed To Northwestern

LEGION VOTES REFERENDUM ON DRY LAW

Prohibition Repudiated 1,008 To 394 in Stormy Session Of Detroit Convention

O'Neil ... adopted.

Pennsylvania ... cast for a ...

It shall be ... it was the ... had declared ... amendment.

PERIL SEEN IN LAW

The ... adopted by the Legion follows:

"Whereas, the Eighteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States has created a condition endangering respect for law and the security of American institutions, therefore be it resolved that the American Legion in this thirteenth annual convention assembled favors the submission by Congress of the repeal or modification of the present prohibition laws to the several states with a request that each state submit this question to the voters thereof."

The vote closely revealed the overwhelming anti-dry sentiment in the Legion.

The drys, though, were credited with having negotiated their more numerous foes into accepting the least objectionable of all the proposals laid before the convention. This was due to the sharp division of opinion among the prohibition foes, who failed to agree among themselves on the resolutions committee on either repeal of the amendment or modification of the Volstead act. If they had been able to agree on either repeal or modification, the committee, it was clearly evident, the convention itself would have adopted the far more drastic recommendation.

CONDITIONS DENOUNCED

The vote came after a debate in which conditions under prohibition were denounced and the Legion was urged to assume leadership in the fight to seek a change through referendum.

The drys argued that the Legion should take no stand.

An effort to have the issue thrown off the floor under a ruling that it is political, and outside of the constitutional scope of the Legion's activities, failed. Commander Ralph T. O'Neil declined to follow the precedent set last year by O. L. Bodenhamer.

During the debate Vincent Carroll, of Pennsylvania, declared the country was looking to the legion to end prohibition. He denounced gun grule under the dry law and declared conditions were so bad police had to escort children to school.

Scott W. Lucas, of Illinois, assailed the dry law. He raced through a lengthy speech at terrific speed, only to have galleries shout for a vote. He said:

"The Eighteenth Amendment has been characterized as an 'experiment noble in motive,' yet it has proved to thousands upon thousands of American citizens in all walks of life to be an experience lamentable and loathsome in many of its details. After 13 years of prohibition we find business men, professional men, laboring men, men in high counsel of politics, young boys and girls, openly and flagrantly violating and defying this amendment, if not in letter, at least in spirit, by consuming liquor in one form or another whenever and wherever they can get it.

LOOK TO LEGION

"In my humble judgment the great mass of people who devotedly believe that the American Legion is dedicated for God and country, are looking for the Legion to lead them out of the pitible morass of legal, moral and economic complications which have arisen under this amendment."

When the roll was finally called each anti-dry vote was cheered. Georgia) received cheers when it voted anti-dry. The heavy anti-dry votes in the Kentucky and Louisiana delegations also drew heavy cheers. So did Minnesota's vote. Montana also got a hand. When New York threw its huge strength antidry, there was a roar that shook the hall.

The drys mustered their best cheer for Texas.

DISSENSION OVER BONUS

The bonus issue presented a difficult situation. Convention leaders were confident the demand for immediate cash payments would be defeated, but the proponents claimed victory and were giving the supporters of President Hoover's attitude many hours of worry.

All the large delegations were polled last Friday chiefly by telephone and the President was assured the cash demand would be rejected, before he announced his intention to address the convention. His speech opposing cash payments was widely hailed by leaders as sound and convincing, but the veterans themselves virtually ignored his advice.

SOME OF THE 700,000 DETROIT PEOPLE WHO JAMMED DOWNTOWN TO SEE HEROES MARCH

Gibbons Sees Better Understanding After Meet

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Journalist and Radio Reporter

DETROIT, Sept. 24.—Hello, everybody.

Delegates to the American Legion convention, who begin to file out of Detroit tonight will have accomplished an important thing. The convention has been no peace conference with the holders of the nation's purse strings but a better understanding between the government and the veterans has been founded.

Claims of the faction of legionnaires who thought they deserve immediate financial aid in this period of stress have been admirably presented by accomplished orators. No raucous voice has been raised in demands that had no foundation of reason. No oratorical fireworks.

Advocates of a revision of the bonus payments stated unemployment facts as 600 Legion posts had found them. Replies from the guardians of public funds were equally calm. It is like a bitterly fought law suit being settled out of court with everybody shaking hands for the period of this emergency at least.

The veterans pointed out that 710,000 of their number are in need and have no other agency to which they may turn except the federal government. The government agents showed that two and one-half million dollars are being paid out daily to men who served their country. With eight hundred million dollars in loans on adjusted service certificates two billions have been spent since last March.

The United States at the end of the Civil War thought itself faced with an unsolvable pension problem. There were 400,000 veterans in the Grand Army of the Republic, 25 years after the Civil War. Now there are more than twice that number in the American Legion, alone.

The convention closing today has lifted the boys of 1917 and 1918 out of the class of mere dependents. They have been helping themselves. Helping to find or create work for their own members. Helping in the peace time crisis of their own communities.

Speeches such as those of George L. Berry, of Tennessee, Howard P. Savage, of Chicago, Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, and many other leaders, voice the future policy of the Legion. It is going to consider itself in full partnership with the government.

BEER AID STUDY BEGUN BY U. S.

than that which came recently from Walter Newton, one of the President's secretaries, when he recently said he had acted on behalf of an outside source for Census Bureau figures on the number employed in breweries before prohibition.

The Agriculture Secretary said he had received many requests for information on the much-debated point of beer as a measure of farm relief. None of the requests, he said, came from the White House. The President might learn of the result, he continued, but the returns would not go directly to him from the Agriculture Department.

SILENT ON ASPECTS

About the political aspects and consequences of the inquiry Hyde would not talk at all except to concede to questioners that some such consequences might ensue.

One newspaperman remarked to the Secretary of Agriculture that he had been listed in the press as being on the right side of the question. He asked:

"What is the right side?"

"That was interpreted as being the liberal side."

"What! And me a Methodist?"

Momentarily the result of the disclosure of the investigation was to stir up one of Washington's most active nests of rumors.

One, of course, is that Mr. Hoover, under the urging of the modificationists, labor leaders, and many other elements, will recommend a change to Congress.

CONFLICT IN CONGRESS

Another is that he is collecting definite evidence on which to turn down the petitioners who contend beer making would increase employment and give relief to the farmer.

These rumors, on both sides, have become so numerous that the White House long since ceased to take any notice of them. Whatever Mr. Hoover may be thinking, he has been saying nothing and no one has attempted to speak directly for him.

It was Congress which set the alcoholic content of legal drinks at one-half of 1 per cent. The modificationists now are talking about a 3 and 4 per cent product.

There is great conflict stirring in Congress. Only two days ago Senator Tydings, of Maryland, a Democratic enemy of the dry laws, predicted 4 per cent beer would be approved. So said the great argument in its favor would be ther evenue-raising potentialities.

Junior Organization Planned for Legion

DETROIT, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—George Kellogg, American Legion official, today said he hoped to present before the national convention of the American Legion today a plan for the organization of a junior body to be recruited from sons and daughters of American Legion members.

FRIENDS HONOR BLEICHNER

A surprise birthday party was held last night in honor of George J. Bleichner, 63, well known South Side banker and businessman. He was alderman of that district for over 30 years, having resigned that post 10 years ago. The party was arranged by his son, Paul J. Bleichner, and was held at the Southern Country Club, Carrick. Bleichner is a director of the Fourteenth Street Bank, director of the Knights Life Insurance Company of America, secretary and treasurer of St. Francis Hospital, and is active in many other business enterprises.

Those who were present to honor Mr. Bleichner included City Controller Dr. James P. Kerr, Judge W. Heber Dithrich, Magistrate William J. Soost, County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and Judge Sylvester J. Snee, who acted as toastmaster.

County Firemen To Honor Mansfield

Allegheny County firemen, uniting with Western Pennsylvania firemen, will celebrate the nomination of Senator William D. Mansfield, of McKeesport, as County Commissioner, with a parade from Bellevue to McKeesport tomorrow evening. The procession will start in Bellevue and will end at McKeesport, where the paraders will be greeted by Mayor George Lyle, of the Tube City.

Dravo Gets $500,000 Navy Crane Contract

A contract for the construction of one of the largest hammerhead types of cranes in the United States has been received by the Dravo Contracting Company, Neville Island, from the United States Navy. It will be of 250 tons capacity, will cost $500,000, and will be used in the United States Navy Yard at Puget Sound, Wash., for lifting turrets, guns and heavy machinery to large ships.

Nicaraguan Bandit Killed in Attack

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(INS.)—One bandit was killed and another wounded Saturday by a patrol of Nicaraguan National Guardsmen, commanded by Sergt. Roy E. Vogel, American Marine, of Stockton, Cal., when a group of 20 bandits started an attack at Jicarto. No member of the guard was hurt, the Navy Department was advised today.

Davis to Address Retail Credit Men

Senator James J. Davis will address the fall business meeting and "family party" of the Retail Credit Men's Association at the Pines tomorrow night. His topic will be "The Business Outlook."

A committee will be named to present nominations of the association's 1932 officers to the October meeting.

Black Satin for Chic
Pattern 2209
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

A frock skillfully and flatteringly cut to slenderize the figure and soften the features has a panel all the way down the front that is slightly draped at the neckline. The bodice simulates a jacket in the clever handling of the revers and in the yoke of the skirt. You'll like the model in satin, canton crepe, velvet or in one of the lovely sheer woolens. Brown, wine red, green and rust are the fashionable colors after the ever popular black.

Pattern 2209 is obtainable only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 4¼ yards of 39-inch material. Yardage for every size and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

THE NEW FALL CATALOG is now ready. It features the newest in afternoon, sports and house dresses, lingerie, pajamas and kiddies' clothes. MARION DAVIES WELCOMED IN HOLLYWOOD

Brilliant Throng at Dinner Dance Greets Celebrated Star Returning from Tour

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 24.—Hollywood's fall and winter social season opened Tuesday night in a most appropriate way—a dinner dance at the Ambassador welcoming home the motion picture colony's popular hostess, Miss Marion Davies.

After a summer in Europe, Miss Davies returned to Los Angeles, to be greeted in a manner that bespoke the heartfelt admiration of her friends and admirers in the motion picture capital.

The vivacious film star left Los Angeles for her European tour last May, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mulhall, Lenore Bushman, Eddie Kane and Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Netcher (Constance Talmadge). With the exception of Constance Talmadge and her husband, who stopped in Chicago to visit friends and relatives, all members of the original party returned with Miss Davies.

CROWDS GREET ENTRANCE

Around the Ambassador Hotel last night huge crowds gathered to applaud Miss Davies' entrance and to gaze upon screenland's celebrities who welcomed her home.

The lobby in the Ambassador Hotel was "roped off" to hold back crowds in evening dress who gathered for a glimpse of filmdom's brilliant star. Enthusiastic handclaps greeted Miss Davies as she and her party entered the hotel.

There, a most delightful surprise awaited her and her guests. Her hosts and hostesses chose to give an old California spirit to the occasion. The reception rooms were a replica of the old "Forty-Nine" days.

PICTURESQUE SETTING

Hung on the walls were pictures of oldtime characters, Indian rugs and other relics of the glorious days of the Golden State. There was even a life-size horse, a typical old California water pump and an ancient player piano to give proper atmosphere.

From this unique and picturesque reception the guests were called to a dinner in a room of strict modernity. Cynosure of all eyes was Miss Davies in a white satin gown of simplicity that accentuated her blonde beauty. Her entrance costume was the white satin gown chicly set off by a little red velvet jacket trimmed with ermine.

"EXTRAS" HAIL RETURN

Most novel of the entertainment features was the sudden intrusion of a horde of leather-lunged newsboys who shouted and presented a special edition bearing the title "The Front Page," and carrying as its banner line, "Davies Returns!"

As fast as they could be handed out, these papers were snatched up by the guests, and many were the laughs at the subtle wit they contained.

The hostesses and hosts for the dinner dance were:

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Thalberg, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. George Fitzmaurice, Mr. and Mrs. King Vidor, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Goldwyn, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Martin (Louella O. Parsons), Mr. and Mrs. Adolphe Menjou, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Conway, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mankiewicz, Messrs. Matt Moore, Lewis Milestone, Jack Gilbert, Clarence Brown and Loyd Pantages and Misses Hedda Hopper and Aileen Pringle.

Budapest Physician Praises New Epilepsy Remedy

Scientific Treatment Stops All Fits Immediately.

Dr. Lisznai Imre

BUDAPEST, Hungary. Dr. Lisznai Imre, well-known physician, has added his praise for the new discovery that is bringing instant relief of Epileptics all over the world.

"In my experience in treating the disease of Epilepsy," said Dr. Imre, "BENESOL is the one remedy that I can unhesitatingly recommend. It is safe to use for adults or children, and in practically every case treated, the attacks stopped immediately and the general condition of the patient was greatly improved."

Any person interested in obtaining full details regarding this new Epilepsy discovery should write for an interesting booklet which may be had free of charge. Address—Educational Division, 509 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y., Desk 226.

Man to Support Wife on Jail Pay Of 65 Cents Day

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 24.—Charles Kazuba, of Unity Township, who failed to heed a court order to support his wife, will now be forced to contribute to her support through his labors in Allegheny County Workhouse.

Kazuba, arraigned on the non compliance charge, was sentenced to the workhouse under an act of the Assembly and his earnings of 65 per day will be given to his wife.

TRAINS ADDED BY PENNSY

Addition of new trains and consolidations of a number of others have been made in the new fall timetable of the Pennsylvania Railroad, which will go into effect Sunday morning. The schedules will provide service as convenient as any heretofore, according to officials.

"The Statesman," a new coach and Pullman train, has been added to the service between Pittsburgh and Washington, with stops scheduled for East Liberty, Greensburg, Latrobe, Johnstown and Altoona. It departs from Pennsylvania Station at 11:10 p. m., and arrives on the westbound trip at 8:05 a. m.

Changes in the time and arrival of a number of trains, especially locals, have been made with a view of increasing the service.

RELIEF BILLS SIGNED IN N. Y.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Gov. Roosevelt has signed the two bills to give New York State a $20,000,000 unemployment relief program. The measure was adopted by the recent extraordinary session of the Legislature, which considered primarily emergency means to give relief to an estimated million unemployed during the coming winter.

The second measure provides for a 50 per cent increase in this year's income tax rate to raise the $20,000,000.

Loss in California Forest Fires Heavy

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Forest rangers checked up yesterday on property damaged from several timber fires. One of the worst blazes was in Mendocino County at Comptche, where seven residences were destroyed. The fire burned along a 15-mile front and defied efforts of 300 men to extinguish it. Half a dozen smaller fires burned on all sides of the main Mendocino blaze.

Farmers' Boycott Urged in Minnesota

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 23.—(AP.)—A Minnesota agriculturist today proposed to farmers union representatives of four states that farmers buy nothing, sell nothing and halt tax payments until Congress "gives relief to the industry."

J. H. Bush, president of the Kandiyoki County Union, made the suggestion to organization leaders of Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana and Wisconsin.

ROBERTS LAUDS BOY SCOUTS IN REGION FETE

Supreme Court Justice Declares Law Enforcement Depends on Public Respect

Declaring that no law enforcement or observance is possible where the majority of the people do not have respect for the law, Justice Owen J. Roberts, of the United States Supreme Court, paid tribute to the work being done by the Boy Scouts of America in an address last night in the William Penn Hotel.

He was the principal speaker at the banquet attended by Scout representatives of Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia which closed the eleventh annual meeting of Region 3, Boy Scouts of America. Dr. F. R. Weidlein of the Mellon Institute and member of the executive board was toastmaster.

A feature of the banquet was the presentation of a Sea Scout play by the Pittsburgh Sea Scout contingent in Private Hall, William Penn Hotel.

The regional executive committee was unanimously re-elected at the annual business meeting with the addition of John Scheuer of Scranton as chairman of the regional camping committee.

In recognition of his outstanding service national and international, George W. Olmsted, chairman of the committee, was presented with a silver buffalo.

R. F. Seymour, regional Scout executive in charge of Region 3, made the annual report of the region.

Other speakers at the conference, which opened yesterday morning, were Dr. James E. West, chief Scout executive; Dr. H. W. Hunt, director of the younger boy program; National Council President E. B. Cooper of the Shenandoah Area Council; Leo P. Sandefur, of the national office; Arthur A. Schuck, director of the division of operations of the national office; Louis E. Round of the Lawrence County Council; Dr. Philip D. Bookstaber, of the Harrisburg Council; Seth Shoemaker, of the Scranton Council; John Lewis Evans, of the Delaware Montgomery Council, Philadelphia, and the Rev. Dr. Robert F. Galbreath, of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church.

Aviation Industries Appoints Bazley

Capt. H. F. Bazley has been appointed special sales representative of the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, it was announced today by that company. Mr. Bazley's duties will be mainly aircraft sales, aerial advertising and photography. In 1929, when Curtiss-Wright took over Bettis Field, Bazley, who had for some time been associated with this corporation as regional sales director for Pennsylvania, was appointed manager of the airport. He recently left that position to become associated with the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation.

Mail Brings Money Too Late to Aid Woman, Suicide

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 (INS).—Fate played an ironic game with Mrs. Clara I. Quinn, 38.

She ended her life by gas in her apartment here. While doctors sought vainly for a spark of life, a telegraphic money order came for her—too late.

In her three-room apartment police found a letter indicating a divorce action was pending in West Bend, Wis.

While an inhalator was being used in an attempt to revive the woman, a messenger arrived with a notice that a money order was being held in her name. Mrs. Quinn rented the apartment a month ago.

FOUNDERS' DAY AT WASH-JEFF

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 24.—Dr. Maurice E. Wilson today traced to students of Washington and Jefferson College a word picture of the 153 years of history of the institution, the oldest west of the Alleghenies.

The occasion was Founders' Day, celebrated each year to honor those who started the college.

He told of how John McMillan in 1780 founded a classical school, how it later grew into an academy and then a college. He also told of the merging of Washington and Jefferson colleges. In addition to McMillan, the Rev. Thaddeus Dodd and the Rev. Joseph Smith are honored as founders.

5 Killed, Many Hurt In Spanish Battle

LONDON, Sept. 24 (INS).—At least five persons were killed and several were wounded today when Spanish farm laborers attacked civil guards in villages southeast of Toledo, according to a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

Several women were involved in the rioting, the dispatch said.

UNDERWRITERS AWARD 167 DIPLOMAS

Insurance College to Be Established at Pitt; Senator Davis to Speak

The fifth presentation of chartered life underwriter diplomas to 167 men by the American College of Life Underwriters occupied the afternoon session of the forty-second annual convention of the National Association of Life Underwriters, meeting at the William Penn Hotel today.

With the president, the vice president and the dean of the college present, the exercises had special significance for Pittsburgh, marking the opening of a branch of the college at the downtown division of the University of Pittsburgh.

The College is, in effect, a post-graduate course in the fundamentals of insurance designed to make life underwriting a profession. Eventually, charters awarded by the college are expected to be necessary to insurance salesmen.

A highlight on tomorrow's program, the closing day of the convention, is an address by Senator James J. Davis.

Congress meeting in December with a sober recognition of the grave problems it faces will be disinclined to interfere with the nation's business, according to Senator David A. Reed in an address to the convention yesterday. The problems Congress will face are graver, he declared, than any it has faced since 1861.

The depression, Reed declared, is largely psychological in the United States. Due to it, a deficit of approximately $1,500,000,000 may be expected by next June, while in 1933, there will be a deficit of about $1,000,000,000, in Reed's opinion.

There is no substitute for S.S.S.

When you ask for S.S.S. accept no substitute

Secure S.S.S. from your own druggist . . . with few exceptions druggists are ethical and conscientious, and will not offer a substitute.

No medicine has the same formula as this time-tried Blood Tonic—

No other concern gathers the same roots with their own trained collectors, and extracts the active medicinal principles, unchanged, in their original fresh state—this is the secret of S.S.S. . . . there is no substitute.

MAKES YOU FEEL LIKE YOURSELF AGAIN

. . . it restores the appetite . . . it builds up the red-blood-cells

THOUSANDS of people have a low red-blood-cell count and don't recognize it.

Bodily vitality . . . the urge to be up and doing, depends upon the right number of red cells.

Perhaps you are one of many who have a low red-blood-cell count. If so, and you become conscious of this condition, you should take a course of S.S.S. or consult your physician.

When your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are not yourself—60% is dangerous.

A low red-blood-cell count often exhibits itself in one or more of the following symptoms:—paleness, quick fatigue, lack of normal resistance to disease, pimples, boils, and general run-down condition.

A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health in various manifestations.

Take S.S.S. as a tonic and notice how much better you will "feel" . . . it has effect in aiding Nature to build red-blood-cells and creating an appetite for food. These two things working together aid the human body in its struggle for health and vitality.

S.S.S. contains in pleasant liquid form the active medicinal principles of certain plants and roots known for their value in building New Strength in the blood and for the making of better utilization of food.

These vegetable ingredients are gathered fresh and while in this condition processed in our own laboratories.

S.S.S. has been time-tested for generations . . . millions of people approve its value . . . it makes for better health and happiness.

Further, S.S.S. is especially valuable in aiding the system to recuperate after the specific cause of a disease has spent its force.

Why not start taking S.S.S. today? Seldom will a dealer offer a substitute—in such cases insist on S.S.S. the original . . . in two sizes, large and small . . . the larger size is more economical.

TWO INJURED IN TRAFFIC

Irvin Fein, 16, of 3153 Brackenridge avenue, was in Montefiore Hospital today with injuries to his legs and body as a result of being thrown from the running board of an automobile on Center avenue, near Reed street. Louis Yesthke, 35, of 717 Shawnee street, alleged driver of the car, was held in Center Avenue Police Station on a charge of reckless driving.

James Patole, 35, of R. D. No. 1, Boston, near McKeesport, suffered lacerations of the head and bruises when struck by an automobile driven, police said, by Eugene McBride, 19, of 2205 Grandview avenue, McKeesport, at Versailles avenue and Soles street. He was taken to McKeesport Hospital. McBride told police the accident occurred when he was blinded by the sun.

Scotland Yard Now Uses Palm Prints

LONDON, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Scotland Yard is employing palm prints as well as finger prints to track down criminals. On palm evidence John Egan, a grocer, has been sentenced to 14 months in prison for house breaking. The detective in the case said palm prints were as infallible as finger prints.

Brilliant group of composers, critics and music authorities cast 23 out of 26 ballots for General Electric

AMONG the group that gathered for this experiment were some of the most brilliant names in the international world of music.

Here is what happened:

Four leading makes of radios, one of them a General Electric, were hidden by screens. Not one of the listeners knew what radios were competing. To the entire audience, each set was only a number.

For a solid hour, this audience compared the tone quality of the hidden radios. Only after every possible comparative listening test had been made did each listener vote for his choice.

When the ballots were counted, 23 out of 26 had voted for General Electric! All but three of this musically-sophisticated audience had unknowingly picked G-E for its marked superiority of tone.

Believe your own ears! Claims are not enough. Make this comparison yourself. Visit several radio stores. Listen carefully to different makes of sets. Let your ears get a vivid impression of their tone quality.

Then go to a G-E Radio dealer, hear the General Electric—and be astonished at the difference! Discover how honestly it re-creates the original studio performance, with the full life, color and brilliance of the actual artists.

Note how stations come in at exact points on the dial—and how the slightest additional turn clips them off again. Note the great number of stations—far and near—these remarkable sets bring you.

Ask the G-E Radio dealer about the General Electric Certified Inspection Plan. See the many G-E models. You will agree that they are worthy of the monogram of the greatest electrical organization in the world!

And don't forget—all prices are complete with tubes. The Midget sells at $37.50, End Table Phonograph $64.50, the Junior at $72.50, Junior with Clock $84.50, Junior Console—$89.50, Battery-operated Console (less batteries)—$99.50, Popular Console—$124.75, Georgian Grandfather Clock—$179.00, DeLuxe Lowboy—$164.50, Modern Longfellow Grandfather Clock—$285.00, DeLuxe Automatic Radio-Phonograph Combination—$345.00, and special installations up to $5,000.

G-E Popular Console

A 9-tube superheterodyne with 2 Pentode output tubes. Automatic volume control. Superb cabinet of brown walnut, with rich-grained butt walnut overlays. Price, complete with tubes $124.75

General-Electric Junior

An 8-tube superheterodyne, with true General Electric performance. Compact! Portable! Light! Variable tone control. Full size dynamic speaker. Rich walnut cabinet of Eighteenth Century mantel clock design. Price $72.50, complete with tubes.

GEORGE GERSHWIN, DANIEL FROHMAN and SIGMUND SPAETH Count the Ballots

This test was in no sense a "testimonial," nor did any musical authority present "endorse" any particular make of radio. This was an experiment, fairly-conducted and above-board in every detail. Not one cent was paid any listener for his attendance or vote!

All competing sets were the large console models of each manufacturer. All were current stock models. All had as many, or more tubes, than the General Electric. All were pronounced in good working order before the test began by an outside, non-partisan service man. The final scores of the four radios were as follows:

General Electric	23
Radio "A"	2
Radio "B"	1

GAMBLING LAID TO TAMMANY

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. (AP.)—The testimony of a police captain that professional gamblers conducted dice games and horse race pools in three Tammany clubs was part of the record of the Legislative investigation into municipal affairs today.

Questioned at a public hearing by Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Legislative Committee, Capt. Lewis J. Valentine testified gambling raids had been made upon the Thomas M. Farley Association of the Fourteenth Assembly District, of which Sheriff M. Farley of New York County, is the leader; the Tammany Central Association of the Twelfth Assembly District, of which City Clerk Michael J. Cruise is leader, and the Harry C. Perry Association, of which Perry, the chief clerk of the City Court, was formerly leader.

Co-Eds Must Do All Smoking On Steps

CHICAGO, Sept. 24. (AP.)—Northwestern University co-eds may smoke cigarets all they please, but not in the campus buildings.

Mrs. Edson Fowler, president of the Quadrangle Association, which maintains the sorority houses, yesterday said:

"They may sit or stand on sorority house steps and smoke, but they will not be permitted to smoke inside. It's too easy for non-smokers to get the habit in smoke-filled living quarters."

Miss Jean Van Evera, woman's editor of the Daily Northwestern, announced that she and her co-ed associates would continue their campaign for "equal smoking rights with men students" who have smoking rooms in several buildings.

U. S. TO INVITE PREMIER LAVAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. (AP.)—A formal invitation for Premier Laval of France to visit the United States will be extended tomorrow, provided the French cabinet approves the trip.

Secretary Stimson said today he was keenly desirous of a visit by the French premier to discuss world problems with President Hoover.

He remarked there is no limit to the subjects which might be discussed advantageously.

Although he did not specify the topics due to be up are believed to include disarmament, international debts and the world gold situation.

BERLIN, Sept. 24. (INS.)—Amid elaborate preparations for the protection of Premier Pierre Laval and Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, of France, during their visit here on Sunday, there was a growing belief today that little practical benefit would come from their conference with Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, of Germany.

Accounting School Has Record Class

The largest graduating class in the history of the Pittsburgh School of Accountancy will be addressed Saturday night at commencement exercises in the Hotel Schenley by Chester H. Lang, comptroller of the budget for the General Electric Company.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Events

THEIR BOSS LINDEMAN TO SPEAK HERE OCT. 8

MISS ALICE PAINTER AND HER PETS: BROWNIE AND TIGE

Miss Alice, daughter of the Charles A. Painters, Jr., Sewickley Heights, pictured in the garden at her home. She's going to enter her pets in the annual society Sewickley bench show, October 3.

Need of Parent Education to Be Theme

One of the most important events in club, educational and social service circles this season will be the visit to Pittsburgh of Edward C. Lindeman, who will come here on October 8, under auspices of the committee on parent education of the Mental Hygiene Society. Mr. Lindeman, who is connected with the National Council on Parent Education, lectures at the New School for Social Research, New York City, and professor of social philosophy at the New York School of Social Work, will speak at 8 o'clock that evening in Fifth Training School on "The Need of Parental Education Program for Pittsburgh."

The committee which is bringing Mr. Lindeman here is composed of Mrs. Saul Lavine, chairman; Herbert Spencer, vice-chairman; Miss Alice Parker, Miss Ella Ruth Boyce, Dr. Florence Teagarden, Martin Chworowsky, Dr. E. N. Clapper, Dr. B. G. Graham, Sydney Teller, Dr. George Mohr and Dr. W. T. Root.

Mr. Lindeman is a contributing editor of the New Republic and is the author of several books, among them "The Community," "College Character," "Meaning of Adult Education" and "Urban Society."

The three-day dedicatory program in Dormont New Century Club's new home, on Glenmore avenue, opened last night with a reception for club members and their families. Receiving with the president, Mrs. H. H. Heinrich, were Mrs. John H. Bricker and her building committee. Chamber music was provided by the Fillon Trio, Miss Janet Spaugh at the piano, Robert Eicher, violinist, and Eric Davidson, 'cellist. Miss Loretta Effler, soprano soloist, sang two numbers, with Mrs. Henrietta Bricker Horne accompanying.

Mrs. Bricker reviewed the work of the building committee and presented the keys to Mrs. H. H. Heinrich, the president.

This afternoon when neighboring clubs are guests at the clubhouse, Mrs. Heinrich and the executive board are in the receiving line. A musical program is being presented at 3 o'clock by the music department, of which Mrs. H. F. Hanks is chairman. Mrs. C. Warren Kinder is offering piano numbers and the club choral is singing, under the direction of Mrs. Lucille Miller Werner, Mrs. Kinder accompanying.

Tomorrow evening, from 8 until 10 o'clock, the club will hold open house for the community. Chamber music will be played by a trio from the Neighborhood Music Studios and there will also be soprano solos by Mrs. C. F. Horgan, Mrs. J. W. Young, past president of the club, playing her accompaniments.

* * *

The Women's Guild of the Third United Presbyterian Church will hold its opening tea on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. C. Doll, Beechwood boulevard. Miss Edith Bane will show pictures made during a trip around the world, and Miss Margaret Wood, pianist, will give a short program. Hostesses are Mrs. W. J. Reid, Mrs. William M. Woodfin, Mrs. O. A. C. Ampler and Mrs. R. V. C. Hurst, Mrs. C. G. Purse, Mrs. Johnston.

CLUB NOTES

The committee of management of Central Branch Y. W. C. A. together with the members of the departmental committees will hold a setting-up conference tomorrow with Mrs. Harrie Chamberlin, of Toledo, a member of the national board, as guest speaker. Following the worship service in the morning, Mrs. Chamberlin will address the group on "What Are We?" presenting the fundamental principles of the Association. At 11 o'clock Miss Esther M. Hawes, executive secretary of the Y. W. C. A. of Pittsburgh, will speak on "Good Committee Organization." "Celebrations," a resume of the coming year's program, will be another presentation. At the luncheon Mrs. A. P. Rothschild will give "Some Vocational Results," and in the afternoon Mrs. Chamberlin will discuss "The Job of the Volunteer," which is to be followed by "Another Year of Unemployment," by Miss Mabel Gillespie.

* * *

Friday evening, October 9, is the date chosen for the annual welcome dance for freshmen of Carnegie Institute of Technology to be given by the Margaret Morrison Alumnae Association in the Carnegie Union. Miss Virginia Page is chairman of the committee which includes Miss Mildred Bastian, Miss Ruth Lieberman, Miss Margaret Krepps and Mrs. Jean Roy Austras.

* * *

The alumnae of Alpha Xi Delta will meet in the active chapter's house, Terrace street, on Saturday afternoon. The affiliation ceremony will honor several of this year's graduates from the University of Pittsburgh: Betty Crawford, Ruth Evans, Dorothy Powell, Hallie Lou Stewart, Connie Walters and Dorothy Wolford.

Lucille Fruit, of Avalon, is president of the alumnae chapter. The other officers are: Vice president, Mrs. George Ehrhardt; recording secretary, Hannah Williams; corresponding secretary, Ida Harmon, and treasurer, Louise Patterson.

Mrs. Gann to Be Guest At Lunch Here Tomorrow

Miss Suzanne Beatty, assistant city solicitor, will be toastmistress at the luncheon which the Women's Republican Club will give tomorrow in the William Penn Hotel in honor of Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, of Washington. Mrs. Gann will speak on the value of women's political organizations. Mrs. A. W. Powell, president of the club, will be hostess tomorrow night at an informal reception at her home in Woodridge drive, Mt. Lebanon, with Mrs. Gann as honor guest.

$64,800 Bonds Sold for New College Club Home

The season's first bulletin issued by the College Club announces that $64,800 worth of bonds for the new clubhouse have been sold. The bulletin also contains a farewell message from Mrs. Ralph E. Davis, who has gone abroad for a year, and has been succeeded in the presidency by Mrs. J. Brooks Huff.

A reception for Mrs. Huff has been planned for next Friday and will be featured by a musical program. Presenting it will be David Bernardson, violin; Alice Thrall, piano, and Grace Darrell, cello. Lamont H. Dutton will speak on the accomplishment of the new clubhouse as the following weekly meetings. Elmer Britton, of Carnegie Tech Drama School, John B. Townley, of the Pittsburgh Press, and the Rev. Oliver H. Sisson are the other speakers of the month.

Miss Julia Lustenberger, of Evergreen Hamlet, will leave this week to attend the wedding of Miss Miriam Stage, of Shaker Heights, Cleveland, and Richard Bostwick. She'll be a guest at a dinner tomorrow night for the bridal party, to be given by the Newton D. Bakers, of Cleveland.

NEWEST ENSEMBLES CONTINUE TO STRESS COLOR CONTRASTS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—One cannot dissemble the insistence of the ensemble to play its role in each season's style pageant. Of course the ensemble isn't with us to the extent that it was a few seasons ago, but none the less, many houses have included several ensembles in their new presentations, as there is always a clientele for this fashion. And then, too, the ensemble provided one of the best methods of obtaining color contrasts. And color contrasts continue to play a stellar part in the mode this season. Ever since the black frock with the blue bodice top was introduced a few seasons back, we have been using color in different combinations and contrasts for many of our dresses. There is something undeniably youthful and fresh about the dark frock with a bright top and so it is no wonder that we continue to demand it. And so there is a demand, too, for the new ensembles that dramatically and smartly combine and reverse color schemes.

WE SHOW TODAY drawings of a new ensemble that stresses color. It is by the very clever Lanvin, who had called her model "Satan." We suppose that the name was inspired by the use of black with flame color, always a striking, even startling color combination. The dress has light flame georgette for the top of the bodice and upper half of the melon shaped sleeves. The remainder of the frock is of black marocain. The two fabrics are joined with a three-quarter inch fagot done with tiny bridges of black crepe. An extremely ample godet is set in at the left side of the skirt in a diagonal line, giving a circular ripple to the already flaring silhouette. The coat reverses the color scheme as the body of it is in light flame colored diagonal woolen with black accents. Black broadtail is used for the wide cape and the deep cuffs, pulled slightly at top and bottom. The coat has a gradual flaring line starting from the hips.

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

Those of us who like to have "something doing" are happier and happier as fall progresses and the tempo of social life increases. There are quite a few things going on right now, and there are more being planned for the coming days.

Just added to the debutante list is the name of young Margaret Mann, daughter of Bishop and Mrs. Alexander Mann. Her mother and father haven't decided yet on a debut date, for Margaret may go back to school this winter, and have to confine her debutante days to vacation.

There will be a wedding this afternoon, for Miss Margaret Thompson Cassatt, daughter of the Edward Franklin Thompsons, of Sewickley, is to become the bride of Jack Cutler Lewis, son of the James Edward Lewises, of Sharon Run road, Fox Chapel, at 5:30 o'clock in the Thompson home, with the Rev. Joseph C. Thompson, of the United Presbyterian Church, Sewickley, officiating.

Autumn flowers and chrysanthemums will be the setting for the ceremony. The bride, who will be given in marriage by her father, will wear a lovely gown of delicate cream satin, fashioned with long sleeves, a short train and a peplum of braided satin. Her veil of tulle with a panel of old lace cascades from the cap of the lace, and her flowers are calla lilies.

James Edward Lewis, Jr., will be his brother's best man, and the only attendant at the ceremony. A dinner for members of the two families will follow the ceremony.

Mr. Lewis and his bride will sail on the France for Europe and will be at home after November 15 in the Schenley Apartments.

The mother of the bride will wear silver grey crepe, and the mother of the bridegroom, black chiffon, both will have shoulder sprays of orchids.

* * *

Raymond and Leonard Firestone, members of the famous Firestone family of Ohio, will be honor guests at dinner tonight in the Pittsburgh Hunt Club, Guyasuta road. The brothers will ride as guests of the Pittsburgh Polo Club tonight in an informal match at the Pittsburgh Field Club field.

The brothers, former Princeton stars, are well known in international polo circles. With them for the visit to Pittsburgh will be Thomas Watson, coach of the Firestone polo team. Watson has made numerous trips to Europe, training several members of European royal families in the art of polo playing.

Miss Betty May Claudy, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Claudy, of the Fairfax Apartments, has gone to Chatham, Va., to attend Chatham Hall. She formerly attended the Winchester School.

Miss Georgie McKay's Betrothal Announced

Mr. and Mrs. George W. McKay, of Nova Haven avenue, Dormont, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Georgia McKay, to William McKee, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. N. McKee, of Dormont, at a dinner in their home Tuesday night. Covers were laid for 16, with decorations in green and white.

Miss McKay is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and a member of the Alpha Xi Delta fraternity. Mr. McKee is a graduate of the Pittsburgh School of Accountancy.

Like a Fine Watch!

If one wishes to purchase a really fine watch he will give more attention to the movement than to the case. A good movement in a fine case is the right combination.

The same care should be exercised in choosing apartments in which to live. One should be certain that inside of the "fine case" there is a "first-class works"—in other words, an adequate service system.

Schenley Apartments offer the finest example of the proper combination. This really great living group, centrally located, maintains a service system that adequately meets every demand of fine living.

In this system there are 125 attendants. But that is not all, for the service facilities of the excellent Hotel Schenley supplement the specifically apartment service.

The result is apartment service on a par with the service enjoyed in the finest of hotels.

And when it is considered that the rental check for the premises also purchases this matchless service, the economy in this modern manner of living becomes apparent.

Our rental office, on the premises, will point out many other advantages of living in these splendid apartments. Phone for inspection engagement.

GIMBELS

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

Unsung New Yorkers

IN MY FAVORITE barber shop the other evening, I was very much annoyed. The young lady who always digs particles of typewriter ribbons from under my nails had departed on an indefinite vacation. When the barber told me about the situation, I blew up.

"What's the matter with the world these days?" I howled. "My columns seem to get longer and longer, my wife's hats get smaller and smaller, my bank turns into a cafeteria, and now my manicurist departs. What's going on anyway?"

The barber stuck the point of the scissors into my neck and blamed the bootblack for moving around too much.

"What'sa use gettin' so excite', Mr. Helling'?" he asked me. "We She'sa new girl in thisa shop." got one ver' fine girl here now."

"All right," I muttered.

So over came the new girl. Red hair and a very pretty face. Slim.

"Don't cut the cuticle," I told her. "Just clean 'em up a trifle."

"Surest thing you know, Mr. Hellinger.

I returned the smile. It was good to learn that somebody, aside from my creditors, would recognize me.

"How did you know me?" I asked her. "Don't tell me you read the column."

"Always," the charming lady went on. "I read you even when you're writing about people and things that I cannot quite understand. I wonder if you'd mind me asking a question?"

"How do you get your stories? How do you dig them up?"

"That's easy enough to answer," was my response. "They come from all over. Some hit me through the mails and a great many of them I pick up personally. Everybody has a story, you know—yourself for instance."

"Me?" she returned in a surprised voice. "I guess you must be kidding me. My life is as simple as they come."

"Certainly not," I assured her. "Tell me something about yourself. About when you were born, for instance. And about your life. Have you ever been married?"

"Oh, yes," she returned. "Four times until now."

"Four times until now!" I ejaculated. "How did that happen?"

"It's not as exciting as it sounds," she went on. "I was born in Italy and was first married when I was only 15.

"About eight months of that and I grew pretty tired of married life. So I ran away to America with another man."

"Very simple," I murmured. "And what happened after that?"

"Well," she continued dubiously, "I married my second husband as soon as we arrived in New York. Please don't ask me if I divorced my first husband."

"I found it hard to get along because my second husband died only a few months after our marriage. I didn't get married again until almost a year later."

"But, if you don't mind, I'd rather not talk about that. You see, after we were married two years, he—well, he killed himself."

I was just a little sorry at this point that I had begun this thing. It suddenly dawned upon me that instead of my kidding her, she might be playing the trick on me.

I don't like to talk about it, because I feel that, in some small way, I was responsible. You see, I was going with another man at the time—and my husband found out."

"Just one of those unreasonable husbands," I assured her. "And I suppose that, after your third husband killed himself, you married the other man?"

"How did you guess it?" she returned. "That's just what happened. But I made a fool of myself in that case. It turned out that he didn't have as much money as I thought. And after we had been together a short time he lost what he had. So I divorced him.

"I still get a little money from him, but not much. So here I am, manicuring nails in a Broadway barber shop."

* * *

Later, a trifle dizzy, I climbed out of my chair. My barber pulled me to one side.

"She not tella you everything. She not tella you about big Wall Street man who losa his wife an' kids on 'count of her. I maka her tella you everything."

The devil with the rest of the story. I don't think I'll go back in that shop again. The lady may be looking for a fifth husband . . .

Local Women Learn Soap and Hard Water Will Not Cleanse

Just add this new water-softening cleanser for amazing results—requires ½ the time, ¼ the soap . . .

THIS city's water is too hard for the best washing results. Clothes become faded and "gray" with repeated washing in this hard water. The best soap is not effective.

Local housewives are turning to a new discovery that gives almost magic results in any washing. It is not a soap—but a water-softening cleanser that changes "hard" water to "soft"—stops fading—cuts washing time in half and requires only one-half the ordinary amount of soap.

What It Is

It is a preparation called Climalene that you add to your washing water. Just a tablespoon or two.

Instantly, it takes all the harshness out of that water. Makes it soft as rain water.

At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all dirt, stains and grime.

Use the soap or soap flakes you ordinarily do. Then see for yourself the amazing results. During 1930 women used over 33,000,000 packages of Climalene—for washing, for cleaning and in the dishpan.

Laboratory Proved

To assure results to you, we buy fine things, lingerie and delicate fabrics, fine china. Then by repeated washings, try to spoil or fade them.

Consider, please, what those things mean to you. Consider, too, that the minute you put this creation into water, all harshness is taken away—your hands protected from roughness, made soft, smooth and white.

Remember the name—Climalene. Your grocer has it. Sold only in 10c and 25c packages. 175-RA

"Never Felt Better In My Life," She Writes
"My Friends Say It's Marvelous."
Looks Years Younger.

Kruschen Salts is a superb combination of SIX salts (not one) which assist glands and body organs to function properly. For losing fat and waste.

Get a bottle at any drug store and get Kruschen (as we tell you) lasts 4 weeks. Take a half teaspoonful every morning, before breakfast. You can't believe its reducing action by its pleasing, invigorating qualities, unless you weigh yourself. Then see how you have reduced. Almost from the start you feel a marked improvement in health—much more energy and strength—more active—more alert—more youthful and remember this: if clears away pimples, boils, skin eruptions, gives you a clear complexion, beautiful and new skin, bright eyes, sparkling with health and joy.

But harrassing fat starts to go. Your vitality, your whole system begins to show a glorious increase. You actually feel and look younger. Nature intended each and every woman to have health, figure. Nature intended you to have them.

Mrs. H. Price of Woodside, L. I., writes: "A year ago I weighed 190 lbs. I started to take Kruschen and now I weigh 126 and never felt better in my life and what a score. I look more like 30 yrs. old than the mother of 2 children, one 19 and the other 18. Every one of my friends say it's marvelous the way I reduced.

Use Kruschen not only because it's more economical but because it's safer, more efficient and more delightful and remember this: if Kruschen doesn't give you complete satisfaction, money back.

WED 50 YEARS, FETE PLANNED

Nearly 50 guests are expected to attend the golden wedding celebration for Mr. and Mrs. George Roberts at their home, 253 Meyran avenue, Oakland, on Saturday. Gold leaves will decorate the house and a huge cake with 50 candles will grace the table.

FRICK'S WOODS ZOO SURVEY PUSHED

Connelly, Phillips Picked To Seek New Natural Location for Animals

Preparations were being made today to survey Frick's Woods as a possible site for natural habitats of animals now housed at the Highland Park Zoo.

Councilmen Clifford B. Connelly and John M. Phillips, the latter former State Game Commissioner, were delegated by President John S. Herron of Council to inspect the location and report soon on its possibilities as future haven for the animals.

Representatives of the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society and the Izaak Walton League have charged that conditions at the Highland Zoo are deplorable. Several animals, they charge, have died from lack of sunshine and fresh air.

Councilman Phillips, commenting on the possible use of the Frick's Woods for a zoo, said:

"The first thing that would have to be done would be to cut down thousands of trees in order to furnish the animals with sunlight. I doubt whether this plan would be entirely feasible, but future events will decide that."

Phillips previously recommended to Council that the zoo be transferred to South Park.

TAYLOR TAKES BANK CONTROL

Attorney George F. Taylor, Jr., has been appointed special Deputy Secretary of Banking to take charge of the Franklin Savings and Trust Company for continuance or liquidation of its business, with a bond of $400,000, according to a certificate of possess and appointment by William D. Gordon, Secretary of Banking of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, filed in Common Pleas Court yesterday.

He stated that the department's investigation showed the bank was in an unsafe and unsound condition to continue business and suspended payments of its obligations.

Legion Shouldn't Overlook Plank For Free Lunch

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Hope that the Legion vote for beer carries a rider for free lunch.

After hearing the late results from Detroit the old-fashioned bartenders rushed out to have their mustaches curled.

The only speech against suds was greeted with catcalls and razzes. The speaker then explained.

"I'm wrong about Bunker Hill. Detroit must be the bird place of the nation."

If memory doesn't tie itself into a knot it seems that nothing was too good for the boys when they marched away in 1917.

But that was 14 years ago. A lot of brakes have been relined since then. And like the mouse that fell into the barrel of whisky we were not responsible for what we said at the time.

If the boys want beer, give the boys beer.

And don't forget we're one of the boys.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BOSWELL, N. M., Sept. 24.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

It's two days and two nights here by rail. Flew here in seven hours in Hal Roache's (the movie comedy producer's) private plane—Capt. Dickson piloting. I shouldn't say anything that would in any way be detrimental to the poor railroads for they are having tough enough sledding. The only thing "riding" the railroads is the government (with restrictions). If Will Rogers they would lay off and let 'em run 'em their own way maybe the public would come back. This is the prettiest little town in the West.

Yours, WILL.

89-Year-Old Hiker Scares Ohio Sheriff

EXCLUSIVE PHOTO.

HIKING JOE M'LAREN, 80

'Patriarch' 3 Years Walking From California

ST CLAIRSVILLE, O., Sept. 24.—Courthouse attaches were thrown into an uproar here when Joe McLaren, 80, Los Angeles-to-Toronto (Canada), hiker walked into the courthouse. Sheriff Howard Duff and Deputy Cloyd Barricklow placed him under arrest until his identity could be established.

Dressed in a canvas suit and with sections of auto tires tied on to preserve his shoes, McLaren resembled a patriarch of Noah's time.

He was allowed to depart after informing the sheriff that he had been three years coming from California to Ohio, and desired to get home to Toronto before another winter. McLaren never got a ride during the entire trip from the Coast, he said.

CONTAINER GIFT AGAIN HELPS CANNERY

Firm Donates 90,000 More Cans for Surplus Food Store for District's Needy

With the announcement today that an additional 90,000 cans had been donated to the Surplus for the Needy Committee by the American Can Company, work was going ahead filling cans with fruit and vegetables for the needy of the district.

Further appeals have been made by Attorney Harry I. Miller, chairman, for donations of cash to be used to purchase sugar and other ingredients. The entire project is being run on a no-cost basis, all the materials having been donated.

STATE POLICE HELP

The state highway patrol and state police were taking part in the campaign today by canvassing all farmers within a 60-mile radius of the city to have them donate farm products.

The welfare committee of the Congress of Women's Clubs, under Mrs. John H. Lesley, has organized a committee to assist. It will be the duty of this committee, Mrs. Lesley said, to organize subcommittees in each township of the county to help canvass the farmers.

Thousands of cans have already been filled, labeled and stored in preparation for the winter.

Distribution will be under auspices of the charities and welfare organizations of the Pittsburgh district, Attorney Miller said.

GREATER SCOPE SEEN

The original goal of the organization was to furnish 5,000 families in the Pittsburgh district with five cans of vegetables each week over a perıof 32 weeks. Attorney Miller said today he believed it would be possible for the organization to increase its quota and give greater assistance.

PUBLIC WORKS URGED AS REMEDY

Emergency Bonding Power Invoked to Meet Crisis; Phillips Outlines Needs

Officials of the boroughs, townships and third-class cities of Allegheny County have been invited to attend a conference October 7 in William Penn Hotel to consider financing emergency public improvements to relieve unemployment during the winter. Officers of the school districts are also included.

NO VOTE NEEDED

The officials of municipalities and schools have a bonding power amounting to two per cent of the total assessed valuation which may be used for emergency public work without a vote of the people.

The proposal, which will be made to the municipalities, is that where they start a job of emergency construction, labor costs will be furnished from the Emergency Fund of Allegheny County which is to be raised by public subscription. Tools and materials are to be furnished by the municipality in which the work is done.

The meeting has been called by Joseph T. Miller, president of the League of Boroughs, Townships and Cities of the Third Class, who was active in working for the metropolitan plan. Miller stated in his announcement that the unemployed in each municipality would be favored in the emergency work done in that particular borough or city. It is estimated that the Emergency Fund will provide $2 for each $1 spent by the municipalities.

NEEDS CITED

Accomplishments of the last seven months in the county and measures to be taken to relieve distress of families and individuals this winter were outlined by Frank R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company, in an address broadcast yesterday from the joint luncheon of eight service clubs. Phillips is a member of President Hoover's committee on unemployment relief.

He said the Welfare Fund and the Allegheny County Emergency Association have joined forces for the drive in November to obtain at least $5,500,000.

Brown Urges Wide Use of Air Mail

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Postmaster General Brown chronicled air mail history by radio last night, commemorating the twentieth anniversary of the day when the first bag of mail was flown.

He bespoke "support of this twentieth century industry" to "develop a nationwide network of air lines to carry passengers, express and freight," with mails but an "incidental operation."

M. M. (Heinie) Gerlach, of Pittsburgh, has won the drum-beating contest at the American Legion convention, according to word from Detroit.

Gerlach, who represents Observatory Post No. 81 every year in the contest, has won two previous championships. He was a winner at Louisville, Ky., in 1929, and at Boston in 1930. He is connected with the Hammond and Gerlach Drum Shop, 624 Penn avenue, and plays in Syria Temple Concert Band and in the Nixon Theater Orchestra.

Negro Slays Wife, Commits Suicide

Archie Perkins, 38, a Negro, of 1849 Linton street, died early today in Passavant Hospital, from a bullet he fired into his head after shooting to death his common-law wife, Viney Walker, 26, in their home last night, police said.

The couple, according to police, had been quarreling since Sunday, when the woman threatened to leave. As she attempted to go last night, Perkins was alleged to have shot her.

SHOUTS ALARM IN SPITE OF THREATS

Same Thugs Blamed in Robberies; Escape in Automobile With Cash

Defying a robber who pointed a revolver at her, Mrs. Margaret Burns, 35, of 814 McCandless avenue, ran into the street screaming during a holdup of a chain store at 5243 Duncan street, this morning.

While one of the robbers compelled William Newman, the manager, to lie face downward, the second leveled his revolver at Mrs. Burns and told her to stand still.

Despite the bandit's threat to shoot her, Mrs. Burns darted into the street, shouting "Robbers."

The two holdup men fled with $87.50 in an auto bearing a Pennsylvania dealer's license plates, police reported.

The same two, police believe, had held up another chain store at 7213 Verona boulevard half an hour previously and escaped with $40. The holdup men were described as of the sheik type.

Maurice Finkelpearl, proprietor of a drug store at 5482 Penn avenue, reported to police today that two men held up Harry Strauss, manager, last night, obtaining $40 cash and merchandise valued at $15.

Thieves entered a chain grocery at 3801 Penn avenue last night and obtained cigarets valued at $5, police were notified today.

TARENTUM WINS DRUM HONORS

DETROIT, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Ten drum and fife corps of the American Legion formed a colorful background here last night for another decision awarding the championship to a precise stepping squad from Miami, Fla. The southerners, who won last year, were so good again that they had more than a point lead over the closely bunched nine following.

Tarentum, Pa., a severely accoutered squad in white and yellow, won second, and Greensburg, Pa., reveling in the name of Green Trojans and wearing chapeaus with sweeping plumes, took third.

Miami won $1,000 and the retention of two trophies. Tarentum gained $500, and Greensburg $250. All the participating teams received uproarious applause from their supporters, who filled the seats of Navin Field, the American League baseball park here.

Rain set back the start of the contest two hours and fell at intervals while the drumming was in progress. Dampness partly muted the rolling Greensburg drums.

Women to Solicit Salvation Army Fund

Chairmen of city wards, boroughs and townships of the county, representing 1,500 women who will start October 1, upon a 10-day tour of city and county to raise $112,500, met yesterday afternoon in the Evangeline Home, 425 Boulevard of the Allies. Col. C. B. Campbell, divisional commander of The Salvation Army, presided. Among the speakers were Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier, chairman of the women's division, and Adjt. W. B. Fowle.

GRILL SEXTON ON WOMEN'S CHARGES

Clash of Attorneys Marks Trail of Agent Accused By Beaver Society Leaders

By WALTON WOODS
Staff Correspondent

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 24.—During a grueling cross examination today H. Clay Sexton, dapper certified public accountant on trial here charged with fraudulent conversion by two Patterson Heights society matrons, admitted that he had kept no records of the stock transactions he made in behalf of the two women.

The admission came a few minutes after Sexton was tapped for cross examination by Attorney Thomas Bradshaw, one of counsel for Mrs. Vye S. Thompson, widow of Col. Joe Thompson, World War hero, and Mrs. Pearl B. Dawson, who charged Sexton obtained securities valued at $100,000 from them by fraud. Bradshaw's role as cross examiner was challenged by counsel for Sexton. The objection was overruled by the court. Bradshaw, however, voluntarily withdrawing.

Sexton admitted that he had kept no written records of the transactions which he said he conducted for the women with their consent. The accused contends the holdings of the women, as well as his own personal account, was wiped out during the market collapse in October, 1929.

COSMOPOLITAN BOOK FIRM SOLD

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 (Universal).—Stanley M. Rinehart, Jr., president of Farrar & Rinehart, Inc., today announced the purchase of Cosmopolitan Book Corporation. Farrar & Rinehart will immediately take over Cosmopolitan Book Corporation's current and future publications.

Cosmopolitan Book Corporation was established in 1914 as Hearst's International Library Company, Inc. In 1919 the firm was given its present name, and Harold C. Kinsey was appointed general manager, successfully promoting a few prominent and widely selling authors, such as James Oliver Curwood, Peter B. Kyne and Harry Leon Wilson.

Saul Flaum was made editor of the company January, 1930, and under his editorship Cosmopolitan Book Corporation became one of the leaders in the publishing business.

'HOBO'S' WIDOW ASSAILS WILL

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24 (AP).—Mrs. Ingeborg How, a former wife of James Eads How, "millionaire hobo," has filed suit in Circuit Court to set aside his will. How died at Staunton, Va., in July, 1930, leaving virtually all of what was estimated as a "six-figure" estate to the "workers of the world."

Mrs. How contended the provision was indefinite and uncertain and incapable of being carried out. She also charged Nicholas Klein, Cincinnati attorney, who was How's legal adviser, with undue influence in the execution of the will, which was drawn up 10 days before How's death.

The suit was on behalf of Mrs. How and her son, Holger How, How's adopted son. She lives in Los Angeles.

The Car of the Year in its Own Fine Field is the CADILLAC V-12

To own and drive a Cadillac has long been a definite badge of distinction in every civilized country on earth. But never has Cadillac ownership meant so much as it does today.

Consider, for instance, the magnificent Cadillac V-12—and all that its ownership has come to imply.

Introduced to the public in October, 1930, this distinguished car is now but a year old; yet it has definitely become, in this short period of time, the outstanding car in its own fine field.

To own a Cadillac V-12, in any community in America, is to have your car acknowledged on every hand as one of the undeniably fine possessions a man can acquire.

The V-12 was destined, of course, from its very inception, to set an entirely new standard of general excellence—for back of it was Cadillac's long experience in the fine-car field, and a 30-year-old tradition of surpassing craftsmanship.

If you are not already familiar with the capabilities of this distinguished car, you are cordially invited to come in and drive it. Except the V-16 alone, no other car in the world can offer such completely captivating performance. In fact, we are certain you will always remember your first ride in a Cadillac V-12 as a most unusual experience.

Come in any time that suits your convenience. Or, if you prefer, telephone—and a V-12 will be sent to your door.

DEFEATED GARBAGE CONTRACT BIDDERS BLAME DELAY

'RUMORS' HURT FIRM, SAYS PRICHARD

Closing of Bank Also Cited As Factor in Rejection Of Modern Co.'s Low Bid

Interests who opposed the Modern Service Company and brought about delay in awarding the city's 1932 garbage contract were blamed today, as was the closing of the Franklin Savings and Trust Company, by officials of the Modern Company for its failure to get the contract.

Charles A. Bardolph, president of the Franklin Savings and Trust Company, which closed its doors Monday, is president of the Modern Service Company. A large portion of the company's funds is said to be tied up in the closed institution.

The Modern Service Company was low bidder. The American Reduction Company and its subsidiary, the Allegheny Garbage Company, were awarded the contracts yesterday, on higher bids.

PRICHARD SPEAKS

Dr. Charles B. Maits, city Health Director, awarded the contracts after Attorney Charles B. Prichard, secretary-treasurer of the Modern Service Company, asserted the bank closing had tied up its funds.

Later Prichard issued a statement charging rumor, hearsay and gossip against the company had "hurt" its chances. He said:

"Certain protests arose against awarding the contracts to our company, which protests were admittedly based on rumor and gossip, but were made publicly and with assurance that important information with reference thereto would be disclosed at a hearing before Council, which was requested. The fixing of the hearing involved delay, and the hearing was continued from time to time over a period of several weeks, during which time the motives and good faith of this company were publicly abused and confidence in the company adversely affected.

"If the company had been awarded these contracts at the time stated, it would have signed the same, furnished the bonds and begun work of construction, equipment and preparation, which by this time would have been well on the road to completion and beyond the point where present day conditions would have affected the situation."

CITES BOND RULING

Prichard pointed out that incinerator site options the company had purchased expired recently. Among other things that contributed to the delay, according to Prichard, was an adverse decision on a bond rendered by Judge Grey.

Modern Service Company's figures for rubbish removal on the North Side were $6.30 per ton and for the city proper, $6.25 per ton. Figures for collection and disposal of rubbish on the North Side were $4.50 per ton and for the city, $5.15 per ton.

The American Reduction Company's bid for garbage in the city was $6.58 per ton. The Allegheny Garbage Company will remove garbage on the North Side for $7.95 per ton and rubbish $7.02 per ton.

Burros That Aid Golfers Will Be Banquet Guests

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 24 — Star golfers of Western Pennsylvania, who attend the invitation competition of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association October 4 at the Summit Hotel, will sit down at a banquet table with eight burros in the assemblage.

This was decided by Leo L. Heyn, owner and manager of the hotel as a reward for the services rendered by the animals who carried hundreds of men and women golfers up the side of the mountain from one green to another. The animals will dine in style, their menu being hay and oats.

Special ceremonies are to be staged for "Napoleon" and "Queen Isabella," two of the favorite burros.

Heyn is planning to have the burros returned to their native climate in Mexico for the winter but will bring them back for next year's golf season.

Many Pittsburghers have signified their intentions of entering the invitation competition which will be held October 3 and 4.

P. O. BUILDING PLANS SPEEDED

Government architects are now checking final plans and preparing specifications for the new Pittsburgh federal building, according to information given the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce by the United States Treasury Department.

According to Congressman Edmund F. Erk, who submitted the information to the Chamber of Commerce, bids will be advertised and contracts for the work will be awarded by Assistant Secretary Perry K. Heath. It is expected that all bids and awards will be assigned in time for the steel to be fabricated when the foundation is finished. It is hoped that specifications will be ready within a month.

Health Insurance Laws Predicted

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24 — (AP.) — A prediction that the public in time would "interfere in the medical situation" and demand legislation providing for health insurance in order to bring down the cost of illness and its treatment was made last night by Dr. George P. RUNAWAY QUITS 'GRID CAREER'

George Vuskan, 16, of 33 Welsh road, South Side, has changed his mind again.

He is coming back home, willing to forego a football career as a member of the South Side High School team. It was an argument over his ambitions that caused George to flee his home, stowaway on a Havana-bound ship, and be ejected as the ship put into port at Miami, Fla. There, faced with the spectre of a 60-day jail sentence on a charge of vagrancy unless he promised to keep away from the resort city for two years, George elected to stay away.

Unable to raise funds for return transportation, the youth is "hitch-hiking" his way back to Pittsburgh.

KIDNAP STORY BRINGS FINE

Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today scouted a story told by Milton Baish, 40, of Cleveland, of being compelled by two Negro women to drive them from East Youngstown, O., to Pittsburgh, of their taking his auto and inducing him to consume moonshine at 607 Morgan street.

He was arrested yesterday when he complained to firemen at No. 3 engine company. He was fined $10 or 10 days in jail, on a suspicious person charge. One of the Negro women, Rebecca Hawkins, of East Youngstown, was fined a like sum. She said Baish had volunteered to drive her and a friend to Pittsburgh.

Radicals to Fight Reduction in Wages

A conference of steel workers has been called for Pittsburgh Sunday by an organization styled the Metal Workers Industrial League, affiliated with the Trade Union Unity League, a Communistic organization. According to announcement by John Meldon, national secretary of the Metal Workers League, over 300 delegates from 40 steel mills will meet at 2137 Center avenue to prepare to resist the 10 per cent wage cut announced in the steel industry. William Z. Foster, general secretary of the Unity League, the announcement says, will make the opening address at the conference.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Opposites May Attract, But They Seldom Stick

Why does a man fall for a girl as is

Then try to make her over as soon as she has whispered "yes"

Why does he rave about her cute peppy ways and her keen, sassy line the night he meets her

And then begins to nag about 'em a week after

Puzzled would like to know

Al fell for her because she was a Live Wire. And as long as he wasn't sure of her everything she did was like. Then she fell for Al, and immediately the picture changed. Nothing she did was right. So now

Dear Sally:

Why is it that a fellow will fall hard for a girl just as she is and then spend all his time trying to make her over into something she isn't

That is what has just happened to me, and it certainly has me wondering.

Several months ago I met Al and he certainly did seem to fall for me. I'm not saying this to be conceited, but that's the part that gets me so puzzled every time I try to figure it out.

We went together for five months and then we had a bad quarrel, and since both of us are hotheaded and stubborn, neither of us will give in, though I know he still cares for me and I care for him.

But the whole reason for our quarrel was that he got too bossy, and I didn't like it and told him so.

BECOMES BOSSY

He didn't like my chum and told me to drop her. He thought I was too wild because I like fun and parties, smoke and drink a little once in a while and like to laugh a good deal. But why shouldn't I? So long as I don't overdo it, I am just 19, healthy and modern, and I like fun just like anybody else. I'll have plenty of time to sit by the fire when I'm old. I want to enjoy myself now while I'm young. Why shouldn't I laugh? What's the use of going around with a long face or weeping on someone's shoulder?

Yet Al, insisted that I was "too wild," and not to compare me with his chums girls. Well, that just made me boil. My chum and I had drunk and smoke a little but we didn't go in for petting . . . and here's petting at that . . . which is exactly what that Model Girl does.

I like fun, but stop at petting and Al as well as all my other friends knows that. And he wants a modern girl . . . no wallflower. He likes fun himself. But when it comes to me . . . it's different.

What puzzles me is that I was always the way I am now and he liked me. But now after we've gone together for months, he doesn't seem to like the "real me" at all, but insists that I become somebody else.

I never told him what he should do or asked him to give up his friends. And I don't believe he would have done it if I had. Yet he tried to tell me what to do, and, thought I should like it. Even though we weren't really going steady.

If he had been nice about it it wouldn't have been so bad, but when he came out with a "you do this or we're through" manner, it sure made me mad. How does he get that way?

PUZZLED

How does he get that way? Because he's afraid. He's afraid of the very thing that first attracted him. He was drawn to you because you were gaming and smoking a bit, reckless. He liked those qualities because he lacked them. Yes, were the answer to something that he vaguely felt he needed. And so he fell.

FAILED TO WORK

And you, in all probability were equally attracted by some quality in him which you lacked—a caution and quiet strength which seemed most thrilling at a distance.

So you both fell.

Then he tried to fit your new recklessness into his life and you tried to fit his quietness and heaviness into your life. And it didn't work.

It was one thing to be fascinated by your recklessness but when he tried to live with it that was something else. It frightened him because it didn't fit into his scheme of things. Then all his old conventional conservative habits rose up in revolt against this new pattern of behavior.

You scared him, youngster. And he made you mad. Opposites may attract as the old saying goes, but opposites seldom stick.

As for his admiration of his chums girl, that is easy to explain. To him that "necking" looks like affection—which is something he understands. Women are supposed to be loving—but women aren't supposed to drink and smoke. Not in his world. Stupids, he doesn't see that her promiscuous petting is much more dangerous than your frank frolicsomeness.

FACE IT HONESTLY

And what can you do about it? Well, unless you're both willing to make compromises, you'd both better quit right now. For there'll be no happiness in marriage if you're everlastingly trying to make each other over. You may both be grand people but if you live in two entirely different worlds, you'll never mix.

So face it honestly, little girl. Don't fly into a temper. It isn't his fault and it isn't yours. It's just the way we humans are made. Sometimes we're made fit to be partners. And if we aren't, there is no sense in trying to buck life.

Follow Dictates of Your Own Heart in Love Affairs, Fay King Advises

LEAVE HIM! THAT'S MY ADVICE!
IT'S NOTHING BUT A LITTLE SPAT ALL MARRIED FOLKS HAVE NOW AND THEN — FORGET IT!
SHE'S RIGHT! I DO LOVE MY HUSBAND AND I DON'T WANT TO LEAVE HIM
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

The only reliable source of advice in problems of love and marriage is your own heart.

For no other person can possibly be aware of just how deeply you care or how much you're hurt.

Decision depends on this.

A young friend may advise you to leave your husband. But her advice is bound to be based more or less on what were her own feelings regarding her own divorce. She probably didn't love her husband as much as you do yours.

An older woman who has remained married is safer to consult. Even then you should consult your own heart.

Follow the dictates of your own heart.

Don't waver between the influence of this friend or that one. Be true to yourself.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Katherine Reveals Thought She Has Harbored for Years

I rose from my chair at Katherine's tremulous question, and going over to her chair, took her by the shoulders and shook her affectionately, but with a touch of grimness.

"How you've escaped the commission from Bellevue is a mystery to me," I said. "Now I'm going to treat you as if you were the moron you appear to be. Don't you dare to speak until I get through telling you the facts of life in words of one syllable."

I went back to my chair and drawing it close to hers, leaned forward and spoke slowly, with grim earnestness.

"In the first place I was brought up with Jack Bickett. He was not even a first cousin, but our mothers were cousins who were like sisters in their love for each other, and when Jack's mother died my mother took her place as far as she could. I know him as well as I possibly could my own brother, and I know that Jack's affection for me was not the real love of his life although he thought it was until he met you. My dear girl, as Dicky would say, he went down for the count the first time he saw you.

"I have a very distinct memory of Jack's return from the war. I went on giving her no opportunity to interrupt my diatribe. It was at the time of that awful misunderstanding of Dicky's over my father's return. You were already here with me, and when Jack walked into the room, surprising me, I ran to him, and clung to him as I always had done in my childhood. I have a very distinct recollection, my dear, of the distressed look which Jack sent toward you. He was so fussed for the moment that he didn't know whether he was out of the trenches or not. And his confusion wasn't due to any lurking concealed affection for me, or even any consideration for me. His mind was focused on just one thing, and that was a fear lest you would misunderstand my welcome to him. If ever a man was head over heels in love with a woman, with no thought of anybody else in the world, he was that man."

The color which had left her face after her spirited refusal to play any game with her husband's love at stake, came running back to her cheeks, and her eyes were suddenly starry.

"That helps, you dear," she said, "even though that thing you hold in your hand may be true. I wish I had asked you this years ago, but you know——"

"Yes, I know," I finished, "just how ridiculous any woman can be where a point like this one is at issue. In your place, I should be just as you are, but let us be thankful that it's finally cleared up. For it is—isn't it?" I finished anxiously, "You'll never be anxious about this particular thing again?"

"You have been truth itself ever since I have known you," Katherine replied affectionately, "I do not think you would deceive me upon a point as vital as this. I'm not going to begin to doubt you, now."

"Thank you," I said with emphasis, "and I'm going to ask you to give me a proof of what you have just said. I want you to——"

She gripped the arm of her chair and her lips were suddenly bloodless again.

"Not to write to Jack!" she said. "Not to send him that letter! That is something I never can do, even for you, Madge. The hurt has gone too deep. Perhaps I am doing him an injustice. I do not know. But until he comes to me, himself, and convinces me that that thing in your hands is false, I am through. I shall never lift the traditional finger, to find out. Give that thing to me and let me tear it up."

"At last you've named the thing I was going to ask you," I said quickly, hoping the recording angel was busy with some other mendacious woman. "I don't want you to write to Jack nor to send this to him. I'll promise you I won't send it to him, either. But I don't want it destroyed. I want you to let me keep it safely for you so that when Jack comes home——"

"If he comes home, you mean," she said bitterly.

"Have it your own way," I returned imperturbably. "So that if he comes home, and we find that he is really ignorant of this you can show him what justification you had for your silence. Will you let me keep it?"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

To Neglect Ailment of the Eyes Is Dangerous

One of the fine organizations intended to relieve human suffering, is known as "The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness."

Dr. Copeland

Under its auspices is issued a publication, "The Sight-Saving Review."

This magazine seeks to call the attention of its readers to the necessity of an organized campaign against diseases of the eye. This is of vital importance to the public welfare. For 16 years the present organization has done great work in the prevention of blindness.

Such efforts should receive the support of every citizen. Nationwide recognition of the scope and aim of this society will contribute greatly to the reduction of blindness. The truth of this statement lies in the fact that from 50 to 70 per cent of all blindness can be prevented.

Not so long ago, a disease known as "ophthalmi neonatorum," an inflammation of the eyes in new-born babies caused 30 per cent of all blindness among children. This disease is preventable and efforts to avoid it have been remarkably successful. In 1930 only 9 5-10 per cent of all blindness in children was due to this terrible affliction.

Such diseases as diphtheria, measles and smallpox used to result in many cases of blindness. Because of better understanding of these conditions and their control, there has been a marked reduction in blindness due to infectious diseases.

Of course, there are many diseases of the eye which, if neglected, produce blindness. I cannot overstate the need of early and continued treatment of any disease of the organ of vision.

The longer you neglect any ailment of the eye, the longer it will take to cure. Many conditions, if neglected too long become incurable and result in permanent blindness.

Your eyes are of vital value to you. Do not neglect these precious organs. Consult with your doctor, who will send you to a specialist if necessary.

Household Hints

Toothbrushes should frequently be dipped into boiling water to disinfect them.

Snakeskin and alligator shoes will clean nicely with a cream that is used for any light-colored shoes.

After washing handkerchiefs, steep overnight in clean water to which a little cream of tartar has been added. When ironed they will be beautifully white.

When washing up put a piece of lemon peel into the bowl. It will soften the water, remove all traces of the smell of fish, onions and so on, and put a fine gloss on china.

Did you know you can buy a pie-sealing tape that comes by the yard and is used to wrap around the edges of the unbaked crust to prevent it from burning while the pie is baking? It is removed when the pie is done. It would prove invaluable to the cook who baked a great many pies, especially during the berry pie season.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

To sleep restfully, form the habit of making the mind a blank. It can be done. Doctors learn the trick. They sleep any time.

When walking don't lift up your feet so that the soles of your shoes are displayed to anyone coming in the opposite direction. By pointing toes downward the body has more spring, and one doesn't fall into the bad habit of pushing and dragging along, instead of stepping.

Let no long-nosed carper set up a protest against the waist-slimming that is going on. It is a good thing. The torso is one part of the body that is most benefitted by exercise. Arms and legs get enough in the day's activities. Bending the body, twisting, stretching, not only order the fat cells to get out and away but these movements accelerate intestinal activity, pull hips down to slenderer lines, do pretty much everything that they should.

A sallow skin won't give way before external applications. It is caused usually by poor elimination of body wastes or digestive upsets. All the bleaches in the world won't budge that greenery-yellery tint that is suggestive of biliousness. Diet is the remedy, more fruit juices and fresh vegetables. All the citrus fruits are good for whitening the skin. Take orange juice before breakfast. Or lemon juice in water with a dash of salt added. Have a grapefruit at luncheon, or a grapefruit and orange salad with dressing of salt, olive oil and lemon juice.

Cornmeal, mixed with soapsuds, is simply elegant for washing the hands after rough housework has been done—wiping off windowsills or polishing the gas range. Use a hand lotion afterwards.

Now it is lilac finger polish. Which is about the worst yet. Though goodness knows gold-plated claws were bad enough. The shade of nail shellac that discriminating women use is a deep natural tint. By the way, when putting on the liquid glimmer, go over the nail surface just once. One application wears better, is less likely to flake than repeated coatings. Don't cover the precious half moon or the nail cave.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Referring to the Doctor-Husband

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly tell me what is correct regarding the following question?

My husband is a dentist and of course I call him "The Doctor" when speaking of him in public. Is it all right to call him by his first name among friends or especially more intimate friends?

F. B.

Will you give me the privilege, please, of urging you not to refer to your husband ever as "The Doctor." This is never good form no matter what kind of "doctor" a man is. You shouldn't say "The Doctor" any more than you would say "The Mr." if your husband hadn't a degree. DOCTOR as a title should be used as MR. as a title is used . . . before the name DOCTOR ADAMS . . . MR. ADAMS.

To tradespeople or servants therefore you would use the form DOCTOR ADAMS. To patients you use either DOCTOR ADAMS or MY HUSBAND. If you know the patient, and the patient knows that you are Mrs. Adams you'd it would be best to say MY HUSBAND.

To acquaintances you would refer to your husband as JOHN or, if you know them very slightly, MY husband.

The Ready-Made Card

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I sent a convalescent card to a young man who works in the office with me. I signed my full name and made certain that the sentiment was not "too friendly." When this young man returned to work he said absolutely nothing about the card, although I have positive proof that he received it. Could you explain this attitude? H. K.

I can't explain this for it may, of course, be one of a hundred reasons. One reason I think it may be, perhaps this young man is one of the people who find ready-made cards most unattractive, especially cards for occasions like this, when they are not in good form. Perhaps he feels so strongly about this that he prefers not to mention the card rather than to say about it something that he does not honestly feel.

Don't think that I am condoning his lack of mention of his appreciation of your kindness in thinking to send a card. He should have done this anyway, even if he did not approve of or like the card itself.

But do dear friend remember that it is better to write a note, a note in which you yourself express in your own way the thought of appropriate for the occasion. Don't rely on the ready-made expression of the ready-made card.

KLEENEX

DISPOSABLE TISSUES

SCHOOL days are here—start now to guard against colds and other epidemics.

One protection you can give your child is Kleenex disposable tissues instead of handkerchiefs.

Kleenex tissues are soft, dainty squares to use once and destroy. Compare the cleanly Kleenex way with the old-time handkerchief, which tests show may contain literally millions of germs!

Children particularly need Kleenex, because they are so careless, and because they contract nose and throat infections so readily. Supply your child today with Kleenex . . . teach him to use it once and then destroy.

Children prefer Kleenex

Children prefer Kleenex, once they try it. Made of cellulose, it's softer than any handkerchief. And nearly twice as absorbent—thus preventing irritation. And with Kleenex there's never any trouble over lost or stained handkerchiefs. It costs even less than laundering alone.

Many uses

There's nothing like Kleenex for saving your time and temper a dozen times a day. For wiping spectacles; for applying medicines; for minor bandages; for wiping razor blades . . . these are but a few of the many uses for Kleenex. And don't forget that Kleenex is declared the safest, most efficient way of removing face creams by those experienced in skin care. Its superior absorbency is needed to remove all impurities from the pores. All drug, dry goods and department stores sell Kleenex.

DISEASE GERMS that thrive in handkerchiefs used during colds include the Pneumococcus, Streptococcus (pus germs), Staphylococcus, and Catarrhalis, bacteriological tests show.

KLEENEX disposable TISSUES

Dirty handkerchiefs are a menace to society!

WHAT RADIO ARTISTS EARN :-:

We Now Present

By Darrell V. Martin
Radio Editor

GRAHAM M'NAMEE, Phil Cook and the team of Billie Jones and Ernie Hare are running a race to see which will pass the $100,000 income mark this year . . . they're the highest paid individuals outside of Amos 'n' Andy and Gene and Glenn . . . Exclusive stars like Olive Palmer and Jessica Dragonette get a check for $750 in the mail each week . . . Will Rogers won't even chew his gum before the microphone for less than $6,000 . . . Vaughn de Leath and Paul Oliver work on commercials for $500 each . . . Floyd Gibbons isn't receiving so much any more, but he manages to get along with five secretaries (one a Pittsburgh girl) at the minimum figure of $1,000 a week . . . For the quality of her voice, Elizabeth Lennox is worth more than $150 a session . . . There was a time that James Melton performed for $250, but now it's $350 . . . but Lois Bennett and Countess Albani still appear for that figure . . . Of the band leaders, Paul Whiteman takes the biggest cut, $2,500 for himself . . . but Rudy Vallee and Vincent Lopez are right at his heels at $1,800 each for personal services . . . Rubinoff will twirl the bow for $1,500 and no questions asked . . . Network announcers don't make such a much . . . from $50 to $85 a week . . . except McNamee and Cross, who look sponsors straight in the eye when they say $250 . . . a musician in a chain program rehearses half an hour and does half an hour on the air for $20, no more, no less . . . Irene and Billie Harding, the Pittsburgh piano-organ duo on NBC, get $22.50 apiece for three duets.

Ever know that Lois Bennett, soprano, was discovered by Carrie Jacobs Bond, composer of "I Love You Truly"? . . . Lois travels to Cleveland from New York tonight to appear with Tom Waring, Pittsburgh success, on WTAM's 9:30 concert . . . It'll cost the sponsor $250 and train fare.

Question a Day:

I understand from some of your writeups that the "control room" is one of the most interesting parts of a broadcasting station. Yet I have visited four or five stations and never been shown the "inside" of radio—where the network wires come in from New York, the needle indicator which you say guides the operator in modulating a singer's voice, and all that. Where do they have the control rooms, usually?—Frank S., Lincoln Place, Pa.

Answer—The control room is always close to the studios. Sometimes it is above the studios so the operators may watch the artists' movement. Control rooms are no longer open to the public since John Hallein, engineer at WBZA in Springfield, was electrocuted a few weeks ago by touching a high tension wire. While the voltage around control boards is hardly more than 500 (enough to kill a man with a weak heart) yet station managers take no chances and ban all visitors except on special occasions. If you are mechanically interested, we shall be glad to arrange an inspection tour at any local station.

Studio Lights

Harry Salter, the radio maestro, always calls Welcome Lewis "Good News" . . . because, he explains, good news is always welcome . . .

Believe it or not, Morton Downey forgot the words to "My Wild Irish Rose" in that recent Boston celebration, but squared everything with "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" . . .

Sherlock Holmes solves "The Disappearance of Lady Frances Colfax" on WEAF, WTIC, WGY at 9:30 tonight . . .

Pat McCullough, of Bellevue, formerly with WCAE, has been appointed staff pianist at WJR, Detroit . . .

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians are due at WLW next Wednesday night . . .

Five trumpet players in Abe Lyman's Orchestra are "extras" who receive $65 a week for providing the trumpet fanfare at the beginning and close of the program . . .

The new Classic Series on NBC-WCAE is to be presented but once a month . . . this Sunday night Rudolf Friml is to be in the studio with Richard Bonelli, baritone, and Nanette Guilford, soprano. . .

Dick Powell, Dave Rubinoff, Don Bester—three successes linked with Pittsburgh—first met on the stage in Indianapolis. . . .

Fletcher Henderson has the wanderlust and is scheduled to pass through Pittsburgh late in October. . . .

The Radio World's Fair in New York has broken all attendance records. . . .

Harold Sanford, NBC conductor, is a direct descendant of William Cullen Bryant, poet . . . we think Bryant's "Thanatopsis" a perfect poem and Sanford's directing a perfect symphony. . . .

Helen D., Beaver, Pa.—Amos is 30 and Andy is 39. . . .

Paul Small's right name is Paul Lougher but he changed it to Small when he and Little Jack Little traveled vaudeville together.

Parabolic microphones that resemble a huge searchlight are to be used by NBC in reporting football games at The Stadium this fall . . . these mikes will add more color to the broadcasts by picking up the cheers of the fans and the music of the Pitt and Tech bands . . .

S. L. Rothafel (Roxy) and a host of NBC executives, are at sea today en route to Europe to observe modern broadcast studios and theaters, scouting for ideas to be incorporated in Radio City in New York.

Today's Tid Bit:

Ralph Dumke and Ed East (Sisters of the Skillet) were on their way in a taxicab to a steamer to take pictures. The cab hit a bump and East's head hit the roof, knocking him out. They stretched him out in a deck chair, placed Dumke alongside him, and made a comedy picture instead of a more serious voyaging picture they had planned.

"Buddy says I'm fun now"

I'm a happier woman since I changed to Chipso!

I guess I OFTEN was a cross, TIRED MOTHER when WASHDAYS were so HARD

* * *

I'm taking LIFE EASIER since I've CHANGED to THE NEW CHIPSO!

* * *

CHIPSO beats OTHER SOAPS with BIGGER and SOAPIER SUDS! They get DIRT OUT without hard RUBBING

Your Human Horseshoe

The lower intestine is about five feet long and shaped like an inverted U—thus ∩.

It is lined with sacs, pockets and folds. It is the waste canal of the body. Once medical science paid little attention to it; now it is recognized as the evil source of most diseases. The headaches you get, digestive distress, sleeplessness and general debility emanate from this "horseshoe"—and so do those graver afflictions such as hardened arteries, high blood pressure, rheumatism, arthritis, sciatica and liver and kidney disorders.

Due to our soft foods, lack of exercise and highly artificial civilization, the passage of digestive waste through your "horseshoe curve" is entirely too slow. The powerful intestinal muscles have become flabby, lazy and weak. Waste fills the sacs and pockets—and stays there. Gases, germs and poisons form in abundance. The blood vessels in the intestinal walls absorb the germs and poisons—are doing it constantly. Carrying them to all tissues and organs. Impairing their efficiency and power—dragging you down, destroying your energy. That is why you feel so low and wretched.

Of course the obvious way to get a new physical start in life—and to keep it—is to flush that lower intestine absolutely clean. Every sac and pocket. An enema won't do it—its water reaches only the first bend. Internal Bathing with the J.B.L. Cascade will—it floods the entire length, dissolves everything in every sac and pocket—with clear, warm water purified by a marvelous cleansing tonic. All in a few minutes and without the slightest pain. Not only that but it strengthens and invigorates the intestinal muscles so elimination becomes normal and also heals any inflammation.

The effect of a single J.B.L. Cascade Internal Bath is truly magical. Taken just before retiring you sleep like a child. You rise feeling fine as silk. Your mind is keen as a razor's edge. You have zest for the day, energy for the task. Simply because you have freed your body of those intestinal poisons and germs.

At any of our stores you can procure FREE a booklet entitled, "Why We Should Bathe Internally." It describes the J.B.L. Cascade principle in detail. It reveals how Internal Bathing has brought glowing health, clear complexions and abundant vitality to more than 1,000,000 men and women. See what it will do for you. Get your copy today—and ask to see the Cascade.

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The barons of broadcasting continue to sniff at jazz. They shake hands with it, welcome it into their salons, bid it stay for dinner and spend the evening. But this invitation is more political than a matter of cordial friendship.

They know their dear invisible public waits for jazz as it waits for the return of prosperity. They have to include it in their social plans much as an aspiring Washington hostess has to include a despised diplomat at her dinner table.

The broadcasters are original if nothing else. Were they to follow the lead of the bigwigs of music—the Stokowskis, the Damroschs, the Gattis, even the Toscaninis, they would be falling over each other seeking to inspire new jazz works. But their call is entirely for the classical when it is not for a new lyric tribute to Carolina's moonshine.

* * *

You'd think with such masters of the jazz idiom in America as Gershwin, Grofe, Rube Bloom they would set up attractive bait—say a $50,000 bait for a modern jazz conception of New York life, something that would express the turmoil, the tempestuousness, the titanic grandeur of the town. Gershwin seems to us the man to do it. His music is written on a broader canvas than that of his fellows in the jazz vineyards. Moreover, he knows his New York, has a composer's feeling for it. Maybe, he's too near to the city.

* * *

Yet, he says not. He told me he does not need the perspective of great distance to write. He gets his inspiration from the people he meets daily, the scenes that are familiar to him. Right now he is writing tunes for a musical satire on politics, with a special finger-pointing at the White House. Far up in the seclusion of a Riverside Drive penthouse he is working out themes that may debunk political America as Gilbert and Sullivan debunked British government decades ago. The debunking, of course, will be strictly in the jazz tempo.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a sick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

New Holt-Graves Film Given New Title

A Dangerous Affair" is the final title of the Jack Holt and Ralph Graves mystery drama which was tentatively titled The Ghost Walks. The film is being made under the direction of Edward Sedgwick with Sally Blane as feminine lead.

NOW LEARNING FRENCH

She sings in French as well as with such ease that you would think she knew the language perfectly but she doesn't think so. She is studying French at odd moments perhaps to qualify as an Alsatian. Aren't Strassburg and Sesenheim French since the great war?

At Rouen where she has sung in opera she became much interested in the story of Joan of Arc who was burned as a witch in the market place of that city. At Tours another place where she sang she looked in each for relics of the great battle in which Charles Martel defeated the Saracens and saved Europe from becoming Mahometan.

All in all Greta Alpeter is quite a remarkable young woman and will be heard from when "Three Little Girls" have grown up.

MARJ: My, that's a peach of a slip!
NAN: Yes, Alice gave it to me last Christmas
MARJ: Goodness, I thought it was new...
NAN: Just washed in Lux—it's wonderful for keeping clothes like new. And it only takes a jiffy.

Protect your underthings this simple 7-minute way

Simply take care to wash them with Lux. You know it's made to keep colors and fine things—silks, chiffons, rayons—like new. Anything safe in water alone is just as safe in Lux.

So why risk using ordinary soaps? They're so apt to take out some color, to weaken fibres so that they soon wear out. Extravagant, isn't it?

Especially when a few cents' worth of Lux does underthings every day for a whole week!

Wash after each wearing, for perspiration acids left in silk fade colors and rot the threads. With Lux diamonds it takes only a few minutes—less time than it takes to wash your face and hands.

Never rub dainty lingerie with cake soap. It tends to streak colors and weaken fabrics. Lux removes perspiration acids and odor completely—yet leaves colors like new. Anything safe in water alone is just as safe in Lux.

Don't use too-warm water. Lux gives instant suds in lukewarm water and won't fade or shrink fabrics.

Wash this 4-minute way:
1. One tablespoon of Lux diamonds does one day's underthings.
2. Dip up and down in the rich sparkling suds, rinse twice, squeeze in bath towel, shake out.

Try Lux FREE. Try this wonderful care for your lingerie, at our expense. Just send us your name and address, and by return mail you will receive a full-sized package of Lux free. Write today to Lever Brothers Co., Dept. XL-6, Cambridge, Mass.

LUX for underthings keeps them like new in spite of frequent washing

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Wonder if it is true that my favor-IT person, Garbo, was here for a fortnight at the Marguery without being recognized? . . . I hate to admit that I didn't know she was here . . . My face gets so red . . . Ann Cutler, of that hostelry's exploitation bureau, asserts that Greta located there, and only a few of the attaches knew it. . . . And that Greta shopped in the better stores and witnessed the finer plays and nobody spotted her . . . Greta, it appears, had made a wager that it could be done . . . And she won! . . . Funny—I'll have Ruth ask Bob Reud, the only male pal of Greta's in New York. . . . He ought to know . . . That racketeering guy from Philadelphia, who is a concrete example of what isn't a Sissy, has the most dangerous pastime I ever heard of . . . He flings stinging bits of tinfoil at your cheeks via the rubber-band sling-shot . . . And they hurt, too . . . The "clown," they say, enjoys doing it best when motoring . . . He slows down and uses traffic cops as targets. . . . Then speeds away chuckling if he hits, and he rarely misses. . . . Of course, he could blind a guy doing it, but One Must Have His Moments, you know . . . Such rollicking sport and fun! . . . I think I'd go crazy having nothing to do with my mind, small as it is . . . Maybe you live longer if you play all the time and have no problems . . . Here I am being worked up into a lather over nothing again, when I just thought of something more important. . . . That Kate Smith actually is in her 9th week at the Palace. . . . Pevvensakes' . . . What's the big idea? . . . Can't they get her outta the door?

That was a graceful gesture on the part of Sam Jaffe, the lead in "Grand Hotel" . . . He took a week's holiday . . . When he returned to the cast he presented the chap who understudied him with a crisp new $100 bill . . . First time I ever heard of a star giving a lesser known a break . . . The lesser known gave $20 of the gift to two others in the show who understudied his "bits" . . . There must be a depression going on because people say so . . . But in six of the smarter speaks during the week-end you couldn't get elbow room against the bars or a table for 10 hours! . . . Wonder what's become of all the poor people? . . . Love is beautiful sometimes . . . Take that Patricia Dolan girl . . . After all those weeks of rehearsing with a new show in that stifling heat even up to the last dress rehearsals, she quit . . . To join her old show, "Crazy Quilt," now touring . . . Just to be by her honey—a chorus boy in the same troupe . . . Ah, me . . . Funny, even if untrue. . . . The one about the famous magazine editor who was with his art director at the Player's Club the other night . . . Both got highly carbonated on laughing soup . . . The art director affectionately put an arm around the editor's neck and said: "You know I haven't done a stitch of work in a year for you. I've been having myself a good time and you've been fine about it." . . . The editor, however, wasn't that fried . . . So the mag hasn't an art director now.

That Bobby Brodsley, pretty thing in the "Follies," doesn't know it, they say . . . How she spurned a nice coat from the lad she shelved . . . He wanted to give it to her as a peace offering. . . . But she is wearing it and thinks she won it in a contest thrown at an apartment party . . . The beauty contest being fixed so she'd cop 1st Prize . . . It all being arranged by the jilted one with his pal, the party-thrower . . . That profile on B. Lillie was very encouraging . . . Wonder why it didn't include the fact that Miss Lillie works that hard to support her invalid husband, Sir Robert Peel, who was hanged up in the Big Tiff? . . . That sentimental touch about Lillie makes me Care more than ever about her . . . That book, "Women for Sale," by Chili Acuna, probably will be a hit . . . It packs a wallop . . . Wonder why the Times and Post laid off that portion of former Ambassador Gerard's statement which took a sock at the General Electric Company? . . . I've got to tease John Mason Brown, the dramatic critic . . . He rooms with Donald Oenslager, the scenic designer, whose sets in "Free For All" were very swell . . . Yet Brown was the only critic who spelled his tag wrong . . . Wonder if there is anything to the talk about a violinist in the orchestra on the Europa or the Bremen mysteriously disappearing at sea recently?

Funny about that lad on that conservative rag who asserts that he is the only newspaper man in town who knows exactly when to wear white gloves, etc. . . . He showed up for work the other day wearing gray-striped pants, mustard-colored coat, orange tie and green galluses . . . Just a Dandy, that's what . . . So what happened? . . . So the city editor had an important assignment for him, but made him go home to change his clothes before letting him go out on the story . . . I should have known better, I guess. . . . I mean about running that Sun-Post marriage thing again. . . . I had just told Nathan and Benchley that there was nothing to those persistent rumors . . . And that the Sun's editor had bawled the Post staff for spreading it, and that I wouldn't mention it again . . . The same night I got it from two breathless sources who never failed me before . . . Rather than lose what is laughingly called a scoop, I ran it, and Mr. Raskob was embarrassed, he said . . . I'm sorry, and all that, but I'm alone here . . . The newspapers with their staffs of 200 trip now and then, too, so I ought to be allowed to, also . . . I like Sir Lawrence's description of New York . . . It is like strychnine . . . It perks you up until it lays you out . . . Broadway isn't hot, yet . . . It has 22 legit shows, compared to 34 last season this time . . . And not one dramatic hit!

Well, I'm glad I found that out . . . I mean the proper pronunciation of those new hats the gels wear . . . "Oo-Jenny," it is, the "oo" as in booze . . . The new Club Plaza testifies to the fact "whoopee" is a new word . . . On its announcements it spells it "whoopie" . . . That amusing crack about "bagging the lion to go away!" pulled by Willie Howard in "Scandals," I am now informed, was one of Groucho Marx's better sallies in the screen version of "Animal Crackers" . . . Those wits on the Times are always belittlin' . . . Instead of putting the announcement of that columnist joining a new play on its amusement pages, they put it on their obituary page!

Patrolmen in Dress Suits Attend Parties to Keep Hold-Up Men Away

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 24.

Motion picture people are orderly folk, according to Charles C. Blair, chief of police in Beverly Hills, where many of the screen celebrities have their homes.

As for wild parties, it is a rare occasion, he says, when the police have to call anyone and ask them to quiet down. More often, a couple of dress suit officers are sent up to guard the party against possible holdup. If the gathering is a large one, other patrolmen are assigned to watch the grounds.

Beverly Hills probably is the most strictly policed town in the world. It's four square miles are guarded by 40 officers, working in three eight-hour shifts. They pass any given spot in their beat once an hour. And if a film star is going out of town, the officers make a circle of the premises, trying windows and doors to see that no intruders have entered.

Harold Lloyd

To cut down the number of solicitors bothering the stars, Chief Blair requires all house-to-house salesmen to get police permits. When they make the application, they also have to undergo finger-printing. Ten days are then allowed to see if the applicant has a criminal record. On a number of occasions, this has proven to be the case. Chief Blair believes many daylight burglaries have been prevented by this precaution.

Another service given the stars is the hiring of watchmen. Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin, Harold Lloyd, Jack Warner and many other film people engage private watchmen through the police department.

Chief Blair defied me to loiter any place in Beverly Hills for 10 minutes without a policeman asking me my business. I didn't try it. What would I have said?

LATEST GOSSIP

An eye-witness tells me that Lew Ayres was married wearing a three days growth of beard. . . . Looked in a Hollywood branch of the Stock Exchange, but no film people visible. "You're five months too late," the girl said mournfully. . . . Mickey Mouse will appear in a football picture this fall, according to his creator, Walt Disney. . . . The Sam Jaffes, Kay Francis and Kenneth Mackenna, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mankiewicz all wil have thrown parties for Edmund Lowe and Lilyan Tashman by the time the popular pair get away tomorrow for Europe. Pretty strenuous activity, I calls it, for a man on the verge of a nervous breakdown . . . . Winnie Lightner is ill, too ill to be interviewed or photographed. Her physician has ordered quiet if she is to be ready to start her picture on schedule . . . . Connie Bennett is expecting 35 new creations from Paris. She tells me she was the only private customer granted showings of the new models during her recent visit to Paris. The reason was the buyers were in town. Incidentally, 26 of these costumes will be used in Connie's new picture. The rest are for her personal wardrobe . . . . I have a letter from Fifi Dorsay, written in Boston. It begins, characteristically, "Allo Beeg Boy." She tells of meeting Joe E. Brown, Polly Moran and Raquel and Renne Torres on her personal appearance tour.

Connie Bennett

WHAT A REPUTATION

As Lew Cody tells the story on himself, I don't see the harm of repeating it.

The other night, Monta Bell's young daughter came in later than the 9 p. m. parental deadline. Monta ordered her upstairs.

On her way out, she turned:

"I haven't done anything wrong," she objected plaintively. "The way you talk, I might have been out with Lew Cody."

Gandhi Seen In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The first pictures of Mahatma Gandhi's arrival in London is one of the features of the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. Fulfilling his promise, the little 70-year-old leader of 350,000,000 persons greets staid London clad in a loin cloth and a winding sheet. The pictures show his arrival at Marseilles and the cameramen follow him to London, where he is shown entering the tenement in a squalid district of the city where he is making his home.

Other Indian delegates, mostly princes and men of great wealth, clad in royal raiment, are unnoticed by the thousands that pack the street to greet this toothless, bespectacled, brown wisp of a man. A description of the scene is given by the Globe Trotter.

New York City is preparing for the opening of the Washington Memorial Bridge across the North River from New Jersey to New York, the mightiest structure ever conceived. "Human flies" are shown putting the finishing touches on the bridge. Views including a shot of the dirigible Los Angeles flying over the colossal $60,000,000 structure.

Disregarding dangerous curves on the dirt track at the Mineola, Long Island, fair ground, automobile racers tear around the small oval, flirting with death. There are several bad skids and one of the cars smashes into a fence and is demolished. The driver is seen being hurled high into the air, but he lands upon a clump of bushes and escapes with his life.

PIGSKIN BOYS OUT

There are lively football pictures of the Trojans on the West coast and of the University of Pennsylvania.

In Washington, the commission appointed by President Hoover to investigate and aid plans for unemployment relief reports through Director W. S. Gifford and Owen D. Young.

A new kind of airship that does almost everything but play leap-frog comes from Paris. It is a combination of dirigible and helicopter, which goes straight up, straight down, sideways or forward at 50 miles an hour.

After 40, Constipation is Most Dangerous

CONSTIPATION may easily become chronic after forty. Continued constipation at that time of life is productive of piles—and a host of other disorders.

Watch your bowels at any age. Guard them with particular care after forty. When they need help, a doctor knows what is best.

"Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin," is a doctor's prescription for the bowels. Tested by 47 years' practice, it has been found thoroughly effective in relieving constipation and its ills for men, women and children of all ages. It has proven perfectly safe even for babies. Made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin, and other mild, harmless ingredients, it cannot gripe; will not sicken you or weaken you; can be used without harm as often as your breath is bad, your tongue is coated; whenever a headachy, bilious, gassy condition warns of constipation.

Next time, take a spoonful of this family doctor's laxative. See how good it tastes; how gently and thoroughly it acts. All druggists.

Now! Whiten Dull Teeth 3 Shades in 3 Days

MODERN dental science has made important new discoveries in lightening dull or yellowish teeth. You can lighten your own teeth—no matter how "off-color" they are—3 shades in 3 days.

Obtain a tube of the special, antiseptic dental cream called KOLYNOS. Then spread it on a DRY toothbrush—no water on the brush, understand—and SCRUB your teeth with a ROTARY movement for about 15 seconds. This creates a heavy antiseptic foam that goes into every crack and crevice, destroying the mouth germs that cause most ugly teeth. Destroying, according to test, 190,000,000 of these germs in that 15 seconds.

In a few days your teeth look shades whiter; your gums pink and coral. You're no longer afraid to smile. KOLYNOS is supplied by warrant to H. R. H. The Prince of Wales, H. R. H. Dowager Queen Marie of Roumania, and many other world-famous celebrities. Discard your present, less scientific way today. Buy a tube of Kolynos.

TEN-CENT FOOTBALL TO HELP GAME

IN INTRODUCING 10-CENT football for the youngsters of the Pittsburgh district, as announced by W. Don Harrison, Panther athletic director, a plan whereby those under 16 will need only a dime on each occasion to be admitted to at least five and possibly six of the games to be played by Pitt and Carnegie Tech at the Stadium this season, the athletic chiefs of the two big schools have taken a step that is to be highly commended. It gives the kids a break that will please everybody and helps the sport, besides.

W. Don Harrison

The arrangement is most opportune, too, as preventing the depression from depriving the youngsters of a chance to see some real college games, coming at a time when many a dad is not in a position to give his child the price of an average ticket. It is not only a popular move that is likely to meet with an appreciative response in large turnouts of the kiddies on all the dates open to them at the 10-cent rate, but one that will help football in the future by giving the rising generation an early interest and education in the gridiron sport.

SEVERAL YEARS AGO the major league magnates put baseball beyond the reach of the kids by abolishing the 25-cent bleachers. The comparatively few seats in that modest section did not mean much in daily financial returns but they were important as the breeding place of a healthy and enduring interest in the diamond pastime.

Fans were bred there who continued to be regular patrons in later years when they could afford higher-priced seats. That the failure of the club owners to nourish and develop this "cradle" interest has affected the baseball attendance to some extent in recent years is not to be doubted.

FOOTBALL MEN EVIDENTLY are not going to make a similar mistake and it will not be surprising if the lead of the Pitt and Carnegie Tech officials in opening the gates to the kids for a dime is followed in other parts of the country.

The 10-cent arrangement here will hold good for the Pitt-Miami opening game next Saturday, Carnegie-W. & J. October 3, Pitt-West Virginia October 10, Pitt-Western Reserve October 17, Carnegie-Purdue October 24 and if there is enough room to accommodate the youngsters on that date, Pitt-Nebraska on Thanksgiving Day. The youthful fans will be admitted at the north end of the Stadium, near the medical school and will be given seats in Sections 26, 27, 28 and 29.

INCIDENTALLY, THE PITTSBURGH grid chiefs report that football interest here was never higher. Director Harrison has received orders for more than 45,000 tickets for the Pitt-Army game on November 14, and though it has more than 20,000 seats remaining he warns the fans that they must send in their orders to him at the Stadium at once to avoid possible disappointment. Manager Overend, too, reports such a continued rush of orders for tickets to the Carnegie-Notre Dame game on October 31 as to assure an early sell-out and he advises against further delay on the part of those who have not already sent in their applications.

Andy High

WITH ALL DUE respect to the regular players on the club that has landed a second straight pennant for St. Louis, the part played by the second-string men in the victory, as in that of the A's is not to be overlooked.

Andy High, whom the St. Louis bosses tried to send to the minors in the spring, and who has filled in at second, third and short, besides doing some fine pinch-hitting, is only one of the second-string men who helped a lot in carrying the Redbirds to the peak.

JIM COLLINS, until he was injured, played well enough to take the first-base job from Jim Bottomley, and aroused the latter to the best form he has shown in two seasons. Jake Flowers delivered in such quantities in infield utility roles that not even Frankie Frisch nor Charley Gelbert was missed.

Willie Ho. ber, Ernest Orsatti and Ray Blades did many a good job in relieving the regular outfielders. Jim Lindsay, Tony Kaufmann and Allen Sothoron, though starting only five games all told, gave splendid service, a total of 70 times as relief pitchers, and even old Mike Gonzales did his share as an emergency catcher and in coaching the club's young hurlers.

MOVING PITTSBURGH'S OLD National League hockey club to Philadelphia failed to remedy matters. The team didn't do any better financially as the Quakers than it had done previously as the Pirates, and it is said that both the Philadelphia and Ottawa owners are so far from being prepared to carry on that the league may operate with only eight clubs instead of 10 next season. It will be necessary either to drop the two weak sisters or for the other clubs to share in the burden of carrying them along. The play-off system is an obstacle to the reducing of the circuit. If an eight-club league were split into two divisions, the entire season wou'd be spent in eliminating only two teams. Bunching the eight clubs into one group would mean only three teams in the play-offs instead of six. A decision will be reached at the annual league meeting in Montreal on Saturday.

IN WINNING THE decision over Tuffy Griffiths in their 10-round debate at Chicago last night, Ernie Schaaf, though the lighter Griffiths pushed him to the limit and halted his streak of seven straight knockouts, kept up the drive that has made him one of the most impressive fighters in the field of possible future heavyweight championship contenders.

Schaaf has been coming along like a stake horse since he made a fresh start after losing to Tommy Loughran. Nate Lewis, Chicago promoter, now plans to match him with Young Stribling, Paulino Uzcudun or Otto Von Porat. In his present form, Ernie would be the choice over any member of the trio.

JIM CORBETT and Tommy Loughran, two of the master boxers of all time, were bemoaning the absence of the feinting nowadays. Hype Igoe reports. "It is Greek to most of them," Corbett said. "How many men do you see who can combine feinting and relaxation with a view to conserving their strength?

Jim Corbett

"When you're meeting a tough guy who can punch, you can trick him into doing anything you want him to do by a simple feint. Best of all, you can make him throw his punch, and then you can pull away and beat him to it. By feinting continually you can keep the other fellow tightened up and he is going to tire long before you do."

"I BEGAN TO appreciate the value of feinting and relaxation about midway in my career," Loughran put in. "Now I can ease up on myself so that I seem to be as fresh at the finish as I was at the start." "There's one thing about your boxing that pleases me greatly, Tommy," Corbett resumed, "and that's the fact that you don't go in for this fool weaving. What is that? What is it for? Of what possible use is it? You can't hit from a weave as well as if you were right up to your man? The only thing you had to do with Dempsey was to stick out your left and break up his weave. Tunney found that out." "When I get a weaver in front of me, I usually reach down and jab him off his balance," Loughran said. "Sometimes, by merely touching his forehead, you tip him off his balance."

BRITISH CHAMP ALSO GAINS SEMI-FINALS

BUFFALO COUNTRY CLUB WILLIAMSVILLE, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, of Philadelphia, five times winner of the title and the defending champion, will oppose Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, a finalist twice in the last three years, and Miss Enid Wilson, of England, British champion, will oppose Miss Helen (Billy) Hicks, of Hewlett, L. I., in semi-final round matches in the women's national golf championship here tomorrow.

In quarter-final battles today Mrs. Vare advanced at the expense of Mrs. Leo Federman, of New York, 6 and 4, and Miss Van Wie took the measure of Miss Maureen Orcutt, Canadian champion from Englewood, N. J., 2 and 1. Miss Wilson, whose fine play indicated that the national crown may be taken abroad, gained the semi-finals by defeating Miss Marjorie Kerr, her British traveling company, 4 and 3, and Miss Hicks conquered Mrs. Leona Pressler, of San Gabriel, Cal., 4 and 3.

The Van Wie-Orcutt duel was the feature match of the day. Both played fine golf, each being out in 41, even par. Virginia gained her edge on the in nine when Maureen temporarily lost control of her approach shots. The cards of the quarter-final matches:

The Salem (Mass.) Country Club has been awarded next year's tournament, it was announced by the officers of the U. S. G. A. The announcement completes the list of 1932 tournament awards. The Open will be played at Fresh Meadow, the Amateur at Baltimore, the Women's National at Salem, and the Public Links championship at Louisville.

Sharkey, Carnera Bout Postponed

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Due to what the Boxing Commission doctors say is an invisible injury to his left hand, Jack Sharkey today asked for and obtained a postponement of his fight with Primo Carnera until October 12. The fight had been scheduled for October 1.

Four specialists appointed by the commission examined Sharkey's hand this morning and, after a vigorous and, according to Sharkey, painful test, they reported they could find no reason for postponing the match.

"Their is no evidence of any injury," the medicos said, "but pain is a matter for the man alone to decide, and Sharkey complained that his left hand pains him."

Jimmy Johnston, the promoter of the bout, and Leon See, the manager of Carnera, were quite upset about the postponement. See said Carnera is in perfect condition and he may match him with someone else for October 1, just to keep him in shape.

BRAVES TOP RED SOX

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Ed Brandt took a pitching duel from Danny MacFayden yesterday as the Braves defeated the Red Sox, 4 to 3, before 25,000 persons who contributed their admissions to a fund for the relief of the unemployed in Boston. MacFayden allowed only six hits to Brandt's nine, but was ineffective in the pinches.

PAAVO NURMI WINS

BRESLAU, Germany, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Paavo Nurmi yesterday won a 5,000 meters handicap race in 15 minutes 8 and 5/10 seconds. He gave away handicaps of as high as 200 meters and won easily.

Country Club Star Scores Hole in One

Miss Violet Troutman, medalist in the women's championship tournament at the Country Club of Pittsburgh, scored a hole in one in the semi-finals this morning while defeating Mrs. A. R. Budd, 6 and 5. The ace was registered on the No. 7 hole, measuring 126 yards.

Mrs. J. W. Kinnear defeated Mrs. R. W. Kiser in the other semi-final match, 1 up, and will meet Miss Troutman for the championship tomorrow morning.

LOCAL GOLFERS LEAD RIVALS

CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS, Pa., Sept. 24.—Overcast skies and a cold, raw wind greeted the 96 qualifiers in the annual Northwestern Pennsylvania amateur tournament here this morning as they began the first round of match play. A heavy rainstorm during the night brought about a change in the weather, and while there was no rain in sight today, the boys were having a hard time controlling the balls in the wind.

The championship flight, starting late, was not due to finish before 1 o'clock. Through the fourth hole, however, Frank Nash, Highland, was 1 up on E. H. Stillman, Jr., Jamestown, N. Y., Sam Parks, Jr., Highland, was 2 up on M. B. Messner, Warren, Pa.; George McClure, Chartiers Heights, was 2 up on F. E. Douglas, Springfield, O. Norman Gaylord, Erie, was 3 up on Lester White, Erie; Guy McCall, Buffalo, was 4 up on W. E. Donahue, South Hills, and Robert Thompson, Ellwood City, was 1 up on John Graham, South Hills. The following fifth flight matches were completed:

T. M. Taylor, Pittsburgh, defeated W. B. Smith, Cadiz, O., 4 up, 19 holes. H. W. Hurst, Pittsburgh, defeated R. H. Sutherland, Pittsburgh, 6 and 5. Harry Kapper, Erie, defeated T. W. Martin, Pittsburgh, 2 and 1. Paul Beck defeated F. W. Bossong, Punxsutawney, 1 up. Neil J. Fisher, Pittsburgh, defeated Bob McCall, Buffalo, 2 and 1. T. M. Robinson defeated E. M. Johnson, 5 and 4, and R. C. Rider, Cambridge Springs, defeated William Lamberton, Oil City, 6 and 5.

JONES-OUIMET BOW

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Bobby Jones and his amateur championship successor, Francis Ouimet, absorbed a drubbing yesterday in the name of sweet charity in a 36-hole exhibition match with Bill Burke, national open champion, and George Von Elm, the big Californian youth, Burke and Von Elm chipped the Jones-Ouimet combination 3 up over the first 18 holes, then doubled their margin in the second round.

ODDS ON A'S DROP

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Betting odds favoring the Philadelphia Athletics to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals in the World series have dropped in one week from 6 to 5 to 7 to 5. One New York commission house reported placing of a wager of $7,000 to $5,000 favoring the A's. At the same time a wager of $1,200 to $1,000 that the Athletics would win the opening game was made.

FIRESTONES PLAY HERE

Riding as guests of the Pittsburgh Polo Club, Ray and Leonard Firestone, famous polosts, whose team won the intersectional honors last season, will play in an informal match between selected teams at 5 o'clock this afternoon. A number of the Firestone polo ponies will be brought here for the game. The Firestone brothers were accompanied by Tom Warren, coach of the Firestone team.

The two noted polo stars, who formerly played at Princeton and are well known in international circles, perform regularly at Akron and Miami Beach. While here for the match, they will inspect the Hunt Club and the local polo facilities.

In a match which is to be free to the public, and which institutes Sunday polo in Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh Polo Club will meet the 108th Field Artillery on the Pittsburgh polo grounds. It is to be the first of a series of Sunday matches.

BOUT FOR STRIBLING

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 24.—(INS.)—Returning to the ring for the first time since his defeat by Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, Young Stribling will meet Babe Hunt, of Ponca City, Okla., October 20, in Atlanta, he announced here today.

MISS TODD CHAMP

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Sept. 24.—Miss Doris Todd has been crowned women's champion at the Beaver Valley Country Club as a result of her 1 up victory over Mrs. Wallace Hunter in the final round of the annual tournament.

PIRATES END HOME SEASON

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The Pirates and Phillies this afternoon will make another attempt to close the baseball season in Pittsburgh. Rain caused a postponement of yesterday's scheduled contest so the farewell was moved back to today. Both clubs had arranged exhibitions for today, but championship contests must get the preference over barnstorming games, so the exhibition tilts were canceled. The Freebooters were slated to play in Grand Rapids, Mich., and the Quakers in Rochester, N. Y.

The opposing pilots are likely to stand pat on their slab selections for this afternoon. Larry French has the home assignment, while Sheriff Fred Blake is likely to do the honors on Fogarty Knoll for Shotton. The battle is apt to be exciting, as the Quakers are making a determined effort to beat out the Braves for the sixth position of the race. The Buccos will have to cop the game to land 10 verdicts over the Quakers, who have defeated the Pittsburghers no less than a dozen times.

BUCS SCATTER TONIGHT

There will be a big scattering of Pirates at the conclusion of the game. Manager Ens will take the main body of the club to Grand Rapids, where a game will be played tomorrow. A few others will go directly to Chicago tomorrow night. The Buccos will wind up their season at the home of the Cubs, two contests being carded for Saturday and Sunday. The Sunday game will mark the close of the season. Heinie Meine will twirl one of the games in Cubland and if Heinie wins he is likely to be the only pitcher in the National League to cop 20 games.

Howard Groskloss has left for Baltimore, where he will enter Johns Hopkins Hospital for treatment for his injured leg.

GIBBY SAYS NOTHING

Many of the players will be excused from further duty after to-

ARMENTROUT MAY PLAY; PITT RESTS

Capt. Murray Armentrout will be able to play against Buffalo University at Buffalo, in Carnegie Tech's opening game next Saturday, is the word Trainer Munhall has given Coach Wally Steffen. Pittsburgh's native son, who is the first local boy to lead a Tartan eleven in many years, is eager to lead his club onto the field in the opening game, and has urged that he be permitted to at least start the game.

His request may be granted, for he has evidently completely recovered from the illness that held him out of practice on Monday. However, Steffen is proceeding with his plans as if the Buffalo game didn't exist, pointing all his energies for the important game with W. & J. on October 3, when the Skibos will make their first appearance in Pittsburgh, and Armentrout will hardly be permitted to play longer than a quarter.

Steffen has been grooming several boys to fill in for him. One of them is John Graveno, who had varsity experience last year, and the other is Joe Brewer, who played in the Plebe backfield in 1930.

Don Fletcher, big tackle, who was ill simultaneously with Armentrout, will be ready to go, and he will also start the game.

DUEGER AT QUARTER

Judge Steffen plans to start Dueger at quarterback, and to use Gene Elsaesser in part of the game at right tackle. Both Dueger and Elsaesser are Buffalo district boys, and will have hosts of friends in the stands.

Ducanis is a certain bet for the center assignment and Kavel is sure to be at his right halfback post. Either Pouncey or Sayles can be used at fullback, with Pouncey favored because he is in perfect condition, while Sayles has an injured hand. Croft has the edge at left tackle, but it may be Lewis or Potts at right end, Ostrosky or Stewart at left end, and the guard jobs will be filled from among Samples, Kebe, Burzio, and Henry Dreshar.

Steffen plans to take his entire squad of 35 men to Buffalo, and to use as many as the turn of the game permits.

PITT TAKES IT EASY

Jock Sutherland is giving his Panthers a little rest today, a rest which will continue over until tomorrow as the Pitt coach prepares for the season's opener with Miami at the Stadium Saturday. Jock has been scurrying around these last couple of days trying to get some dope on his opponents for Saturday afternoon, but about all he has been able to find out is that the visitors will have a great passing attack and that they use the Illinois system, which works so well in the Middle West, and which has been introduced at the Oxford school by Chester Pitser, a former star under Bob Zuppke.

When the schedule committee at Pitt dumped the Miami game on Jock's lap, he paid little attention to it, merely classing it with the usual run of opening day contests. Since then a lot of his friends who have seen or heard of the Redskins have been cautioning him about taking the game carelessly, warning him of possible injuries which might result from lax playing, and perhaps a touchdown or two on the part of Pitzer's team.

The Pitt coach is just about set on his lineup for this Saturday. He plans to use the two sophomores, Hogan and Merideth, at quarterback and tackle, respectively. The rest of the team will be composed of Hirshberg and Collins at the ends, MacMurdo at tackle, Morris and Milligan at the

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Maybe Uncle Nick didn't get caught by the depression. The Stock Exchange put over that new rule just when I was cleaning up a fortune selling the Cincinnati Reds short.

Nick Altrock

Speaking of the market, a seat on the stock exchange sold as low as $168,000 in New York this week. For 40 cents more you could get a good seat at the world series in St. Louis or Philadelphia.

Say, there was no hurry for Mayor Walker to get back to town this week. Jimmy hasn't got any world series here to throw out the first baseball at.

Well, folks, tomorrow I start my essays on the big series. Don't fail to miss them, if its the first thing you do.

BURNS PLAYS IRWIN SCHOLASTICS TONIGHT

N. KENSINGTON ELEVEN GETS FIRST TEST

By TOM BIRKS

With the Dan Burns club, of New Kensington, clashing with the Irwin Scholastics this evening, under the lights at Parnassus High School Field, fans in the district will have a fine opportunity to take a look at Coach Al Dunn's outfit, which will be battling for conferenec honors this season.

Coach Dunn has been working the boys hard during scrimmage sessions. Stanley Berkman will be calling signals and playing quarterback, and Gillas, Ford and Campbell probably will start in the other backfield positions.

BISHNEY AT FULLBACK

Bishney, a boy from across the river, probably will get in at fullback. It was figured Sharkey would be back with the Aluminum team, but evidently Manager Clawson and the hard-hitting star were unable to agree on terms.

Burns meets Art Rooney's champions in its first conference game next week, at Parnassus Field, and Dunn is fully aware of the nature of the opening game.

This evening Bill Schulties will bring his Irwin bunch down, and Burns has a real battle on their hands. The Scholastics, which are scheduled to meet Starr City, at Morgantown, Sunday, were keen on getting a berth in the conference, but lack of grounds stopped Schulties.

NEW PLAYERS TO SHOW

Dunn may have Mercurio and Barbero at ends while two new players, Kunkle and Bloom, members of the State Constabulary, will be at tackle; Redman and Blackie, who received their football training in the Army, will be the guards, while Woolf, a former high school star, will start at center. The game will be called at 8:15 p. m.

The St. Rosalia Preps would like to arrange a game for next Sunday at home. Call Hazel 2277-J between 5:30 and 6:30.

The East Liberty Scholasties, local Negro independent eleven, presents a formidable array of former scholastic gridders and is ready to book games with junior-lightweight elevens. An opener is wanted for Sunday, October 3, away from home. For games call Tom Ficklin, Highland 8788, between 5 and 7:30 p. m.

TUNNEY WRITES OF RUSSIA

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion of the world, threw his hat into the literary ring today when the first of a series of articles by him appeared in Collier's Weekly. Much to the surprise of the sporting world, Tunney started his literary career with a serious treatise of Soviet rule in Russia.

The former ruler of the cauliflower industry, spending his vacation in Maine, was reached by phone and asked bluntly if his future writing activities were to be confined to economic, social and political subjects.

In reply to a question, "have you abandoned boxing as a subject for discussion?" Tunney answered with a laugh that he already was at work on a series of articles dealing with his activities in the squared circle. One of these will break his long silence on the matter of the famous "long count" in his second fight with Jack Dempsey.

After making it plain that he had no intention of completely abandoning sports as a topic in his writing, Tunney explained why he had begun what promises to be an interesting writing career, with an article on Russia.

"Frankly," he said, "the subject of Russia is one which is uppermost in my mind. I came out of Russia, where I spent some time this summer, with many of my opinions completely overthrown."

MacAndrew Wins New England Open

QUINCY, Mass., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Charley MacAndrew, of Quincy, won the New England open golf championship with a 72-hole total of 289 yesterday at Wollaston. Johnny Farrell, Mamaroneck, N. Y., missed two short putts during the day and finished second with 290. Third money went to Densmore Shute, Hudson, O., with 292; fourth to Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N. Y., with 295, and Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., and Gene Sarazen, Great Neck, L. I., tied for fifth, with 298.

PRESIDENTS READY

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 24.—Washington and Jefferson College's varsity football squad is ready to take the field here saturday in its opening 1931 engagement, West Virginia Wesleyan. Head Coach Bill Amos announced that tomorrow would be spent in only light signal drill, the two powerful elevens which have been developed, scheduled to polish off both their running and passing attacks.

MRS. PHILLIPS CHAMP

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 24.—Mrs. S. M. Phillips is the women's champion golfer at the Sharon Country Club. She won the title by dethroning Mrs. E. E. Beagle, 5 and 3, in the final. Mrs. Beagle won from Mrs. Phillips last year.

GRID COACH HURT

WARREN, Pa., Sept. 24.—The first casualty of the local high school team occurred when Coach J. R. Leidig had the tibia bone in the left leg broken during a scrimmage, when he was showing a squad an intricate play.

SHIBE IN HOSPITAL

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—Thomas S. Shibe, president of the Philadelphia Athletics, is in a Cleveland hospital for treatments for digestive disorders. He plans to attend the world series opener in St. Louis next Thursday.

SCHAAF BEATS GRIFFITHS

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—(INS)—Ernie Schaaf, Boston's blond aspirant to the heavyweight title, today was the proud possessor of a 10-round victory over Tuffy Griffiths, of Chicago. It was a victory well earned, despite the riotous scenes at the Stadium last night occasioned by the judges' announcement of their verdict.

Inspired, no doubt, by the fans' wild demonstration in favor of the loser, Matchmaker Nate Lewis announced shortly after the battle that the two big rivals have been rematched for a return engagement in November.

So furious was the outburst against the judges at the end of the fight that four riot squads from the detective bureau were rushed to the Stadium to quell the disturbance. Boos and catcalls resounded through the vast auditorium for fully half an hour after Schaaf's hand had been raised in token of victory. Here and there fist fights broke out, while programs and newspapers fluttered through the air.

Despite the vociferous disapproval of the local lad's admirers, the weight of opinion among fistic experts today leaned toward the Boston protege of Jack Sharkey. Except for the fifth and seventh rounds, Schaaf enjoyed a clear advantage over his smaller rival. In fact, during the first two rounds the New England battler more than once threatened to send Griffiths to the floor for the count. But the Chicagoan's stout heart resisted knockout and he came back to win the fifth and seventh rounds and put up a game battle for the balance of the struggle. Schaaf outweighed him by 21 pounds.

The judges' verdict was unanimous. Fourteen thousand fans witnessed the bout, paying $41,115 for the privilege. Of this amount, Schaaf obtained $10,000, while the loser's share was $9,000.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Jackie Wilson, ambitious young Negro featherweight, of the East End, who has been slapping around the Babe Palecos, Sammy Parises, Johnny Haggertys, Al Iovinos, Johnny Warners and Marty Golds with consistent regularity in recent months, gets a chance to break out in a main bout rash in the 10-round windup at Hickey Park, Millvale, tonight.

His reward is a match with Johnny Datto, hard-hitting Filipino, of Cleveland. A lot of folks wouldn't exactly count that a reward, but Wilson is inclined to take 'em as they come and doesn't see why he should fear the Oriental whose three bouts (or at least two of 'em) with Jackie Rodgers here were something to talk about. Datto hasn't boxed here since the last battle of that series, for which he was set down along with Rodgers, because the thing didn't seem just right.

The dope on tonight's bout is that most of the fans think matching Wilson with a puncher of Datto's experience is rushing Jackie a bit too fast and they are preparing to weep glycerine tears for him. However, Jackie himself is quite unafraid and says Dattos look just like any other fighters to him.

Eddie Kaufman, of Cleveland, will meet Ray Collins, of Erie, in the eight-round semi-final, instead of Louie Severo, who originally was signed. Severo injured his right hand in training yesterday and was forced to cancel the bout. Al Farone, of McKees Rocks, boxes Johnny Montebano, of Braddock, in the second bout and Jackie Griffiths, of the Hill and Frankie Portland, of Ambridge, are in the opener.

Matchmaker Jules Beck has announced the first two bouts for the opening show at Motor Square Garden, Monday night. In the second bout, U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, will fight Kenny Davis, of East Liverpool. Don Asto, of Uniontown, will quit the amateur ranks to make his professional debut against Young Bordell, of New Kensington, in the opening setto. Tony Herrera and Joey Goodman box the main bout and Sunny Jim McVey and Bruno Sala are in the semi-final.

SERIES HURLERS IN DOUBT

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Followers of the champion Philadelphia Athletics are speculating on the opening pitcher for the World Series. There are nine to pick from: Earnshaw, Grove, Hoyt, Krausse, McDonald, Mahaffey, Peterson, Rommel and Walberg.

Will the veteran Connie Mack again amaze the baseball world as he did in 1929 when he sent Howard Ehmke to the mound in Chicago to win the first game, 3 to 1?

Many baseball experts think the tall tactician will start either Robert Moses Grove or George Livingstone Earnshaw, his two outstanding stars, and others have a hunch that he might cross the wise ones by starting a cast-off pitcher.

PRICED to please the thrifty

Sales on Goodyear Pathfinder tires this season are booming along at a record rate.

No wonder, when you consider the quality of this tire and the low prices at which it is sold.

Just run your eye over the list—see how little it costs you to re-equip your car.

Where's the sense of taking a chance on old worn-out tires when you can buy new safe rubber for so little money!

You'll be proud of Goodyear Pathfinders—great sturdy Supertwist balloons, handsome, long-wearing, trouble-free—they're Goodyear calibre through and through.

No need to dread the slippery, skiddy driving that comes with fall rains and winter snows when you can buy so much tire quality at so little outlay.

STOCK MARKET SLIDES INTO REVERSE

Much of Advance Made in Previous Session Lost; Rails Decline Sharply

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 (AP.)—This was a day of sober second thought in Wall street.

Security prices were revised downward sharply after yesterday's violent upswings which reflected the first violent burst of enthusiasm [illegible] ing of some of Wall Street's more oppressive worries. Buying continued to ebb after the [illegible] share prices [illegible] after the opening [illegible] mentum. [illegible] of yesterday's [illegible] also were [illegible]

Rails [illegible] they soared yesterday. Santa Fe virtually [illegible] yesterday's 10-point gain, the Northern and Western lost much [illegible] swing. New York Central, Southern Pacific and [illegible] more. [illegible] were weak. Among wider losses [illegible] Consolidated Gas, [illegible] North American, [illegible] Eastman, [illegible] Losses of 2 or more [illegible] ous.

While the [illegible] been the most [illegible] of uncertainty [illegible] market [illegible] other countries began to [illegible] unsettling influence today. An advance in the Swedish bank rate to 6 per cent [illegible] Scandinavian countries led to a feeling that the gold standard may be abandoned elsewhere than London.

In the meantime the added responsibilities upon New York as the world's chief money center were reflected in an abrupt stiffening of the money market and widespread expectations that the New York Federal Reserve Bank will increase its rediscount rate from its [illegible] low level of 1½ per cent, possibly to 2 per cent.

This would generally be viewed in Wall Street as an adverse development, for many bankers have regarded the 1½ per cent rate as largely artificial, reflecting little save the stagnant condition of capital.

The rate for bankers acceptances, which pushed up ⅛ of one per cent yesterday, gained another ⅛ of one per cent today. Time money, which has recently been nominally quoted at ½ to 2 per cent—there has been virtually no at 2 for all maturities today. Call money was firm at 1½ per cent with no funds available at concessions in the outside market.

The tightening of the money market brought heavy selling into the United States government securities in the bond market, which have recently been sold at record low yields.

Raise Discount on Canadian Money

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Buffalo banks have fixed a rate of discount of 10 per cent on Canadian funds. Through the Clearing House Association it was announced that Canadian checks and currency would be accepted at this discount, a rate which makes the Canadian dollar worth 90 cents in American money along the Niagara frontier.

For the first time in many years, Buffalo stores and the street railway system are refusing to accept Canadian money.

German Exchange Closed for Week

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—The Boerse committee has decided to keep the Stock Exchange closed the rest of the week and not to permit curb trading. The Exchange suspended Monday because of the financial developments in England.

CHICAGO STOCKS

COTTON STEADY AT ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Cotton opened very steady today at an advance of 16 to 22 points on a continuation of the recent buying movement.

Trading was stimulated by the strength of the markets abroad, the large Liverpool spot sales and the presence of foreign buying in the local market. There appeared to be enough realizing and southern selling to supply buyers around 6.85 for December or about 22 to 25 points above yesterday's closing quotations and prices at the end of the first half hour showed fractions of 10 or 12 points from the best.

GRAINS SCORE FRESH GAINS

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Grains scored fresh advances early today, influenced by reports of strained relations between Russia and Japan. Talk of likelihood of price inflation of commodities counted also as a bullish factor. Opening ⅛@1c higher, wheat afterward continued to point upward. Corn started unchanged to ⅜@½c rise and later held near the initial figures.

Railroads May Shelve Question of Wage Cuts

By B. C. FORBES

SIMPLY AS A reporter not as a prognosticator the writer recorded in this column on August 28:

"The United States Steel Corporation is to readjust wages.

"Its example will be followed by other industrial corporations.

"I learn too that lowering of railway wages is also under serious consideration and likely to be brought to the front in the near future."

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT by the Steel Corporation by Bethlehem Steel and by other industrial companies of wage reductions was hailed by the financial world as the lifting of a long-overhanging cloud. That the example set will be followed by many other industrial companies is taken for granted.

B. C. Forbes

DEFINITE WAGE action may not be attempted by the railroads until they learn whether a rate increase will be sanctioned by the Interstate Commerce Commission. If substantial raising of rates is permitted the question of lowering wages might be shelved.

If the commission forbids any improvement in rates then, I understand, steps looking toward readjustment of railway wages—a complicated process will be instituted.

THE IMPRESSION I recently gathered from intimate talks with some of the country's most influential men of affairs was that they were not eager to bid up stocks or bonds until contemplated wage reductions were effected. I assumed rather than was told that the removal of wage uncertainty would pave the way for constructive action marketwise and in other directions.

One swallow doesn't mean summer. Yet it was very noticeable that the atmosphere in financial New York was appreciably clearer yesterday. Both United States Steel and Bethlehem shares advanced briskly, and the whole market was distinctly less nervous than on previous days.

SHOULD THE INTERSTATE Commerce Commission promptly announce a rate increase, a further sharp rebound in railway securities would be logical. Indeed the expectation in the highest circles is that such a development would probably start the nation rolling on the upward path.

IT ISN'T WEEKLY correct to say that Britain has abandoned the gold standard. It is more correct to say that Britain has decided to revalue her pound sterling at less than the $4.86⅔ level of pre-war days and of recent years.

All talk of America's five billions of gold becoming "worth so much junk" is fantastic. The touchstone of the value of Britain's pound sterling will be gold, just as gold is the touchstone of the international value of French francs, German marks, Italian lire and every other currency.

What will happen is this: After sterling has been allowed to find its own natural level, a process likely to take months, the British government doubtless will name a "standard" rate for the pound and, by steadily maintaining it, seek to re-establish sterling as the world's premier medium for conducting international commerce.

Sterling unquestionably will regain much of its lost prestige, but the American dollar seems destined to occupy first place.

The depression in Britain's currency will give that country at least a temporary advantage in competing for business in world markets. Simultaneously, however, British domestic prices are bound to rise. The advantage gained in world markets will be partly at the cost of British wage earners, whose real purchasing power will decline.

AMERICAN CORPORATION directors are prepared, however, to point to what has happened in Britain as an additional reason for lowering costs here in order to compete successfully in international markets.

(Copyright, 1931, by B. C. Forbes.)

Price Advances Expected From British Inflation

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

CONTINUING OUR DISCUSSION of the effect of the temporary abandonment of the gold standard by England, we shall show first some of the ways in which the Englishman will be affected. In future columns we shall talk about the effect on other countries.

Yesterday's column showed that the value of a country's currency decreases when the gold standard is abandoned. This means that the prices of most things an Englishman will buy will increase in terms of pounds sterling.

The prices of commodities which England must import from other countries reflect the fall in the value of the pound first. Prices of wheat and cotton advanced sharply on the London markets on Monday. This was due to the fact that England must import its supplies and must pay for them in the currencies of other countries. She must exchange depreciated English pounds for full value money in other parts of the world and gets the short end of the bargain.

Domestic Products Rise Slowly

WHILE THE ADVANCE in products imported by England is taking place rapidly, the value of domestic products is not likely to rise quite so suddenly. It was this tendency for domestic goods to lag behind the drop in foreign exchange that made it possible for tourists to travel so cheaply in Europe for a few years following the World War. They were able to exchange stable dollars for depreciated French francs or German marks. While prices in Europe were soaring, they were not going up as fast as the mark and franc were falling.

Commodity prices in England will tend to rise as long as the uncertainty about the government's ability to stabilize the pound exists. If it appears likely at any time in the future that the pound may be restored to its former gold basis, prices will tend to decline.

Effect on Investors

THE ENGLISHMAN WHO has money in the bank or has his wealth invested in bonds, mortgages or other fixed income securities is placed at a disadvantage by the fall in the value of sterling. His income in pounds will be the same, but he will be able to buy less with his money.

The individual or corporation who owes money on mortgages, notes or bonds will be at an advantage. He will have to pay just as many pounds sterling to settle his debts but, in terms of things he can buy, he will be paying less. The owner of real estate or commodities may benefit from the increase in their value in pounds and if he owes money on these holdings his debt will represent a smaller percentage of his property.

The position of the salaried worker with little property will depend on whether or not his income is increased in line with rising commodity prices.

Opinion Divided

PUBLIC OPINION IN ENGLAND is divided as to whether the abandonment of the gold standard will be helpful or harmful. The attitude of individuals probably can be traced to their economic positions. The move is likely to have a stimulating effect on business for a time. Businessmen are more courageous in a rising than in a falling market.

Pittsburgher Heads Automotive Group

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—(AP)—The National Automotive Parts Association, an organization of 1,100 jobbers, reported the dollar volume of business done by its members in the first eight months of this year showed 6.9 per cent gain over 1930. Last year's business was also 14 per cent larger than in 1929.

W. W. Martin of Pittsburgh was elected president; A. F. Baxter of Buffalo, senior vice president, and Henry Lansdale, Detroit, vice president and general manager.

THE ROAD BACK -:- By Erich Maria Remarque

CHAPTER XIII.

Like an immense deep sigh the sound of marching rustles over the pavement. We swing into line automatically. On our right is an artilleryman; ahead, an engineer. We form up, squad by squad. Few of us are known to the other. They are our comrades, that is enough. "Come, Otto, join in!" shouts the engineer in front of us to one who as yet has not moved.

He hesitates. He walks with him. She slips her arm into his and looks at him. He smiles awkwardly. "Afterward, Frau."

Willy pulls a very face. "When we get to grapple, comprehension's the first you take it from me!"

"Ach rot!" protests the engineer, giving him a cigaret. "Women are one half of life. But there's a time for everything, of course."

Automatically we fall into step. But this is another kind of marching from what we have been used to. The pavement echoes, and like lightning a wild breathless hope sweeps over the column, as though the road would now lead us straight on into the life of freedom and justice.

JOINED BY MAYOR

But already, after only a few hundred yards, the procession stops. It has halted in front of the Mayor's house. Some workers rattle at the outer door. All remains quiet, but the pale face of a woman is seen a moment behind the shut windows. The rattling increases, a stone is thrown at the window. A second follows. Splintered glass falls clashing into the front garden.

Then the Mayor shows himself on the balcony of the first floor. He is greeted with shouts; he tries to protest, but none will hear him. "Come out! Come with us!" cries somebody.

The Mayor shrugs his shoulders and nods assent. A few minutes later he is marching at the head of the procession.

The next to be hauled out is the chief of the food control office. Then a bewildered, baldheaded fellow who has been profiteering in butter. We missed nabbing a corn dealer, he shut himself up just in time when he heard us coming.

The procession now marches to the Castle and piles up before the entrance to the District Headquarters. A soldier dashes up the steps and goes inside. We wait. The windows are all alight.

At last the door opens again. We crane our necks. A man with a portfolio comes out. He turns out some sheets of paper from his case and in a monotonous voice begins reading a speech. We listen intently. Willy puts both hands to his great ears. Being a good head taller than anyone else, he follows the sentences more easily and repeats them aloud. But the words prattle away over our heads. They echo and die away, they do not stir us; they only prattle and prattle away.

We begin to grow restive. We do not understand this; we are accustomed to act; but the fellow up there only talks and talks. Now he is exhorting us to calmness and prudence. But then nobody has been imprudent as yet!

CROWD PACIFIED

At last he goes off. "Who was that?" I ask disappointedly.

The artilleryman beside us knows everything. "President of the Workers' and Soldiers' Council. Used to be a dentist, I believe."

"Aha!" growls Willy, turning his red head uncomfortably from side to side. "What a frost! And me thinking we were off to the station and then straight to Berlin!"

Shouts begin to come from the crowd; they multiply. "The Mayor, let the Mayor speak!" He is pushed up the steps. In a calm voice he explains that the whole matter is being thoroughly looked into. Beside him, stuttering, stand the two profiteers. They are sweating with fright. But nothing is done to them either. They come in for some round abuse, but that is all; no one takes the trouble to lift a hand against them.

"Well," says Willy, the Mayor has his courage with him, anyway. I'll say that much."

"Pooh! he's used to it," say the artillerymen. "They drive him out like this every few days."

We look at him in astonishment. "Is it always like this?" asks Albert.

The other nods. "There are always fresh troops coming back, you see, who think they must put matters right. And—well, that's all that comes of it."

"Well, I'm dashed if I understand that," says Willy.

"Nor me, either," adds the artilleryman, yawning largely. "Expected something different myself, I admit. Well, cheero! I'll be trotting along, I guess. That's the most sensible thing to do."

Others follow suit. The square empties perceptibly. A second delegate is talking now. He also advises calm. The leaders will see to it all. They are on the job already. He indicates the lighted windows. The best thing would be for us to go home.

"Well! damn my eyes! So that is all?" I say peevishly.

We begin to feel rather absurd for having joined in with the mob. What did we want exactly when we came here? "Ach!" says Willy, disenchanted. We shrug our shoulders and slope off.

PEACEFUL SCENE

I walk home with Albert and then return alone. It is very strange; now that my comrades are with me no longer, everything around me begins to sway gently and become unreal. A while back it was all matter-of-fact and sure, and now it has suddenly come loose. It is so perplexingly new and strange that I hardly know whether I may not be dreaming it all. Am I here? Am I really here again, home?

There are the streets, cobbled and sure, smooth, gleaming roofs; nowhere the gaping holes and gashes of shells; undamaged the walls tower into the blue night, gables and balconies silhouetted against it, making dark shadows. Nothing here has suffered the teeth of war; windowpanes are intact and behind the bright clouds of their curtains lives a hushed world, very different from that howling place of death where till now I have made my home.

I come to a stand before a house where there is a light in the lower windows. Muffled music is coming from it. The curtains are not half drawn and I can see inside.

A woman is seated at a piano playing. She is alone. The only light is from a standard lamp and it falls on the white page of the music. The rest of the room is lost in a colorful gloom. A sofa, a couple of armchairs and cushions suggest a peaceful life there. On a settle a dog lies asleep.

I gaze like one enchanted. Only when the woman stands up and moves noiselessly to the table do I come back hastily. My heart is beating fast. In the wild light of the rockets and among the shattered ruins of frontline villages, I had almost forgotten such things existed—such street-long, walled-in peace of carpets and warmth and women. I should like to open the door and go in and curl myself up on the settee.

STRANGE EMOTIONS

The light in the room goes out. I walk on. But suddenly the night is full of dark cries and indistinct voices, full of faces and things gone by, full of questions and of answers. I wander far out, beyond the limits of the city and stand at last on the slope of the Klosterberg. Below lies the town all silver. The moon is reflected in the river. The towers seem afloat in the air and all is unbelievably still.

I stand a while and then go back to the streets and the homes. Quietly I grope my way up the stairs that lead to my home. My parents are already asleep. I feel ashamed I have come back so late.

In my room I make a light. In the corner is the bed with fresh linen sheets, the covers turned back. I sit down on it and so remain for some time lost in thought. At last I feel tired. Mechanically I stretch out and make to pull up the blanket. I sit up again suddenly—I had quite forgotten to undress. At the front we always slept in our clothes, just as we were. Slowly I take off my uniform, put my boots in a corner. Then, hanging over the end of the bed, I perceive a nightshirt. I hardly recognized the thing. I put it on. And all at once emotion overwhelms me. I stroke the sheets, I bury myself in pillows, I hug them to me, press myself down into them, into the pillows, into sleep, into the life once again, and I know one thing and only one: I am here—I am here.

Synopsis

Ernst, who enlisted as a schoolboy, tells the story of a group of war comrades who march home when peace is made. Arriving at their home city, Ernst and Lieut. Ludwig Breyer are attacked by revolutionaries and rescued by the giant Willy Homeyer. Ernst's homecoming is disappointing. His family seem to him strangers. He and they are not interested in the same things. He is homesick, though at home. He seeks his comrade, Albert Trosske, and together the two sails forth to look up others of the group. At Willy's house the returned soldier is in disgrace for killing a neighbor's pedigreed rooster for supper. The three companions set out together and hear sounds of some disturbance. They hasten to the public square, where a large crowd has gathered.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT
Leads World in Scope of Its Pickling and Preserving Plants

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1931

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

Strong Evidence

Testimony Accumulates That County Commissioners Made a Mistake in Ordering Poole Machines

The Sun-Telegraph wishes to be just to the Poole Engineering and Machine Company of Baltimore, which furnished the voting machines used in Allegheny County in the primary election last week. Yet the more we examine the evidence as to the manner in which the machines functioned, the stronger becomes the impression that they are of an unsatisfactory type and that the County Commissioners made a mistake in ordering them.

It is quite possible that the machines were tampered with in some districts and failed to work on that account. But it does not seem reasonable that all of the machines that broke down were deliberately wrecked by election crooks.

Helen McMannis reports that in the First District of the Eighth Ward of McKeesport the curtains would not open on one of the machines, and on the other the sheets on which the votes should have been recorded were blank when the machine was opened.

Louis Zakowitz reports that in the Nineteenth District of the Fourth Ward one machine broke down four times because of trouble with the motor or the switches.

M. S. Hilliard reports that in the Sixth District of the Second Ward of Clairton the voters were able to vote for only six judges.

These are but specimens of numerous complaints.

Allegheny County must not have another such fiasco.

It is up to the County Commissioners to see that in future elections the citizens are furnished voting machines that will work.

If that means that the contract with the Poole Company must be cancelled because of the company's failure to deliver workable machines, the Commissioners should not hesitate to take such action.

Other machines of a different type, tried and tested and proved successful by hundreds of communities over a period of years, can be had.

Coal Relief Proposals

Dr. Thomas S. Baker Makes Some Valuable Suggestions for the Improvement of the Industry

A speaker at the public conference on the bituminous coal industry, held here under the auspices of the Allied Boards of Trade, alluded to the lack of co-operation from the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

This has brought a tart reply from Thomas A. Dunn, president of the Chamber, to the effect that the Chamber led for five years in the fight for fair railroad rates for coal shipments to the Great Lakes.

The Chamber, of course, deserves a great deal of credit for this.

But it is not to be forgotten, on the other hand, that when the coal problem first became a matter of great public concern in the Pittsburgh District the Chamber played an ignominious part by permitting itself to be used by the Pittsburgh Coal Company in the latter's war against the United Mine Workers.

The Chamber will increase its influence for good if it will free itself from domination—or the suspicion of being dominated—by the Pittsburgh Coal Company. It can help to free itself by co-operating with other civic organizations in the effort to rehabilitate the coal industry.

Some valuable suggestions for the improvement of the industry were made at the Allied Boards' meeting. Especially noteworthy were the proposals of Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, who advocated, among other things, that the Sherman anti-trust law be amended to permit reasonable co-operation among coal operators, and that changes be made in the methods of taxing coal lands.

Apropos of this latter, the coal industry might learn something of value in a study of Pennsylvania's forest laws, which contain a provision under which owners of standing timber may, by entering their tracts in the state's auxiliary forest reserves, obtain exemption from taxation until the timber is cut and sold.

There will no doubt be further and more detailed discussion of these matters in the international conference on bituminous coal to be held in Pittsburgh in November under the auspices of Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Dr. Baker has wisely decided to pay more attention to the economics of coal at the forthcoming meeting than was given at the previous conferences, which were largely devoted to consideration of chemical problems.

Accident Repeaters

The Small Minority Who Are Responsible for Many Mishaps Should Lose Their Licenses.

The statistical bureau of the Pittsburgh Motor Club has made a remarkable discovery: Thirty-five per cent of all fatal automobile accidents each year are caused by "repeaters," who compose only 5 per cent of all licensed drivers.

This small minority of drivers who become involved in several highway crashes every year constitute so great a menace to the public safety that an earnest effort should be made to search them out and revoke their licenses.

It is obvious that when a driver repeatedly has accidents there is something the matter with his driving, and he should be barred from the roads.

League Court Justice

Two Great Faults Come to Light in First Case of Major Importance.

International justice suffers from two defects in the World Court of the League of Nations—racial sympathies and selfish political interests.

Both faults, in the opinion of the Detroit Free Press, were manifested in the recent decision against the Austro-German customs union. The Free Press said editorially:

"The eight judges who held the proposed customs union to be illegal, with respect to the Geneva protocol of 1922, were those representing France, Spain and Italy, Cuba, Salvador and Colombia and Poland and Rumania, two of France's allies.

"The six judges who joined the German judge in finding nothing illegal in the proposed union were those representing the United States, Great Britain, China, Japan, Belgium and the Netherlands. Thus the line, with the exception of Belgium, was clearly drawn between France and her political and racial allies, and the non-Latinic members of the Court.

"A decision so suspiciously political in the first case of major importance coming before the World Court is bound to make even the most ardent champions of that institution in this country stop, look and listen before crossing the tracks into its exalted precincts."

Dogging Their Footsteps

The "In-Bad Boys" resemble Tam o' Shanter in this heart-rending picture, for, see, a "big black fiend doth tread them close behind," and what a fright it gives them!

They seem to be going SOMEWHERE. Let them go Old Man Prohibition and Mr. Bonehead Tariff together—and take their gaunt companion with them. The sooner the better for everybody.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

And Still They Marry

Somebody is always predicting the doom of marriage.

* * *

Lots of sophisticated young women declare there is no reason why an enlightened girl should marry these days. And lots of cynical young men retort that there never WAS any reason why an enlightened man should marry. So there!

* * *

Take it from them, this earth will soon be just like heaven, where there is "neither marrying nor giving in marriage."

But the cabinet-makers will continue to turn out hope chests, the jewelers go right on making platinum wedding-bands and the clerk of the marriage license bureau still continues to look all fagged out around the end of June.

* * *

The truth is that dear old marriage has had its face lifted and its shirts shortened and become so rejuvenated that we don't recognize it any more. It is no longer STANDARDIZED. It is modernized.

* * *

You can no longer spot a wedded pair by "that married look." You can't even tell the matrons from the debutantes, or the husbands from the bachelors, at a country club dance.

* * *

There is no such thing as a typical married woman—plump, resigned, dowdy and complacent-looking. And no such person as the old-fashioned standardized husband — serious, overworked, home-broken and seedy-looking. Marriage doesn't come dressed in bombazine, any more. It comes in a thousand attractive disguises, like soda water.

* * *

We don't even marry for the same old standardized reasons, today. Fancy a modern man marrying in order to acquire a cook and a housekeeper! Or an up-to-date girl marrying in order to get "Mrs." on her calling cards and a lifelong meal ticket!

We may marry for any one of a thousand reasons—for companionship or for romance; for a life-work or for an adventure; for experience or for inspiration; for love, for money, for a playmate, for a yoke-mate or for a working partner.

* * *

We may marry on a shoestring and we may marry on an impulse.

* * *

We may marry for life—or marry for an experiment. We may marry today, unmarry tomorrow, and remarry the next day!

* * *

Marriage has become the union of two individuals for their individual reasons—and it's nobody's business but their OWN!

* * *

But the point is, that today, yesterday and forever, we KEEP RIGHT ON MARRYING!

* * *

Marriage may be changed, diluted, disguised and "improved." But it is still the only union that satisfies the human soul. And no life is complete without it!

Isn't It So?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The most complete record of the World War and perhaps the most voluminous historical edition ever published has just been turned over to the New York Historical Society. It is in 400 volumes comprising more than 30,000 clippings from that many newspapers over the world.

The compilation is the quixotic effort of a modest and comparatively obscure historian named Otto Spengler. He spent three years at work on the record in a dingy basement on lower Third avenue. It is estimated the cost in labor and time was around $75,000.

During spare time, night and day, Spengler perused papers for what he calls "a humble gesture of posterity." At various times 10 assistants were paid out of his own pocket to assist him. After he finished his job he set about for capital to have them bound.

For months he appealed in person and by letter to various philanthropists. But seldom received the courtesy of a reply. About a year ago he received word that the building in which the clippings were stored was to be torn down.

He had only a few weeks to make disposition of his collection or they would be carted to a city dump and burned. Finally a letter to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., directed him to the historical society and after investigation Rockefeller furnished $30,000 for the binding.

The only provision was that the completed work should become the property of the historical society. The binding was done in black cloth and the compiler as a reward for his long and painstaking task has been made a life member of the historical society.

* * *

My interest in Otto Spengler—whom I never met—dates back to early days in the big city. He was then as now a self-effacing humanitarian. So far as I know the first time my name ever appeared in a New York newspaper, a clipping in a cheap yellow envelope was sent to me by him.

* * *

Overheard between two luncheon flappers in the Colony reception room. First: I didn't think you'd show up after that glaze of yours last night." Second: "I wasn't the only one glazed. You were swacked to the bangs yourself."

* * *

Wherever Homer Croy roams he registers from Marysville, Mo. And there are many illustrious who do not forget their birthplace in globe trotting. On a hotel register in Indianapolis, Ind., once the name above mine was "C. M. Schwab, Loretto, Pa." Sinclair Lewis in European hotels places "Sauk Center, Wis." after his name and Irvin Cobb has registered from Paducah since leaving there 30 years ago. Tommy Millard, who has spent most of his life in Shanghai and other far away places always registers at the Lambs in New York from Phelps County, Mo. And H. T. Webster exhibits the same pride in his native Tomahawk, Wis.

* * *

Up to date 234 letters, postcards and ringed clippings have poured in about a reference in this column to the white meat of a duck at La Tour d'Argent in Paris. There is no white meat to a duck. Anyway it looked as though it might be white. But in any event, hooters have shrivveled me to considerable proportions. Just now sitting on a dime I could not make my toes touch the floor.

* * *

O, yes, a postcard from Hollywood contains breathless tidings that "tossing a binge" means giving a party. Yet the saddest news from cinemaland was in a letter from a director. In a film he is now shooting are two former stars of the silent screen serving as extras. But charitably disguised so no one will recognize them. You'd be surprised who they are, too.

* * *

Another Lou Holz story is of the Broadway stew, told by his doctor after his release from Bellevue that he would have to quit drinking for good. "As it is," said the doctor, "bad booze has taken the coat entirely off your stomach."

"O.K.," said the victim, already slightly mackereled. "I'll just let it skim along in its shirt sleeves."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Ever hear of a swipe box? Most commercial artists use them. In these boxes they accumulate hundreds of clipped illustrations—fine drawings by talented men of animals, landscapes, people, buildings, machinery. Then, when the call comes for a certain picture, they do not need to hire a model or spend hours sketching. They simply go through their swipe box, select a drawing and copy that bit of it which they wish to use.

The result is a clever composition, mechanically perfect, but there's something wrong. It's pretty—even snappy—but it doesn't mean anything. There is no feeling in it, nor any power to move feeling in you. You've seen scrawls by little youngsters that seemed more REAL than this. Synthetic stuff—like near beer—it hasn't the authority.

You've seen people like that. Clever people, with a smart line of chatter . . . or gushing people, all full of sweet platitudes . . . or peevish people, who can tell you what's wrong with everything—yet they all fail to register. Like the commercial drawings, there's something missing. Nothing that they say seems REAL. And it isn't real. Those people are just walking swipe boxes, filled with notions, prejudices, ideas and wiseracks which they've gathered here and there—from some magazine article, over the radio, on the stage or down at the office. They could talk for a year and never once voice one original opinion. Then they wonder why they're not Big Shots. They wonder why people do not listen to them with awe and admiration.

The answer's plain enough. No opinion has "any authority" unless you dig it out for yourself, from your own experience and observation. Swipe-box ideas never pack a wallop. They may help you act smart, but they will never help you live big.

AND SOME DAY, WHEN YOU MOST NEED THEIR HELP, THEY WILL FAIL YOU.

For you can bet on this, stranger. You may make quite an impression at a party with a swipe-box brain—BUT SOONER OR LATER LIFE WILL CALL YOUR BLUFF. Some day you will come up against a crisis which will force you to prove where you stand. And if you don't know where you stand . . . if you've just been standing where the scenery looked prettiest . . . you're certainly in for a spell of grief.

And that's one of the things that ails America today. Once Americans were shrewd and original thinkers. They had to be. Pioneer folk had to do their own thinking, just as they had to do their own cooking, building, sowing, planting. Your grandpa, wrangling a living out of stubborn soil in endless, lonely hours, made up his own mind. He had one opinion where you have a million—BUT THAT OPINION MEANT SOMETHING. He had built it out of his own strength and weakness, measured it to his own capacity, fitted it to his own needs. It might be slightly cockeyed, nevertheless it had power because it was HIS REAL OPINION, not a borrowed bunch of words. He could back it with all he had. He could live by that opinion. He could, and often did, die by it.

But, for the last 20 years, AMERICA HAS BEEN LIVING ON CANNED INTELLIGENCE. We no longer wrangle for our opinions—we just listen in. As a consequence, we have no real convictions, we rarely think. So, when it comes to a pinch, most anyone can make a fool of us. AND MOST EVERYONE IS!

THINK! THINK FOR YOURSELF! Don't accept anyone else's opinion on any subject, no matter how clever and virile or virtuous that opinion may sound. Make up your own opinion. The result may not be very new or very smart but it will be REAL and you can bank on it. ONE ORIGINAL OPINION, EVEN THOUGH IT BE COCKEYED, WILL ENRICH YOUR LIFE MORE THAN A THOUSAND SWIPED SENTIMENTS.

The Prohibition Question—Repeal or Nullification

By Brand Whitlock

(From the "Little Green Shutter," by Brand Whitlock, published by D. Appleton & Co.)

(Copyright, 1931, by Brand Whitlock.)

TRAVELERS returning from abroad who have seen the Frenchman taking his mild aperitifs on the terrace of a cafe, or a German drinking beer in a beer-garden, smoking a long-stemmed tasseled meerschaum and listening to a Strauss waltz, say that we might learn from their example—which is quite true.

They propose a good-natured compromise. Let us, they say, "get together" and amend the Volstead Act, make a more liberal definition of the adjective "intoxicating" and permit the use of light wines and beers. Thus they would whip the devil around the stump, and everybody would be happy.

But in the first place, those who talk of reaching a compromise with the prohibitionists don't know the prohibitionists. It can never be demonstrated to their mystic fervor that prohibition does not prohibit, or that it is not the one and only solution of the problem.

"If the law does not prohibit," they will say, "it is only because it is not enforced rigorously enough."

AND NO degree of enforcement would ever satisfy them. Though fleets should scour the seas and armies harry the land, and hordes of spies rummage every cellar and closet in the commonwealth, still would they be unconvinced, and, blandly condescending to say that it was all good enough, so far as it went, insist upon the exercise of more vigorous and forceful means.

Our people were reared in the tradition and belief that the Constitution was intended to protect the personal rights of the private citizen against organized forces in the state that threatened to overwhelm him. But now vast numbers of citizens feel that this protection has been withdrawn and that they are exposed to an unreasonable interference in their private lives that is incompatible with their liberties.

Statutes are enacted prohibiting an act that they do not consider wrong and they do not feel in conscience bound to respect or obey these statutes. If the Eighteenth Amendment had been more flexible, granting to the federal government the power to deal with the liquor traffic, but leaving Congress to determine in what way the power should be exercised, the case might have been different, for some scope would have been left for the exercise of the popular will.

THE SOLUTION might not have been ideal, but then no solution of the liquor problem thus far proposed on this planet is ideal. It would at least have been democratic.

But when the provision was made so hard and fast, so rigid and absolute, that it not only granted the power, but prescribed the one and only manner in which the power should be exercised, it defeated its own ends, by imposing upon the federal government an insuperable task.

According to the American tradition, the police power is one to be exercised by the states. They have ample power to regulate and restrict or to prohibit altogether the traffic in intoxicating liquors, and the question should be remitted to them to be dealt with according to local sentiment.

The natural and logical step would be to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment. But we are not a logical people, and, even if we were, it is easier to get an amendment into the Constitution than to get it out.

THE REPEAL of the Eighteenth Amendment is a job that would take such a long time and involve such a complicated process that many consider it impracticable if not impossible. It would require a two-thirds vote in each House of Congress to submit the amendment, and acquiescence by three-fourth of the states to ratify it.

There are, indeed, vast difficulties in the way of making any change at all. Those who find a political advantage in upholding the Volstead Act, and those who profit financially by violating it, would unite in opposing any alteration. And those who make of prohibition a cult and a religion would be even more intransigent, for they have the holy obstinacy peculiar to the reformer, who is always the slave of his theory and can never escape its tyranny. Once his pride of opinion, his amour propre, is involved, he will listen to no reason or argument; he will entertain no idea of a change, or admit the slightest alteration in method, because this would involve his making the humiliating confession that, for once in his life, he had been mistaken.

But if the Eighteenth Amendment cannot be repealed or—if we must have federal control of the liquor traffic—superseded by another amendment with more flexible provisions, allowing Congress a wide latitude in dealing with the subject, then nullification of some sort is inevitable.

NULLIFICATION is a word that shocks the sincere partisans of prohibition, at least when it refers to the Eighteenth Amendment, for that has some peculiar sancity about it that places it above all other amendments. But by their reckless haste to imbed their prejudices in the Constitution, and to fix in a rigid and immutable mould their method as the only one possible, they have got us into such a mess that it is difficult to see how we are to get out of it without nullifying some part of the Constitution.

No article of the Constitution is self-enforcing; there is nothing automatic about it. It can be made effective only by the enactment of statutes, and by their enforcement.

Sincere efforts have been made to enforce the statute enacted to give effect to the Eighteenth Amendment, and, as there is ample evidence in the report of the Wickersham Commission to prove, they have not succeeded.

IT IS easy enough to urge more enforcement, but, to make prohibition a reality, it would be necessary to undertake a ruthless and expensive operation that could not be carried very far before the machinery of enforcement came to a dead center in the blind alley of democracy where the exasperated people refuse to turn their own weapons upon themselves.

In that case Congress might, and probably would, repeal the existing statutes, and refuse to enact others to give force and effect to the constitutional provision. Or, easier still, since all money bills must originate in the House of Representatives, that body alone might assert the historic parliamentary right, so often invoked in favor of liberty, of refusing to vote supplies. And this process would refer the question back to the states.

It would not be a very edifying way to dispose of the matter, leaving the Eighteenth Amendment in the Constitution to degenerate into a mere rudimentary organ. But it would be no new thing in our history if that were its fate. For the man in the well-worn story, who was "in favor of the law but ag'in' its enforcement" was a typical representative of our race.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Aren't you too impetuous?

Decide quickly and then rush into it pell mell?

Delay irritates you, for you want immediate action and you forget that there should be planning before definite action.

Perhaps that is why you meet so many obstacles?

You feel that there is time enough to overcome trouble when you meet it.

And your thoughtless rushing has put you in many a serious predicament in the past.

The man who concentrates on every move and is moderate and thoughtful about his undertakings is very annoying to you.

You try to hurry him by your rapid movements, but it only reacts upon your own side to its detriment.

Your restless demands for quick action disrupt home and family undertakings as well as your business so get hold of yourself and "key down."

CLASSES START IN CATHEDRAL OF LEARNING

Hundreds of East District Students for University; Many Part-Time Pupils

The University of Pittsburgh resumed regular sessions Monday, with 3,914 students registered in the undergraduate schools and 763 in the graduate school, including hundreds of students from East Communities districts. Registration in the freshman class was 100 less than last year's.

Registration is not complete in the professional schools of dentistry, law, medicine and pharmacy.

PART-TIME STUDIES

John Weber, business manager, said yesterday:

"While there is no great change in the number of students in the university this year, it seems evident that many students are taking part-time work instead of full-time."

To date, more than 2,000 students have registered in the downtown division of the university.

MINES ENROLLMENT LARGE

Registration in the School of Mines is the largest in the history of the school, according to Dr. Weber. Enrollment in the Engineering School is the second largest in its history.

Two floors in the Cathedral of Learning, seven and eight, are being devoted to classes this year for the first time, despite the fact that the walls and floors have not been finished.

SUPPORT ASKED FOR SCOUTS

Frank C. Demmler, president of East Boroughs Council, Boy Scouts of America, stressed the need of a more intensive program of youth guidance for that area and made a plea for adult support, before the executive board's monthly meeting Monday. He said:

"Never in history of scouting has the local scout organization had the opportunity to prove its real worth to the various communities which we serve than during the present era of depression. Today despite the obvious worthwhile work our scouts are accomplishing, public interest in the work was never at a lower ebb.

"Overemphasis of business decline has apparently deadened the public mind to high character of the youth-building process our council maintains. True, we have a group of men who have given unstintingly of their time and ability to the cause, but what scouting needs in our naturally progressive East Boroughs district today is the whole-hearted support of every adult in the entire territory."

Scout Honor Court In Trafford Tonight

Trafford Sportsmen Lodge tonight will be the scene of a Boy Scout court of honor for East Boroughs Council, with the awarding of Eagle badges scheduled as the feature event. Scoutmaster A. I. Bearer, 410 Fairmont avenue, Trafford, is one of the active members on the committee on arrangements.

WELFARE WORK IN BOROUGHS ORGANIZED

400 Wilkinsburg Volunteers Meet; Wilkins Arranges Benefits; Homestead Active

More than 400 volunteer workers held a pep meeting last week in the Allison School in preparation for the fund drive of the Wilkinsburg Relief Association.

The association has been organized in order that residents of Wilkinsburg may contribute to purely local welfare organizations as well as to the Allegheny County Welfare Association.

John H. Rhodes is chairman of the campaign committee and the Rev. O. H. Sisson is in charge of the workers who will canvass the town.

Several benefit card parties and shows are planned for Wilkins Township during the coming weeks. Squire J. W. Barker has announced that all fees collected in his cases would be used in relief work.

The Homestead Community Fund will resume activities this fall. Last year this fund provided milk, groceries and clothing to many needy families.

Announcement also has been made that the Community Welfare League of Pitcairn and the Welfare Association of Whitaker will launch campaigns this fall.

The annual drive for funds for the Homestead branch of the Salvation Army will be held October 5 to 11, according to an announcement by Christ McKinley, advisory board president. A budget adopted last week provides for $10,000 expenditures.

TRADE LEADERS BRAND LEVIES UNFAIR

Chamber Study Seeks Lower Rates; Wilkins Township Residents Renew Protest

Convinced that the present status of taxation in their respective districts is not what it should be, the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce and property owners in Wilkins Township have launched two separate investigations into methods of taxing property.

The commerce body has engaged an attorney to make an economic study of taxes in East Liberty. The chamber is of the belief that the taxes are unjust and that a thorough study of the situation may lead to a reduction. Members of the Board of Directors at their meeting last week pointed out that the high taxes were doing more to retard progress in East Liberty than any other one thing, by keeping out new business concerns. They intend to make a thorough investigation.

A. Patrick Flood, manager of the chamber said:

'We have secured a lawyer to make this study. We are going into this from the economic standpoint of a businessman and already have obtained some startling facts."

Wilkins Township Tax System Declared Unjust

Continuing their heated fight for reduced taxation, scores of small property owners of Wilkins Township met last night in the Franklin School, Greensburg pike, to present petitions signed by more than 1,000 persons, demanding a survey of assessments by the Tax Revision Board.

The Petitions charge gross discrepancies in the assessment of land and buildings.

It was decided at the meeting to have a delegation call upon the County Commissioners within the next 10 days and ask their aid in having a study made of the township's assessments.

INJUSTICE CHARGED

Andrew A. McKeever, tax collector, declared:

"We can show that the large land owner here is assessed at 20 per cent of the value, while the small home owner is assessed from 60 to 80 per cent of the market value of his property.

"This unfair assessment deprives the county and the township of huge sums annually. The wealthy escape, placing the burden of taxes on the shoulders of the small owners. By this unfair system the large land owner is able to hold his property indefinitely, and by holding the property in this manner is preventing construction."

M'NAIR LEADS FIGHT

Attorney William McNair, who was directly responsible for the tax campaign because of his series of lectures on modern taxation, addressed the meeting, asserting:

"If cities would collect 'economic rent' on vacant land it would open up opportunities for employment. This fact has been recognized by leading economists in our schools and colleges, but they have not received publicity. The business man has not been reached."

EDGEWOOD HALL BONDS FAVORED

Edgewood Borough Council acted favorably on the proposed bond issue for a new municipal building at their meeting Monday night. Temporary plans are to be drawn up for an $80,000 building by Lake & Davidson, architects of East Liberty. The plans will be displayed to the public and the taxpayers will vote on the bond issue at the November elections.

The building is to replace the present frame borough hall that has served the community for 30 years.

East Borough Scout Troops Re-Register

Twelve Boy Scout troops will reregister in the East Boroughs Scout Council this month, including Edgewood No. 2, Forest Hills No. 1, Wilkinsburg No. 2, Wilkinsburg No. 6, Braddock No. 1, Edgewool No. 3, Hebron No. 1, Pitcairn No. 1, Swissvale No. 4, Turtle Creek No. 4, Wilkinsburg No. 11 and Wilkins Township No 1.

Physician to Girls Appointed at Pitt

Dr. Auleen Marley Jamison has been appointed physician to girls on the staff of the Student Health Service at the University of Pittsburgh. She is replacing Dr. Marion Shepard, who resigned during the summer.

Dr. Marley is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh Medical School.

Homestead Hospital Board Posts Filled

James Hull has been selected secretary and George F. Lloyd treasurer of the Homestead Hospital board. The vacancies were caused by the resignation of John D. McConegly, who has held both positions for a number of years. Mr. McConegly felt it necessary to resign because he expected to be absent for some time.

CITY PROPOSES NEW HOSPITAL

Health Director C. B. Maits has submitted to City Council a report on the proposed establishment of a city hospital for the treatment of social diseases. His reports deals with the property of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd in Lincoln avenue.

This property, comprising 10.9 acres and including four buildings, has been considered for some time, it was pointed out in the report, and has been offered the city for $250,000.

Dr. Maits estimates that the building could be remodeled for the proposed hospital at a cost of $110,000 and would accommodate 100 patients and a staff of 32 persons.

Wilkinsburg Club Meets October 1

The Winkinsburg Triangle Club will meet October 1 at the home of Mrs. H. A. Kelly, 1312 Elm street. Mrs. D. N. France will discuss "Natural Resources of Pennsylvania." Mrs. G. T. Humbert will describe "Modes of Transatlantic Travel Since 1492."

Syria Ladies' Club Meets September 26

The regular monthly meeting of the Syria Ladies' Club will be held September 26 at the Hotel Schenley, with Mrs. Louise C. Lindeman, president, presiding.

CITY ZOO URGED IN FRICK WOODS

City Council and Park Supt. James Moore are considering a proposal to transfer the Highland Park zoo to Frick Woods. The change was suggested in a letter written to Council by a taxpayer who pointed out that the Frick Woods site is similar to that used in the Washington plan of keeping animals in natural habitats.

The letter further said that the cost of the transfer would be no greater than that of repairing and altering the present buildings in Highland Park.

EX-FIRE CHIEF RICHARDS DEAD

Funeral services were held Sunday for James Frederick Richards, 79, of 5615 Woodmont street, Squirrel Hill, former fire chief and member of Council, who died Thursday. Mr. Richards had served also as Sheriff and a member of the State Legislature. He was a member of Dallas Lodge, Ascalon Commandery and Syria Temple.

Mr. Richards leaves his widow, Mrs. Katherine Rischner Gerst Richards, and a sister, Mrs. Nellie R. Fuller.

Burial was Monday in Homewood Cemetery.

Wilmerding Tri-Hi To Greet Members

The second meeting of the Wilmerding Senior Tri-Hi-Y Club will be held Monday night, at which time new members will be received by the organization.

A dinner meeting in the "Y" dining rooms will be held the following day for the purpose of planning programs for all Tri-Hi-Y Girl Reserve clubs.

TWO CHURCHES TO BUILD

Two East communities churches are planning erection of new church buildings. The Pittsburgh Methodist Protestant Conference has authorized purchase of land in the Upper Monroeville road, Electric plan, Turtle Creek, for a church site. Messiah Lutheran Church is preparing plans for a new building in Homestead Park, Munhall.

The Rev. J. W. Hawley, of the Board of Church Extension, explaining the purchase of the site in Turtle Creek, said:

"Increasing growth of this district has made it necessary for erection of a church."

Wilkinsburg Trade Group Opens Year

The Wilkinsburg Business Men's Association held their first fall meeting in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel Monday evening. The session began with a dinner earlier in the evening.

H. R. Fielding, Oklahoma sales expert, addressed the meeting on "Sales and Service." Matters important to the administration of the association through the coming winter were discussed.

Widow Loses Fight to Save 137-Year-Old Homestead

One of Pittsburgh's last homesteads is about to became a wraith of former days. For six generations, the descendants of Thomas Ross, who built the comfortable old house in 1794 on a hill overlooking Lincoln avenue, have lived and died within its shelter.

Now the homestead must be sold to carry out the terms of the will of Charles Ross, the last of the line, who died a year ago. His widow has waged a futile fight to save the old house.

When Thomas Ross settled in the East Liberty Valley, that vicinity was part of Westmoreland County, according to his deed to the property dated October 8, 1788. The deed gave to Thomas Ross "a certain tract of land called Campania."

Hoover Spurns Membership In Bible Society

President Hoover has refused a life membership in the American Bible Society offered him by the Pittsburgh Presbytery, it was learned yesterday at the office of Dr. W. A. Jones, associate pastor of the first Presbyterian Church.

In his letter of refusal, the President stated that he did not believe he should accept the offer as he already had enough honors bestowed upon him.

The offer was made possible through a $130 donation by the Shadyside Presbyterian Church.

OLYMPICS OPEN M'KEESPORT GRID SEASON SUNDAY

TUBERS BEGIN PRO LEAGUE TITLE FIGHT

East Liverpool to Provide Opposition in Inaugural; Former Stars in Lineup

With the independent grid football conference swinging into action next Sunday, East End followers of the sport will naturally wend their way to Olympia Park, McKeesport, to see the opening game, featuring McKeesport Olympics and East Liverpool.

Last season the Olympics played at Rainbow Gardens, but this season Managers Boyer and Reed have taken a lease on Olympia Park, and with new grounds and a perfect playing field the Olympics seem headed for a banner season.

Fans are keyed up regarding the chances of the Tube City entry in the big professional loop, and it seems to be the opinion that the famous black and white team will cop the title now testing with Art Rooney's Majestics.

The Olympics flashed the make-up of the club last Sunday opposing the Ellwood City club, and it is possibly the strongest outfit ever handed together in the district. A classy list of former sandlot and college stars will be wearing the black and white including John Karcis and Highberger, Hymie Goldberg and Frazier, all former Carnegie Tech stars.

Buzz Edwards, former Washington Jeff backfield star; Hooks Carroll, Beeny Newlin and Ganzo Benedict, who did his stuff for old Duquesne last season, will also be fighting for a berth on the club.

Andy Cutler, former Pitt star, is coach of the East Liverpool club, and he promises the Tube City fans will see a real club in the Potters.

Cutler is not worrying about individual stars, but teamwork will count with the Potters outfit. The game will be called at 2:30. Preizel will referee, Harry Rohr will be umpire and Jack Harrison, linesman.

SOCCER TEAMS OPEN CENTRAL LOOP RACE

Booters to Pry Lid From Title Campaign Saturday; Circuit Well Balanced

By TOM BIRKS

The Central Soccer League gets started Saturday with eight well-balanced clubs and East End soccer fans are going to see one of the finest loops ever organized in the city, practically composed of clubs from that district.

The opening day finds the Pittsburgh Celtics clashing with their old rivals from the Strip, the Pittsburgh Rovers, the game to be played at Leslie Park, and this game is going to get the big crowd of the day.

The newly-formed Westinghouse Club from the Turtle Creek Valley will trek to McKeesport to meet National Tube. The German Sport Club goes to Swissvale to meet the Union Switch and Signal eleven, and the Clan Douglas aggregation leaves the East End to go to Crafton.

While the clubs seem to be evenly balanced, the edge should go to Jack Campbell's Union Switch team. The Swissvalers have been playing quite a schedule of warmup games and have won all of them. So by this time, teamwork so essential in soccer football, should be very much in evidence.

McNAIR CLEVER

However, the writer feels that Union Switch will need a center forward. Nelson is not the type to play along with Angus McNair. McNair is probably the cleverest soccer player in this district, and opens up the defense. Nelson, however, at center forward, while possessing plenty of dash, lacks the finesse necessary to complete McNair's work, and many openings will go a-begging.

Clough and Brown, the Union Switch backs, have been playing together a long time and should have a perfect understanding, while Dunn appears to be the best center half in the loop.

The Celtics failed to impress in the warm-up game last Saturday, but many critics felt that Tom Edwards was not showing everything that he had. The Pittsburgh Rovers and Douglas game was a fizzle from a spectators' standpoint.

Little cohesion was in evidence, many of the players showing a tendency to play to the gallery at the expense of players better situated to score goals.

DOUGLAS IN RUNNING

Douglas, as the champions, have plenty of class, and the team has been playing together for a long time. The Rovers need a good center halfback and Boylan will hardly fill the bill playing goal. However, these warm-up games hardly ever give the critic a chance to really size up players, and the games on Saturday might be entirely different.

Big crowds will attend the Leslie Park and Swissvale affairs, and there is a possibility that the National Tube team might prove a little more popular with the home-town fans.

McKeesport used to be one of the finest soccer towns in Western Pennsylvania, but the Tube City slumped during the past few years. If the Tubers go out and get a winner, there is a chance that the fans will again come back.

Dr. Duncan Upholds Nation's Dry Era

In the second of a series of sermons last Sunday, taken from his European tour, Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan, pastor of the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, East Liberty, upheld prohibition.

He said:

"Any one must be blind or mentally dull who fails to see that Europe and England are drinking vastly more than the people of America."

Dr. Duncan will continue his European talks for the next few Sundays.

Ninth Year Session Opens at Arnold

With the completion of junior student registration, Arnold School, Braddock avenue, Monday began its ninth year. Five new teachers were included on the faculty that greeted the students. They are:

Paul M. Heverly, assistant to Claude H. Hubbard, physical director; John S. Adams, assistant upper forms; Miss Olive Oliphant Harris, supervisor of primary grades; Miss Barbara Ziegler and Miss Lucile Laughlin Logan, assistants to Miss Harris.

MPICS OPEN M'KEESPORT GRID SEASON SUNDAY

...HY PITT... in Scope o...

...URSDAY BEGIN ...LEAGUE ...LE FIGHT

Liverpool to Provide ...osition in Inaugural; Madarmer Stars in Lineup

...ith the independent grid... football conference swing... into action next Sunday... ast End followers of the sport will naturally wend their way to Olympia Park, McKeesport, to see the opening game, featuring McKeesport Olympics and East Liverpool.

Last season the Olympics played at Renova Gardens but this season Managers Boley and Reed have taken a lease at Olympia Park and with new stands and a perfect playing field the Olympics seem headed for a banner season.

Fans are keyed up regarding the chances of the Tube City entry in the big professional loop and it seems to be the opinion that the famous black and white team will cop the title now resting with Art Rooney's Majestics.

The Olympics flashed the make-up of the club last Sunday opposing the Elwood City club and it is possibly the strongest outfit ever handed together in the district. A classy list of former sandlot and college stars will be wearing the black and white including John Karcis and Highweiger Hymie Goldberg and English all former Carnegie Tech stars.

Buzz Edwards former Washington backfield star, Hooks Carroll, Peeny Newlin and Ganzy Bennett who did his stuff for old Duquesne last season, will also be fighting for a berth on the club.

Andy Cutler former Pitt star is coach of the East Liverpool club, and he promises the Tube City fans will see a real club in the Potters.

Cutler is not worrying about individual stars, but teamwork will count with the Potters outfit. The game will be called at 2:30. Preizel will referee, Harry Robb will be umpire and Jack Harrison linesman.

ESTEP DENIED ZONING PLEA

Congressman Harry S. Estep was denied a permit to change a one-family dwelling at 3429 Beechwood boulevard to a two-family dwelling in a decision handed down Monday by the Zoning Board of Adjustment. It was pointed out that the dwelling is in a one-family zone.

Estep's case was among 13 referred to the board from the decisions of the superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection.

Mrs. Loretta Marino was given permission to build a one-family dwelling at 1230 Morningside avenue. Henry O. Tinker was granted a permit to build a four-car garage at 213-14 South Evaline street.

SOCCER TEAMS OPEN CENTRAL LOOP RACE

Booters to Pry Lid From Title Campaign Saturday; Circuit Well Balanced

By TOM BIRKS

The Central Soccer League gets started Saturday with eight well-balanced clubs and East End soccer fans are going to see one of the finest loops ever organized in the city, practically composed of clubs from that district.

The opening day finds the Pittsburgh Celtics clashing with their old rivals from the Strip, the Pittsburgh Rovers, the game to be played at Leslie Park, and this game is going to get the big crowd of the day.

The newly-formed Westinghouse Club from the Turtle Creek Valley will trek to McKeesport to meet National Tube. The German Sport Club goes to Swissvale to meet the Union Switch and Signal eleven, and the Clan Douglas aggregation leaves the East End to go to Crafton.

While the clubs seem to be evenly balanced, the edge should go to Jack Campbell's Union Switch team. The Swissvalers have been playing quite a schedule of warmup games and have won all of them. So by this time, teamwork so essential in soccer football, should be very much in evidence.

McNAIR CLEVER

However, the writer feels that Union Switch will need a center forward. Nelson is not the type to play along with Angus McNair. McNair is probably the cleverest soccer player in this district, and opens up the defense. Nelson, however, at center forward, while possessing plenty of dash, lacks the finesse necessary to complete McNair's work, and many openings will go a-begging.

Clough and Brown, the Union Switch backs, have been playing together a long time and should have a perfect understanding, while Dunn appears to be the best center half in the loop.

The Celtics failed to impress in the warm-up game last Saturday, but many critics felt that Tom Edwards was not showing everything that he had. The Pittsburgh Rovers and Douglas game was a fizzle from a spectators' standpoint.

Little cohesion was in evidence, many of the players showing a tendency to play to the gallery at the expense of players better situated to score goals.

DOUGLAS IN RUNNING

Douglas, as the champions, have plenty of class, and the team has been playing together for a long time. The Rovers need a good center halfback and Boylan ... hardly fill the bill playing ... these warm-up ...

Short Story -:- Marriage Test

By CHARLES SLOAN REID

With his arms around Mag in the doorway of his cabin, Bill Mason squeezed his bride until she gasped for breath. Mag was a bride of less than 12 hours. The wedding had been a stolen one, for old Anse Melton had been opposed to the match with all of the stubbornness and vindictiveness of his nature. He was a widower, and Mag was the only daughter. He needed Mag, and he had sworn that Bill Mason never should have her as long as he lived.

But it never yet has fallen out that love could not find a way, so Mag had slipped from Anse's cabin in the dead of night, when the old man was snoring his loudest, and had met Bill with the preacher and his friends, at the log schoolhouse in Brushy Face Gap. There the ceremony had been performed by the light of a pine knot in the schoolhouse chimney. The usual tin-pan serenade had been dispensed with, as it was not desired to arouse old Anse whose cabin was just across the ridge from Bill's.

It was almost sunrise, and Bill was preparing to leave his bride for the day. His job was making logs from the mountainside down into the river, whence they were to be floated to a sawmill 12 miles below.

"Say, gal, I shore hate to leave yuh, but I reckon now I ain't got no time to lose. Yuh're the finest gal as ever these 'ere mountain skies took a look at. Lord, I love yuh so hard I could a most eat yuh."

Mag laughed heartily, a clear, silvery peal that came back in echo from down the ravine. "Well, yuh ain't got nothin' on me, Bill," she declared. "'cause I got the biggest an' finest man as ever trod a trail in these 'ere hills."

It was almost nightfall when Bill Mason strode into the little cabin clearing. Pushing open the door softly, he entered. Then he stopped on the threshold. The cabin was empty. The embers in the fireplace were cold. No one had been there for some time. What could have happened? Soon Bill began to see signs of confusion. A chair was overturned.

"Old Anse!" he exclaimed. "He's been here an' dragged her off."

Snapping his teeth together firmly, he set off across the ridge towards Anse Melton's house. Reaching the cabin after a brisk walk, he seized the latch string, and gave it a vigorous jerk. The door failed to open. It was barred on the inside.

"Mag!" called Bill.

"I be here," came from inside the cabin in Mag's tremulous tones. "Dad drug me home."

"Yeah, I done it! An' here she's a goin' to stay, Bill Mason!" It was the voice of Anse speaking.

"Yuh're crazy as a bayed bobcat, Anse Melton!" Bill shouted. "You turn my wife out'n there! She ain't your'n no longer; she's mine, by all the law an' the Gospel, an' I'm a goin' to have her, or somethin's a goin' to happen, that's all!"

"You git away from that quick, or I'll bore yuh wi' a bullet right through thet door!" Anse's voice had risen almost to a screech.

Following this threat there were the sounds of a struggle inside the cabin, then the sound of an object crashing to the floor. The next moment the muzzle of a long rifle came through the cat-hole in a lower corner of the door.

Grab thet gun an' jerk hit out!" shouted Mag.

Bill seized the rifle and snatched it far into the yard. Following this came the sound of blows from the cabin, and Bill realized that Anse was beating Mag, although the girl was making no outcry. Bill's blood boiled. The cabin was built of logs and the door was of heavy oak timbers. It was impossible for Bill to break it down with any means at his disposal. He looked about him. In the yard a few feet away was a pile of lightwood, rich in resin. The young mountaineer allowed himself a grin of satisfaction despite his anger, as he strode over to the heap of lightwood. Gathering an armful he returned to the cabin, where he threw it down under one corner.

"Anse," he shouted, "thar's one way I never knowed to fail o' gittin' a fox out'n his hole, if I couldn't do it no other way."

"What in Sam Hill air yuh a talkin' about, Bill Mason?" came the query from beyond the wall.

"When I can't do it no other way, I smokes him out, Anse. You forgot you had a big pile o' lightwood out here, ain't yuh? Well, I'm startin' a fire under suh' shanty. I'm sorry at Mag'll ha' to suffer any, but I'm a riskin' gittin' her out when the corner o' the cabin falls in; if hit comes to that."

"You onery skunk," screeched Anse, "don't yuh dare to stick no fire to this shanty!"

"I'm the same thing as done it, already, Anse."

Bill struck a match, and soon had a rich pine-knot in a red blaze, the black smoke immediately finding its way through cracks between the boards of the door at one corner of the cabin. Mag began to laugh.

"Shet yore mouth, yuh hussy!" shouted Anse. "Don't yuh know thet fool's about to burn the house down on yuh?"

"I reckon I can stand it as long as you can, Dad," Mag was still laughing.

"Out'n thet fire, Bill Mason!" old Anse shouted.

"Open thet door!" came a counter command from Mason.

"I'll never do it!"

"Then I'll never out'n the fire!"

"Mag, air yuh a hurtin' any, honey?" he called.

"Non to say, Bill," she answered. "I reckon Paw'll weaken soon. He's got his nose to a crack."

The smoke now was issuing from between the logs all over the cabin, pitch-pine smoke, stifling in its heaviness. Presently there was the sound of lumbering footsteps across the floor, and a heavy body fell against the door. There was fumbling at the bar. A moment later old Anse staggered into the yard, holding his nose and shading his eyes. Mag came after him and fell into Bill's arms.

It required but a moment for Bill to scatter the fire he had started under the house. Anse, with his air passages once more cleared, presently looked up at Bill with a grin.

"Yuh got me beat, Bill," he declared. "Yuh're a smart feller, an' I reckon yuh'll make Mag a first-rate man. Take her an' welcome. An' say, I'll be over a Sunday an' take dinner wi' yuh."

Anse extended his hand, which Bill grasped while Mag clung to his arm with many streaks of soot-laden perspiration marring her cheeks.

1,029 ATTEND JUNIOR HIGH

Showing an increase of approximately 8 per cent over last year, North Braddock Junior High School opened the new year with an enrollment of 1,029, the largest in the history of the school. Three buildings, the Jones Avenue, Verona Street and the Hartman Junior High on Wolf avenue, are filled almost to capacity with the seventh, eighth and ninth graders. The Jones Avenue and Verona Street buildings operate as one unit.

Four changes appear in the teaching staff. Rebecca Guffey, teaching geography and English, and Andrew Rensko, instructor in history and civics, are new at the Hartman School. Robert N. Ford, mathematics, and Walter J. Weitthoff, Latin, are new teachers assigned to the Verona Street building.

A straight academic course of study with special work in vocational guidance is being given all students. Industrial arts with shop work for all boys and home economics for girls are provided in the schedule. One period a week for health education and gymnasium work has been set aside for each student.

Swissvale School Road Contract Let

Horace Mockett has been awarded the contract for building a concreted driveway, costing $1,400, at the Newmeyer School grounds, Hampton and St. Lawrence avenues, Swissvale. The school board intended to arrange for additional improvements at this school, but was restricted because of lack of funds, it was learned from the board's secretary.

Banquet to Honor East Scoutmasters

Scoutmasters and their assistants in the East End district will be honored at a banquet, October 15, in the Darlington Lodge, near Aspinwall. C. T. Harnack, Swissvale, district commissioner, is general chairman.

Dinner arrangements are in charge of C. W. Over, scoutmaster of Troop 55, Christ Methodist Episcopal Church.

Harbor Front at Marseilles Where Narcotic Ring Captured Vice-Consul Lee

Caught by "DOPE RING" with Poison Gas!

No Crime "Thriller" of Fiction as Exciting as Killing of British Vice-Consul After His Spying Interfered With Plans of International Narcotic Ring

ONCE again there is proof that truth is stranger than fiction . . . This time it is in connection with the strange capture of Reginald Lee, British Vice-Consul at Marseilles and Secret Service Agent, who was later killed by the international drug gangsters who trapped him.

The illustration on the right shows how Vice-Consul Lee was captured by poison gas . . . The murder that followed resulted in the undoing of the wicked syndicate . . . Just how it happened makes one of the most exciting tales you have ever read . . . Be sure to look for it in next Sunday's issue of The American Weekly.

This Is How Jet of Poison Gas Was Shot Into Face of British Vice-Consul Lee, of Marseilles, from Jewelled Vanity Case of Woman Lure of Narcotic Ring. He Was Carried Away; and Later He Was Murdered. $30,700 BUHL FUND FOR PITT GRADUATES

Grant Establishes Courses In Social Work Training Over Three-Year Period

The Buhl Foundation has announced a $30,700 grant to establish courses in field training for graduate students in social work at the University of Pittsburgh. The grant will be paid over a period of three years.

Charles F. Lewis, director of the foundation, explained that the purpose of the grant was to provide practical training for students. He said:

"Increasingly in recent years the need for more adequate training of social workers has been recognized. The various case and group workers and executives of the manifold forms of social welfare enterprises require not only a broad educational background, but also the practice and theory of highly specialized techniques if they are to meet the challenges of their professional life. This need has been recognized by the American Association of Social Workers in its rigorous requirements for membership."

'DRUMMER BOY' OF '61 DEAD

Funeral services were held Monday for James Todd Buchanan, 85, who died in his home, 423 South Graham street. He was born in Pittsburgh, graduated from George Washington University and for 55 years had practiced law here.

He enlisted in the Pennsylvania Volunteers during the Civil War as a drummer boy at the age of 16, and later as a private. He was a member of Gen. Alexander Hays Post No. 3, G. A. R.; the Fourth Presbyterian Church, and the Allegheny Bar Association.

He leaves his widow, Henrietta Ladd; two sons and two daughters, John W. and Charles E. Buchanan, Mrs. A. Q. Starr and Mrs. K. Burns, all of Pittsburgh.

JEWISH FEAST OF HARVEST TO BEGIN

Succoth Observance Brings Holiday Season to Close; Yom Kippur Rites Held

Pittsburgh Jewry will begin their celebration of the Feast of Booths, known as Sukkoth, tomorrow. The holiday, which will continue for seven days, is the harvest celebration. The day following will be shemini atzereth, or the eighth day of solemn convocation. The ninth day will be simhath torah, the rejoicing of the law.

Sukkoth brings to a close the holiday season of tishri, the seventh month of the Jewish calendar, during the past month of which the spiritual New Year and the day of atonement were also observed.

It is tradition that Jews lived in booths for eight days during this festival, commemorating the sojourn of the children of Israel in booths during their passage through the wilderness.

Pittsburgh Jews joined in a worldwide observance of Yom Kippur, the day of atonement, Monday, bringing to a close a 10-day period of penitence. The 24-hour fast of Yom Kippur ended at sundown Monday with the blowing of the shofar.

Rabbi A. M. Ashinsky spoke in the Beacon Club Sunday night, and Monday afternoon he conducted services in Beth Jacob Synagogue, with evening services in Beth Hammedrash Hagodol Congregation.

Rabbi Goodman A. Roose conducted services in Beth Shalom Synagogue. Rabbi H. Goldenson spoke to Reformed Jews in Rodef Shalom Temple and Rabbi B. B. Glazer spoke in Carnegie Music Hall.

New Play to Aid Father Cox's Relief Fund

Rehearsals were started Monday night for a new play, "Out for the Count," which will be presented by the Pittsburgh Amateur Stock Company, November 10 and 11, at the East Liberty Carnegie Library. The production is being presented for the benefit of Father Cox's relief fund.

The play, written by Earl J. Cox, has a large cast, including Mrs. Roselyn Miller Keenan, Miss Margaret Kelly, Miss Margaret Slusser, J. Herbert Angell, Joseph J. Keenan, James Keenan, James Loder, "Hap" Waddell, "Huck" Burns and John McGeown.

BRADDOCK CLUB OPENS YEAR

Presidents of neighboring clubs brought greetings when the Woman's Club of Braddock officially opened its 1931-1932 season yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. R. E. Thompson, 133 Gordon street, Edgewood. Mrs. George Martin, president of the Braddock club, welcomed members and visitors and outlined briefly plans for the new year.

A musical program was given and members answered roll call with accounts of their summer travels.

Hostesses were Mrs. Joseph Wills, Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. Harold Lamb, Mrs. W. E. Coulson, Mrs. W. S. Davis, Mrs. George Horne, Mrs. W. T. Morgan, Mrs. I. W. Keener, Mrs. John Hanna, Mrs. Reuben Abbiss, Mrs. Harry Gwynne, Mrs. Lawrence James and Mrs. J. P. Harman.

SEYBOLD MADE COMPTROLLER

With investiture services Sunday in the First United Presbyterian Church of Braddock, East Boroughs Council, Boy Scouts of America, will greet its youngest troop, Braddock No. 2. F. B. Kniskern, chairman of the organization committee of the council, will direct the services.

The Troop committee includes the Rev. Guy D. Wallace, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, of Braddock, J. O. McClure, F. R. Hilsman, J. R. Cunningham, J. W. Cruikshank, and R. C. Cox, chairman. Charles F. Laughery has been chosen as scoutmaster and Edison W. D. Click will be his assistant.

Old Western Town Kept Up to Date

CENTRAL CITY, Col.—(INS.)—This one-time bonanza town of the Colorado gold field, is being brought up to date. A new motorized chemical and hose truck was recently purchased through subscription to take the place of the bucket brigade and manpower hose cart. "Central City has never had a fire truck before," Fire Chief William C. Ziege explained. "We were getting a little bit behind the times, I guess. I've covered about 25,000 miles running to fires, so it will be a pleasure to ride for a change."

Pack of Salmon Equals That of 1930

WASHINGTON.—(INS.)—It is believed that this year's salmon pack in Alaska may equal the pack of 5,032,326 cases in 1930, because of the generally very satisfactory condition of the Alaska fisheries this year, according to Henry O'Malley, commissioner of the Commerce Department's Bureau of Fisheries. The runs in most places have been very good, he reports, and the pack has been above expectations since there was a considerable voluntary curtailment of fishing operations because of economic conditions.

Depression Causes Increased Sickness

NEW YORK.—(INS.)—Economic depression has caused a marked increase in illness of this city. A statement to this effect contradicted one recently issued by Surgeon General Hugh S. Cummings, chief of the public health service, saying the industrial depression "seems to have had no general adverse effect on health and mortality rates."

Unofficial figures show that many people in need of medical attention have been forced to remain away from institutions because of financial difficulties.

Japanese Pupils Go to Two Schools

HONONLULU.—(INS.)—Opening simultaneously with the public schools approximately 170 Japanese language schools with an enrollment of above 40,000 pupils, half of the entire pupil population in the territory, has begun classes. Students in the language schools of various nationalities here, Japanese, Chinese and Korean, attend these institutions after the public schools dismiss them for the day.

GARDEN PRIZES GIVEN WOMEN

The Penn Hebron Unit of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association will hold a dance and card party tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock in the new club home, Jefferson road, Penn Township. Mrs. Harry Reiter is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Stewart Davidson, Mrs. C. E. Clummy, Mrs. Robert Brown and Mrs. W. L. Lawrence.

Winners have been announced in the club's third annual exhibit. They are:

First prize for the best flower garden, Mrs. Mary Hood, Conestoga road; second prize, Mrs. Mary Wilt, also of Conestoga road.

Best vase or basket of wild flowers, Mrs. T. J. Klingensmith, first, and Mrs. W. J. Snyder, second.

Best arrangement for dining table, Mrs. J. A. Morrow, first, and Mrs. William Hofmeister.

Best library arrangement—Mrs. Howard Miller, first, and Mrs. Snyder, second.

Female Servant Makes Unique Claim

DETROIT, Mich.—(AP.)—Claiming that she was the champion female "handy-man-of-all-work" for her erstwhile employer, Dr. Adrian R. Jones, Miss Florence Palmer is suing for $2,500, including 65 weeks back salary. "Cook, seamstress, laundress, scrub woman, office girl, assistant in operations, chaperone, body guard, bill collector, business assistant, financial guide and advisor, breeder of police dogs and seller thereof, pants presser and buffer against wiles of amorously inclined females." The doctor answered the charges with "She was only an incompetent maid whom I discharged. I don't owe her a cent."
